Congo War Powers for U.N. Eyed by U.S.

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States wants United Nations forces in the Congo strengthened and given full power to use force if necessary to end the civil war. This would be the prelude to a broad political compromise with the turbulent African country.

President Kennedy and his top advisers believe, it became known Saturday, that U.N. forces must be empowered, in the last resort, to take to the field to subdue warring elements. But they hope increased U.N. force and authority would be needed only to block entry into the Congo of unauthorized military personnel and supplies and to carry out police functions to neutralize the feuding factions.

At the same time, the United States apparently leans toward a compromise solution within the Congo which would permit the late

100 Picket Consulate in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—About 100 persons picketed the Belgian Consulate in downtown Los Angeles Saturday over the death of ex-Congolese Premier Lumumba.

The pickets carried placards reading, "Avenge Lumumba," "Dag Must Go," "End American and Belgian Imperialism," and "End Belgian Colonialism."

Most of those who paraded in front of the consulate at 448 S. Hill St. were young people. Some merchants complained the picketing was hurting their business.

In San Francisco, an ever-growing crowd of African and American students demonstrated in protest Saturday before the Belgian consulate, singing in Swahili "we want him, Lumumba."

The protest of Lumumba's assassination was led by Kenya postgraduate student Maina Wanjigi, 29, an economics major at Stanford University.

(This is the first in a series of articles on California's little known Channel Islands.)

The CG83434, engines throbbing, slowly made its way past Prince Island into wind-swept, desolate Guyler Harbor.

Two Coast Guardsmen, bundled in parkas, clung to life lines on the bow of the pitching, trembling cutter. In the fading light the rock-rimmed shore, flanked by barren sand dunes, was an unearthly scene.

"Looks like the end of the world," said one of the men. "Farther out than that," corrected the other.

This was San Miguel Island, 100 miles seaward of Long Beach and the eighth and final landfall of an adventure just over the horizon—a tour of the Channel Islands.

These islands—San Miguel, Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, Anacapa, Santa Barbara, Santa Catalina, San Nicolas and San Clemente in a north-south order—form a 150-mile-long archipelago that stretches offshore from Santa Barbara to San Diego.

Although the islands form a land area about one-third the size of Rhode Island and are but minutes by air from the mainland, they are, with the exception of Catalina, as little known and remote to millions of Southern Californians as the darkest spot in Africa.

By plane, by boat, by jeep and on foot I, P-T photographer Bryan Hodgson and I visited these islands. We found endless variety in climate, animal and plant life, human industry, history and natural beauty.

WE VISITED CAVES where prehistoric men scratched marine murals on the sandstone walls, walked through the eerie quiet of a ghost town, jeeped through verdant valleys where fat Herefords and Arabian stallions grazed, scaled a 200-ft. cliff to a village where television antennas are suspended from living room ceilings because 60

U.S. Puts New Discoverer in Orbit, Scores 'First' in Restarting Engine

VANDENBERG AIR BASE (AP)—Discoverer XXI shot into orbit Saturday, then—by re-starting its engine on a signal from the ground—showed how currently passive sky spies can be converted into maneuverable military space craft.

The Air Force said this was the first time an Agena B satellite vehicle had been re-started in orbit.

The Agena engine was ignited on the satellite's first pass around the earth's poles.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Missile Division, said Saturday's attempt was only to test the restart system.

"IT IS ANOTHER successful experiment to perfect the system for satellite stabilization and control in orbit," the general said.

No attempt to recover any part of the satellite will be made.

A satellite capable of re-starting its engine in space could:

- 1—Speed up, slow down or dart off in another direction to dodge a ballistic missile sent to destroy it. It would be much harder to hit than the high-flying U2 plane shot down by Russia last spring.
  - 2—Change the shape, altitude or angle of its orbit on command.
- When perfected, it could

U.S. Offers $100 Million to Brazilians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has offered Brazil an immediate credit of up to $100 million to tide that nation over a pressing dollar shortage.

Well-informed sources here said the offer was made on the instructions of President Kennedy shortly after Brazilian President Janio Quadros took office Jan. 31.

THE U.S. offer presumably would be an entirely new credit, aimed at providing the Quadros administration a margin on which to operate while it brings Brazil's financial house into order.

The outgoing administration of President Juscelino Kubitschek is said to have committed most of the revenues which the new administration could expect in its first months in office.

There has been some speculation that the recent Russian Venus rocket demonstrated a restart capability but Soviet announcements were too meager for accurate judgment.

The launching was delayed several hours to make sure that Discoverer XX, fired Friday, was far out of range.

Discoverers maintain a horizontal position—a necessary for accurate ejection of recoverable capsules—by spurring jets of compressed gas in an opposite direction whenever they start to veer off course or wobble.

These same jets can be used to change the satellite's altitude in space. If its nose is pointing away from earth when the engine is restarted, the satellite will shoot farther out into space.

Travelers Stranded at Air Terminals

NEW YORK (AP)—A flight engineers' strike against six of the nation's major domestic and overseas airlines returned to full bloom late Saturday after a presidential appeal gave earlier indications of a temporary settlement.

A spokesman for the 3,500-member engineers' union admitted the travel-crippling walkout was unauthorized, but expressed doubt this would have any effect on bringing the engineers back to work.

Thousands of persons milled around airports across the nation waiting for flights that eventually were canceled or delayed for hours by the strike action and sympathy walkouts.

The temporary settlement appeared near about noon when officials of the union ordered strikers against Pan American World Airways to return to their jobs in compliance with President Kennedy's request for a 60-day cooling-off period while a special board studied the labor disagreement.

IT WAS Pan American flight engineers who touched off the strike Friday night at New York's Idlewild Airport in a dispute over a reduction of work time for the engineers.

The walkout soon mushroomed across the nation as flight engineers for other carriers began to report sick or failed to report at all.

(Because of the walkout, Western Airlines canceled its two San Diego flights into Long Beach Municipal Airport Saturday. Officials said there is little chance the flights will resume today.)

Airline officials termed the stoppage an illegal walkout—and injunctions were sought by several lines to force the engineers back to work.

SOON AFTER the stoppage erupted anew, a federal court order was issued in Brooklyn barring the flight engineers' union from engaging in strikes or refusing to accept flight assignments.

Judge Leo F. Rayfield's order forbade the engineers to strike before Feb. 28 and called for a hearing Feb. 27 on the injunction petition filed by Pan American.

A Pan American spokesman at Idlewild said, however, that the order, or any other actions, so far had failed to get the men back on the job.

WHEN CALLED by telephone for flight assignments, he said, the engineers either reported sick or refused to answer their telephones.

A federal judge in Miami granted a temporary restraining order to Eastern Air Lines and ordered their engineers to return. Several other applications for similar orders were filed by other airlines.

Ron Brown, president of the engineers' union, said in Washington the engineers are conducting a protest walkout against a decision of the Federal Mediation Board last Feb. 6.

THE BOARD SAID then the flight engineers would have to join the Air Line Pilots Association as one single bargaining unit.

"While the walkout is unauthorized by this international," Brown said, "we cannot say that it comes as a complete surprise."

He said the engineers last week went to Washington to seek "relief through the Con-

Friends and Foes Give AMA Split Personality of Angel-Devil

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Some few years back, psychiatrists described the curious case of a young woman who was three different personalities.

At times she was a prudish, frustrated housewife. Suddenly an irresponsible hellion took over. Again, she could be somewhat of a compromise between the two.

Today, so far as opinion and viewpoints are concerned, the AMA—the American Medical Association—presents three different faces as it engages in rousing debate over how best to provide medical care for the nation's older citizens.

Beyond question, the AMA is the world's largest and most influential medical organization.

Looking into its own mirror, the AMA sees: A sincere, dedicated champion of the best possible medical care for all . . . preceptor of the highest standards and ethics of medical research . . . pioneer in solving health problems of persons and communities . . . arch-foe of charlatans and quacks . . . and unyielding enemy of "socialized" medicine.

But its critics paint the AMA as:

A closed-shop union overly dedicated to maintaining high incomes for doctors . . . a monopoly and powerful lobby abetting a doctor shortage and moving too slowly in stamping out practices of fee splitting and ghost surgery . . . A citadel of conservatism controlled by a handful of "chiefs" with too many doctor "Indians" paying insufficient attention to policy . . . bitter foe of truly effective plans to help patients meet medical bills.

To the general public, a third face of the AMA is in uncertain focus.

Some persons tend to admire all doctors because of the personal devotion and skill and even sacrifice of one physician . . . others tar all physicians and the AMA because of one doctor's delayed or erroneous diagnosis, or especially, a fee.

The AMA, a lusty 150 years old, is commended by most people for some of its many activities. But it's also assailed at times on charges of suppressing some "cure" for diseases on grounds a cure would reduce doctors' incomes—a charge overlooking the fact that doctors and their wives and children suffer and die from the same maladies.

The great controversy now is whether medical care for the aged shall be provided through Social Security taxes levied upon all citizens—a plan favored by President Kennedy—or through voluntary insurance plans, championed by the AMA.

The AMA attacks the Social Security plan as a step-

L.A.C. Says: Those Wasted Years

The first group of workers to lose their jobs when a recession occurs is the unskilled workers. When millions are unemployed there are always jobs seeking the more skilled individual. It is unfortunate that young people cannot be impressed with this fact as they enter high school—or college. A few years later it will be too late to prepare themselves by taking advantage of the schools they are attending.

A recent Wall Street Journal survey showed how corporations continue to seek out college students about to graduate with special training. They want engineers, accountants and many other classifications. The survey tells of a shortage of really qualified stenographers and secretaries. We were told by a machine shop operator that he has trouble getting qualified machinists.

It is not necessary to go to college to acquire some of these skills. They are taught in high school or in business colleges where one year or less can train a secretary. There are many secretaries—but few that can manage an office—take dictation and transcribe it accurately. Those who are efficient and well trained are assured of well paid, attractive jobs.

The tragedy is that so many teenagers refuse to take their future seriously. They are so concerned with sports, parties and other social activities they give little thought to the time only five or six years ahead when they must start taking care of themselves. They disregard the idea that a normal life means marriage and children—and that a full life is dependent upon your earning ability.

The habits of work and accepting responsibility form the key to a successful life. Unless these habits are established while in high school those years may be wasted. The young person who can decide the kind of work he wants to do and starts preparing for it in high school is far ahead of the crowd. He can be preparing himself for taking specific work in college to make him a sought-for graduate. But many coast through college as they do high school, and come out without any useful qualifications.

Five or six years wasted in your teens can mean the rest of your life will be frustrated. There is no more tragic occurrence than looking back on the wasted years that might have produced so much. Very few parents have been able to impress these facts on their young people. Far too many parents do not even try. The schools offer the opportunities but they cannot force the students to use them.

It is more important than ever before that people be skilled in some vocation if they are to have the security so demanded by them. Almost all of us want to live as well off better than our parents did. But this goal will be denied to those who refuse to prepare themselves at the early ages when the foundations must be laid. These are facts which we wish could be impressed on all the young people of today.—L.A.C.

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Jeweler James Day, who often carried gems in his auto, fitted two locks to every door of the car, three to the trunk and two chains to each door window.

Friday his parked burglarproof car was burgled of 7,000 pounds ($19,600) worth of jewelry. The burglars got in by jimmying open one of the ventilation windows—which was unchained and unlocked.

Fidel Rushes to Check Big Battle Toll

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro has rushed to central Cuba, where a band of insurgents in the Escambray Mountains are inflicting heavy casualties on his inexperienced militia, a high army source said Saturday.

The source said Castro left Friday night for Santa Clara with his field commanders after Maj. Dermidio Escalona reported he was "gravely concerned" because his militiamen were suffering between 20 and 30 casualties daily in guerrilla fighting.

Reliable sources have estimated 2,000 guerrillas are holding out in Las Villas province against about 30,000 recently recruited militiamen. But insurgent resistance was reported stiffening.

MOST OF THE government casualties were reported in the Trinidad-Sancis Spiritus-Fomento triangle where the insurgents were reported to have repulsed several attempts to dislodge them from their well-protected mountain positions.

Military sources emphasized the militiamen have completed a double ring around the insurgents to prevent help reaching them by land. They said the casualties were inflicted on units which were ambushed as they moved within these circles.

Cuban army commanders also were portrayed as dismayed over a lack of cooperation from peasants in the central Cuba area, compounding the government's problem of finding food and housing for its far-flung units.

JFK Defense Budget May Exceed Korean War Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defense budget, as revised by the Kennedy administration for the next fiscal year, may approach or exceed the peak spending in the Korean War.

The estimate for the year starting next July 1, as submitted to Congress by the Eisenhower administration, was $42.9 billion. Speculation is that additions to this may range up to $2 billion. Such a boost would top the $43.7 billion military budget of fiscal 1953, peak spending year of the Korean War.

At the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and his aides are working up a new study of strategy as directed by President Kennedy. Until that is completed—by the end of this month—and turned over to the President and his budget makers, no firm estimate of the revised military budget can be made.

HOWEVER, SOME preliminary moves, made in response to Kennedy's request for accelerated action in defense programs, obviously will cost more money which presumably would appear in the revised fiscal 1962 bill.

First of these items is addition of 55 jet and prop-jet transport planes for troop and cargo airlift.

Responding to the President's request, the Pentagon—like other federal departments—is trying to eliminate spending for items or organizations that have become obsolete.

But the constantly mounting requirements of defense virtually assure that an increase in military spending is in prospect.

These requirements arise out of the unrelenting arms race with the Communist powers and swift strides made in weapon technology. The demands have confronted both Democratic and Republican administrations since World War II.

IN THE NEARLY 16 years since that global conflict—including three years of Korean War—the United States has spent more than half a trillion dollars on defense.

In fiscal 1946, expenditures were about $42 billion. They dropped to a post-war low of $11 billion in fiscal 1948, then zoomed to $43.7 in fiscal 1953.

By the middle of the 50s, ballistic missiles and nuclear submarines were beginning to come into the picture. Deliveries in volume began in the past few years. Expanding research and test programs added to the totals. The spending estimate for the current year is something over $41.5 billion.

During the past week, McNamara issued orders designed to start into action the defense program acceleration requested by Kennedy.

Thousands Cut Off by Snowstorm

By United Press International

A heavy snow- and ice storm battered the Midwest Saturday, disrupting communications and electrical power, and virtually isolating several Iowa communities.

Several thousand Iowans, including a community of 3,700 persons shivered in frigid temperatures without heat, power or telephone service.

Winterset, a community of 3,700 about 30 miles southwest of Des Moines, was cut off from the remainder of the state as heavy ice snapped telephone and electric lines.

Lenox was without electrical power, telephone, or water for 18 hours. But late Saturday the highway patrol reported service was partially restored—at least enough to start electric water pumps.

In Des Moines, about 3,000 homes were without electrical service which shut down many furnaces. City officials prepared to house those needing shelter in a high school while other families invaded hotels or motels for the night.

AT LEAST 77 other Iowa communities were without telephone service because of the storm which dumped 11 and 12 inches of snow as it ramed across Iowa and Minnesota into Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Deep drifts plagued the storm area and closed highways from Iowa through northern Wisconsin.

Meanwhile, a new storm was developing in the Southwest plains. The U. S. Weather Bureau said there was no immediate indication of the storm's strength or possible direction, but heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Kansas and Nebraska through today.

In Wisconsin, snow plows were unable to keep up with the drifting snow up to six feet deep that made roads impassable in the northern half of the state.

Freezing rain glazed highways into sheets of ice from Texas to Michigan.

Los Angeles — TWA operating one-fifth of capacity; Western halting most of its flights but still planning to fly Dodgers baseball team to Vero Beach, Fla., today. Thousands of air travelers were stranded.

San Diego — American canceled eight flights; Western two.

Seattle — Western cancelled two southbound flights; Pan American jet flight from Portland, Ore., to Honolulu delayed.

Miami — Pan American pickets left facilities but early evening flight cancelled; Eastern had nine flights leave and 24 arrive with supervisory personnel.

Buffalo — American — and Capital reported normal operation.

Boston — TWA canceled all flights Saturday night and Sunday flights to Pittsburgh and Columbus; Eastern reported nothing scheduled Saturday night; American not operating Saturday night.

Cincinnati — American put up only 11 of normal 40 flights; Delta and Lake Central lines reported normal operations.

Portland, Ore. — Western operated its only scheduled flight Saturday with supervisory engineering personnel.

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Federal Judge Ernest A. Tolin Saturday night issued an injunction in Los Angeles against a wildcat strike by 130 flight engineers employed by Western Airlines.

Tiddlywinkers Hoodwinked

CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—Oxford squidders, flouting tradition, slipped three girl tiddlywinkers into the varsity tiddlywinks team Saturday and toppled flabbergasted Cambridge 59½-52½.

Catching their male opponents completely off guard, the winsome Oxford winkers quickly overcame the almost two-squops to one-squop advantage the formidable Cambridge squidders had built up.

"Magnificent," murmured referee Peter Downes, a former Cambridge tiddlywinks great who knows a winker when he sees one. "A squop is scored when the button hops into a centrally placed cup."

Oxford tiddlywinkers are awarded a quarter-blue by playing for their university against Cambridge. A full blue is reserved for oarsmen, cricketers and rugby players.

U.S. Backs War Power for U.N. in Congo Crisis

lieve there is a good chance, if civil strife is ended, that Gizenga and other rebels can be persuaded to join in a broadened government before economic chaos sets the whole of central Africa aflame.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other top presidential advisers this weekend were studying the latest developments in the crisis. They were paying particular attention to a resolution sponsored by the United Arab Republic, Ceylon and Liberia, which would empower the U.N. to "use force if necessary" to pacify the Congo.

INDICATIONS were that the U. S. Ambassador to the U.N., Adlai E. Stevenson, would be instructed to support that part of the resolution when the Security Council resumes its Congo debate Monday.

But the United States would like to see the resolution strengthened to spell out in more detail the authority of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and the power of the U.N. forces to block supplies and materiel as well as prevent entry of unauthorized foreign personnel.

The United States was agreeably surprised by the action of the U.A.P. in sponsoring a resolution to give the U.N. more power. This represented a sharp break with the Soviet position demanding the world organization pull out of the Congo within 30 days.

Some authorities believe the U.A.R. action resulted from Cairo's observation of the fact that the Soviet position, which included a demand for the firing of Hammarskjold, is not getting widespread Asian and African support in the U.N.

THIS SEEMED to confirm predictions of American officials earlier this week that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had overplayed his hand this time.

Widow of Lumumba Seeks 'Symbol' Role

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—The U. N. command Saturday flew the widow of slain ex-premier Patrice Lumumba to his Stanleyville stronghold at her request, presumably to become a symbol of his pro-Communist cause.

But reports circulating in Leopoldville, the national Congo capital, said many pro-Lumumba troops in Oriental and Kivu provinces were shifting allegiance to support Western army strongman Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu.

One report said Lumumba's own army chief, Gen. Victor Lundula, had met Mobutu for talks in a secret spot.

Secessionist Katanga province troops also were reported forging ahead against pro-Lumumbist forces in Katanga. A major battle was reported on the Lualaba River.

Fearing massive reprisal slayings for the murder of Lumumba in Katanga province failed to materialize despite some isolated blood-letting.

There was fear, however, that Gizenga might try to use Lumumba's 28-year-old widow, Pauline, as a symbol of their cause and inflame tribal passions again.

Shuttled between Stanleyville and Bakavu, Mrs. Lumumba would be a living standard for the cause her husband died for.

She herself had adopted the traditional tribal role of widow, shaving her head and stripping to the waist as a sign of grief.

mile per hour winds often howl outside, watched two-story-high breakers crash over barrier reef, harvested abalone by hand, and ran down huge Belgian hares and wild pig on foot.

We found wild sheep which can match thoroughbreds for speed, cunning rabbits which lure dogs to their death, seals at play in their rookeries, cactus that seems to jump, the eagle's lair, the giant raven's nest, fox, pheasant, quail and other varieties of flora and fauna.

We talked with a crippled cowboy who fled Castro's Cuba, a Navy commander whose domain includes the Polaris missile and more than 100 prehistoric Indian village sites, and airmen who carried out an aerial blitzkrieg against a proliferating rabbit nation.

ON THE SEAS we passed through schools of great grey whale and playful porpoise, and game fish. Along the shores we found shrimp, sea elephant, lobster, lichen and crab and, everywhere, the graceful albatross.

We also learned that all but two have military installations and three are private empires and the locales of cattle ranches. The group lies astride two of the Free World's most important missile ranges.

The history of the chain is long, colorful and fascinating.

The Channel Islands were first sighted by the white man in 1542 when Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo sailed up the California coast with a fleet of three ships. His first landfall was San Clemente, which he named San Salvador and his last was San Miguel, where he was buried only six months after his great exploration began.

He was followed by another Spanish explorer, Vizcaino, who gave the islands their present names. Both men found the islands inhabited by Indian tribes and a Catholic priest with Vizcaino described the Indians on Catalina as exceptional sailors and fishermen and the "women (as) very handsome and decent."

THE PADRE VISITED an Indian temple on the isle where the natives worshipped a feathered idol called Chinigchinich.

Recent scientific findings indicate the conquistadors were Johnny-come-latelies. Radiocarbon tests of a barbecued mammoth bone found on Santa Rosa Island indicate man lived there 30,000 years ago, upsetting traditional archeological theories that North America was uninhabited as recently as 8,000 B. C.

Phil C. Orr, Curator of the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History and a foremost island authority, said there were a series of distinct civilizations including those of the Dune Dwellers, Highlanders and the more modern Canalino.

THE DUNE DWELLERS existed for about 7,000 years and were a robust people, excellent divers and skilled hunters who painted the skulls of their buried dead a brilliant red. The Highlander lived during a verdant period and occupied semi-subterranean abodes. The Canalino were skilled artisans and seamen who plied channel waters in outriggers and finally disappeared before the white plague of rape, murder, disease and enslavement.

Much archeological work is left to do and many questions are still to be answered. This is also true of geological study.

Some geologists hold the islands were a part of the mainland about the period of the Wisconsin Ice Age (1 million B. C.), but a recent exhaustive study by UCLA scientists found that San Clemente was volcanic in origin and rose during the Miocene Epoch somewhere between 20 and 30 million years ago.

U.S. Attache Held, Quizzed in Egypt

CAIRO (UPI)—Police arrested the press attache of the U. S. Embassy here Saturday and held him for 11 hours of questioning on charges of "distributing imperialist propaganda leaflets."

The attache, Zygmunt Nagorski, denied the charges and said police "roughed me up" before his release Saturday night. The U. S. Embassy indicated it was preparing an immediate protest to the United Arab Republic government.

Nagorski denied the charges and was released after his 11-hour interrogation. He was turned over to two U. S. Embassy staff members, Counselor Norbert Anschuetz and Public Affairs Officer John Esterline, who were sent to pick him up after the Foreign Ministry notified U. S. officials.

Nagorski's detention by police, who ignored his diplomatic immunity, accentuated the worsening relations between the United States and the U. A. R. over the Congo in the wake of Patrice Lumumba's death.

EARLIER LAST week, the U. S. Embassy was stoned by mobs of students protesting Lumumba's slaying.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency (MENA) quoted police as saying Nagorski was distributing leaflets from his car in front of a hotel "without authorization."

Authorities charged that the leaflets expressed "imperialist" views on the Congo situation and also attacked those nations—of which the U. A. R. is one—that back Lumumbist forces in that former Belgian Territory.

MENA SAID police had kept Nagorski "under surveillance" since Friday because similar leaflets were found in other sections of the city. Police said Nagorski's car was in those areas at the time. But Nagorski also denied this accusation. He said authorities produced a 12-year-old boy who said he had seen the American distributing the leaflets Friday night. "I told them I was at a cocktail party last night and not handing out leaflets," the press attache said.

Three Hurt in Torrance Auto Crash

An electronics plant's general manager and his wife were recovering today from serious injuries they suffered when their car collided in Torrance with one driven by a sailor, who also was hurt.

The collision at Sepulveda Blvd. and Wilmington Ave. sent Charles W. Sexton, 48, and his wife Alice, 46, both of 33 Chuckwagon Rd., Rolling Hills, to Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

U. S. Navy Sailor Durwood E. Brown, 20, of the USS Kearsarge at Long Beach, was given emergency care at the same hospital. He suffered a vertebra fracture when he was thrown out of his car.

SEXTON'S JAW was fractured, his left arm broken, and he suffered internal injuries described as serious. Mrs. Sexton was unconscious from head injuries, and her right arm and wrist were broken.

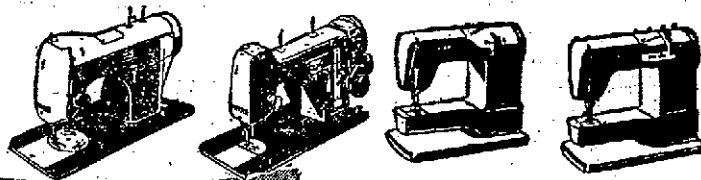

Sexton is top officer at Nor-Air in Hawthorne, according to Compton CHP officers who listed Brown's home address as 2128 Constitution Lane, Long Beach.

Queen Farah Given Highest Decoration

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah of Iran pinned on Queen Farah Saturday the "highest royal decoration" ever awarded to any queen in the 2,500-year-old monarchy.

The decoration—the "highest royal social services medal"—was presented in the palace in appreciation of Farah's social work.

Medical Watchdog Ranges Widely

toward "socialized medicine," an opening wedge to put control of medical care and research in the hands of politicians and bureaucrats.

Social Security advocates declare the AMA plan is inadequate, and involves a degrading means test. They charge the AMA with making an antiquated and unfounded wolf cry of "socialized medicine," and accuse the AMA of opposing even voluntary insurance years ago in similar grounds.

Each side wheels up differing statistics on how many older citizens can or cannot afford their medical expenses, how adequately their health needs are being met; accuse one another of smears and misrepresentation.

Thus far, the AMA has succeeded in blocking every attempt to enact compulsory health insurance legislation since President Truman gave his backing to such a program more than a decade ago. Dr. E. Vincent Askey, AMA president, says the medical profession will cooperate with the Kennedy administration whenever and wherever possible, but "does not intend to change its basic policy on the betterment of public health for all the people merely to conform to views of the new administration or any segments of either political party."

THE AMA REJECTS assertions by its critics that it has become chiefly "anti" in its attitude toward bills seeking to deal with public health problems.

Dr. Leonard Larson of Bismarck, S.D., AMA president-elect, says the organization is making good on its pledge to improve the lot of the aged by stimulating action by local medical societies and other groups at the community or state level.

The cooperative efforts of doctors, nurses, dentists, social workers, hospital staff members, insurance company personnel and community and religious leaders, he said, has resulted in the establishment of these projects in various areas:

Retirement villages, new nursing homes, chronic disease centers, home care programs, recreational facilities and research projects.

Askey added that the AMA, in the last six months, has launched several other new projects which include:

A five-year study on infant deaths and abnormalities with the aim of preventing or reducing deaths and defects of thousands of babies in this decade.

A two-year study of the rising costs of medical care.

DOCTOR DILEMMA

Angel, devil, or a shadowy in-between personality... which describes the American Medical Association? The AMA accents the angelic, its critics the devilish, while the public leans both ways.

A stepped up safety campaign to reduce traffic deaths significantly through the widespread use of seat belts, and the enactment of new laws applying to safety devices on new automobiles.

A poison-control campaign to prevent death and injury to children and adults.

ALTHOUGH THE AMA's fight against what it calls socialized medicine is generating the most headlines, the vast bulk of its efforts is in other fields. One of its prime functions is to keep doctors and the public informed of medical advances through its regular publications and the press, radio and television.

More than 60 per cent of the association's annual revenue goes for scientific activities. The projects include the betterment of public health.

The AMA's war against quacks and quack preparations has led it into many battles and caused many hot words. It has defended libel suits exceeding $30 million, losing only a single judgment amounting to 2 cents.

But then and now the organization looked upon itself both as an instrument for medical progress and a watchdog of the nation's health.

The dual role was outlined in code of ethics adopted by the founders which said: "As good citizens, it is the duty of physicians to be ever vigilant for the welfare of their community and to hear their part in sustaining its institutions and burdens."

The original delegates then dedicated themselves to this purpose: "To promote the science and art of medicine scientific publications, for doctors, annual conventions and clinical meetings, medical exhibits and films and the expenses of various councils and committees headed by full-time staff physicians.

Its membership today includes 179,000 of the nation's 249,000 licensed physicians. Its income from doctors' dues and advertising revenue from its publications has reached $15 million a year and a dues increase from the present $25 to $40 a year will be applied over the next two years.

The AMA says the extra funds will go toward financing assistance to medical students, continuing education for practicing physicians, health advice to the lay public, medical research and the expansion of its program to portray faithfully the image of the AMA.

THE AMA IS involved in a complexity of activities ranging from local drives to recruit future medical school students at the high school level to answering up to 25,000 queries annually from doctors and the lay public about health matters.

It has adopted a program of scholarships and loans for prospective medical students. It has supplied grants to financially pressed medical schools. It works to insure drug safety and stamp out misleading advertising.

The association is making extensive studies on the rising cost of medical care to pinpoint the areas responsible. It says the doctor's share of each medical care dollar spent has dropped from 30 cents in 1948 to 25 cents in 1959, while hospital costs have risen from 21 cents to 26 cents during the same period.

One area responsible for rising costs, the AMA says it has found, is the millions of dollars spent annually over the counter and non-prescription drugs, food fads and questionable medical literature.

And a large percentage of the estimated $350 million the public spends annually on self-prescribed vitamins, said the AMA Council on Foods and Nutrition, could better be spent of food.

Visiting Yugoslavs' Eyes Opened Here

Forty-four Yugoslav merchant seamen sailed out of Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor Saturday after a three-day visit here. Some of their impressions about life in a capitalist country:

"What you have here is the kind of life promised by our Communist leaders."

"In Yugoslavia, if we talked about Tito as some of you people talk about your president, we would be jailed."

"Our living standard is far below yours. Here, everyone has an automobile. Few of our people own cars. We do not have the nice homes you have."

THE MEN were assigned to the 440-foot freighter Trbovlje, the third Yugoslav vessel to visit Southern California waters since World War II.

One seaman told newsmen that during the first years under Communism in Yugoslavia, everyone was supposed to receive the same wages.

"But that soon was changed," he added. "The bosses had to get more in order for the system to work."

Second Finch Judge Called by Defense

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The presiding judge at the second Finch-Tregoff murder trial will be called as a rebuttal witness in the current proceeding, prosecutors indicated Saturday.

Superior Court Judge LeRoy Dawson at one point in the second trial summoned jurors back into court during deliberations to say he thought the testimony of key prosecution witnesses was more valid than statements by the defendants.

When Dr. R. Bernard Finch's attorney objected, Dawson held him in contempt twice.

The California Supreme Court later annulled the contempt action against attorney Grant Cooper and rebuked Dawson for such observations to the jury. The second trial ended with a hung jury, as did the first.

The prosecution indicated it would call Dawson to break down a defense contention that a verdict was reached on Finch in the second case but that the judge told the panel to keep deliberating. Dawson has indicated he did not receive such information.

Finch himself was on the stand Friday when the trial ended its seventh week before Judge David Coleman. He and Carole Tregoff, 24, his admitted paramour, are accused of conspiracy and murder in the death of Finch's wife, Barbara Jean, 33.

Finch admitted he asked Carole to hire a self-styled "gigolo"—John Patrick Cody—to get divorce evidence against his wife. But he said he did not offer Cody money to kill Mrs. Finch.

The trial will resume this week with Finch on the stand.

L. B. Man Plans Plant in Alaska

Ralph G. Hand, vice president of Refiners Sales Co., 1840 E. 29th St., has announced plans for the organization of a crude oil processing plant in Anchorage, Alaska.

Hand said the plant will be constructed in the Anchorage area this summer and it will have a daily capacity of 2,000 barrels of oil and will turn out gasoline, kerosene distillate, jet fuel, diesel fuel and "bunker C" heavy fuel.

Party Chief Likens JFK to Roosevelt

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Democratic national chairman John M. Bailey saluted the late Franklin D. Roosevelt Saturday night, praising humanitarian and leadership qualities he said President Kennedy also possesses.

Bailey said both men looked upon the presidency as "a window and not a wall facing the needs of the people," he added.

"I can say that John F. Kennedy today is honoring the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt not only by words but by aggressive, alert and humanitarian leadership. Franklin Roosevelt deserves no less. President Kennedy can do no less. Each was cut from the stamp of greatness."

Bailey, addressing a banquet in a receding economy, also compared problems of the Roosevelt period with those of the present.

"To fill the needs of all citizens in a receding economy demands unprecedented leadership," he said, "yet there appears even today a type of obstruction and opposition to President Kennedy reminiscent of the blockheaded resistance encountered by President Roosevelt when he moved to solve the crises of his era."

"The obstructionists," Bailey asserted, "sought to defeat a change of rules that would permit all representatives (in Congress) to vote yea or nay on the President's legislative program. And we saw the forces of reaction and Republicanism go down to defeat."

The party leader said at another point:

"The fact that obstructionists vote against the right to vote emphasizes President Kennedy's determination to open the minds of all Americans to our new responsibilities."

Bailey had high praise also, both in a news conference and in the banquet speech for two other Democrats—California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and U. S. Sen. Clair Engle.

He told newsmen that Brown, now serving his first term, need have no fears about re-election in 1962—"no matter who runs against him."

Of ex-Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has been frequently mentioned as a potential GOP gubernatorial candidate, Bailey said: "I don't think Mr. Nixon will take the chance." Brown, Bailey said, "has done a remarkable job in office and has overwhelming support."

Eisenhowers Keep Leisurely Vacation Pace

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower maintained a leisurely pace Saturday for their second weekend of a two-month desert vacation.

Both took time to get better acquainted with their Palm Springs-Palm Desert neighborhood. The former President had a ride on his afternoon agenda, after again deciding against a golf game. He has been bothered by a cold.

Mrs. Eisenhower went on another shopping tour Friday, stocking up at a nearby supermarket.

The Eisenhowers have a staff of three at their El Dorado cottage.

Warehouse Fire Blamed on Children

LAWNDALE (CNS) — Fire caused several thousand dollars in damage late Saturday to a warehouse in Lawndale.

The blaze was believed to have been started by children playing with matches.

Six companies of firefighters brought the flames under control in 45 minutes. Fireman Dana Wilson of Engine Co. 21 suffered a third-degree burn on his hand. He did not require hospitalization.

The 40-by-75 warehouse is owned by the Santa Fe Railroad, which leases it to a flooring firm.

Officers Hunt Kidnaper, Attacker of Girl, Aged 4

Lakewood sheriff's officers searched vainly Saturday for "a man in dark clothes" who kidnaped a 4-year-old girl from her bed in a Bellflower motel, assaulted her and then shoved her from his car.

The child, crying from her pain and bruises, was found by Alfred Zigler of 9041 Cedar Ave., Bellflower, who said her wails awakened him about 4 a.m. Saturday.

The girl was taken to St.

Helen's Hospital, Bellflower.

She was seized from the motel at 17660 Lakewood Blvd., where she was staying with her stepfather and mother.

er, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Krumtum. Officers said the burglar forced entry into the room through a window, stole valuables belonging to the Krumtums and then took the child.

U.S. Mapping Multi-ship Attack on Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—While a Russian "space station" whizzes toward a mid-May rendezvous with the planet Venus, U.S. scientists are carefully laying plans for an all-out assault on the mysteries of the Moon, Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Mercury. Under development and study in laboratories across the country are a series of spacecraft bearing the names Ranger, Surveyor, Prospector, Mariner and Voyager. Initial Ranger launch is scheduled next summer from Cape Canaveral, with the others to follow over a four-year period.

Ranger's mission will be to rough-land instrument packages on the moon. Surveyor will try controlled, soft-landings on the lunar surface. Prospector vehicles will have two assignments: Place wheeled or tracked laboratories on the moon or dig up samples of lunar material and return them to earth.

Mariner spacecraft will fly by Venus and Mars, snapping pictures and gathering data. Voyagers will orbit or land instruments on these two planets which are earth's closest neighbors in space. To boost these vehicles, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is developing three new rockets, more powerful than any launched previously by the United States. They are Atlas-Agena B, Centaur and Saturn—with all three slated for first test launchings in 1961.

Agenda B will have an Atlas first stage and a large second stage capable of being re-started in space. Centaur also will utilize an Atlas booster, with the second stage powered by liquid hydrogen—a higher-energy fuel than any now used in U.S. rockets.

Saturn will be the giant of American space vehicles for several years. Generating 1½ million pounds of thrust, it will be able to hurl 14½-ton satellites into orbit or land six tons on the moon. Saturn's thrust compares with the more than 900,000 pounds many experts believe the Russians are working with, and the 360,000 pounds of the Atlas, currently the United States' biggest.

Maiden flight of the Saturn first stage is set for next fall at the Cape.

Five Ranger shots, using Agenda B, are planned, all in 1961-62. They include an earth satellite whose highly-elliptical orbit will take it 600,000 miles into space; a sun satellite, and three lunar impacters. The earth and solar satellites are scheduled this year, mainly to prove out the rocket and the spacecraft.

Rangers III, IV and V will weigh about 800 pounds and carry 60-pound survival packages for the rough moon landing. As the vehicle approaches to within 200 miles of the moon, a television camera will begin taking and transmitting pictures to earth stations. At 16 miles, the section carrying the TV camera will be jettisoned.

This larger section will smash into the moon and destroy itself. But tiny reverse rockets will slow the survival pack so it will impact less severely, enabling instruments and communications to continue.

The Centaur rocket will send up seven surveyors, each weighing about 2,500 pounds, in the period 1963-66. A complex system of reverse rockets, guidance and landing gear will enable 750-pound packages to eject from the main craft and land gently on the moon.

Looking much like a large spider, Surveyor will stand on four long legs. Four TV cameras, one color, will relay pictures to earth every few seconds.

The Saturn-boosted prospectors will carry multi-ton payloads to the moon. Several will contain tracked vehicles which will prow the surface up to a radius of 50 miles, transferring pictures and data.

Russ Reveal First Venus Craft Details

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Saturday night the 1,148-pound station it fired aloft last Sunday will pass Venus "at a distance of not more than 180,000 kilometers (about 112,000 miles) from the center of Venus."

This was the first word from Soviet authorities on what would happen to the device when it reached the orbit of the bright planet.

Previous Soviet statements merely had said it was aimed toward Venus and would reach the area in the latter half of May.

Space-Man Capsule Faces Crucial Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A project Mercury man-in-space capsule is about to receive its most severe test on a crucial flight which it must survive if a U.S. astronaut is to be rocketed into orbit late this year.

The test also is a critical one for the Atlas booster rocket, which exploded on a similar flight last July. Within a few days, a 110-ton Atlas is scheduled to fling the one-ton space chamber aloft to qualify it under the worst re-entry conditions imaginable.

IF ALL WORKS right, the capsule will hurtle to an altitude of 115 miles, then streak back through the atmosphere on a jolting, super-hot trip, landing in the Atlantic 1,400 miles down range.

"The space craft will be buffeted, scorched and squeezed aerodynamically as never before, and hopefully never again," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced.

"The object is to qualify the design and structure of the capsule under the worst possible re-entry conditions. To do this we have picked flight curves which will duplicate the most severe re-entry path the craft could take after an emergency abort on an orbital flight."

When the Atlas burns out four minutes after launch, the missile will be aimed slightly downward, at a 3-degree angle, compared with a normal re-entry angle of 1½ degrees. Thus the Atlas will literally shoot the capsule back toward earth.

The slight change in angle will subject the bell-shaped chamber to these stresses:

—Re-entry heat of 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit on the upper section instead of the normal 1,500 degrees.

—Re-entry airload of 900 pounds per square inch, three times that expected on the manned orbit flight.

—Forces 16 times the pull of gravity, instead of 8 times.

An attempt will be made to recover the capsule if it lands as planned some 400 miles northeast of Puerto Rico after an 18-minute flight.

THE APPARATUS, including solar batteries, was reported functioning normally. The temperature within the station was said to vary between 82 and 86 degrees (F) above zero.

Tass said the device is to make its closest approach to Venus at a point about 43 million miles from the earth, though it will have traveled some 168 million miles along its own orbit.

The possibility of radio contact "with sensible creatures in other worlds" was suggested by V. I. Soforov, a corresponding member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Soforov said the interval between now and the relative close approach to Venus will be used for further tests of apparatus for "super-long distance radio transmission."

Women Voters Plan Drive for New State Constitution

By BOB HOUSER

Long Beach League of Women Voters will announce by telephone Thursday evening its all-out declaration of war against the California Constitution and make its appeal for a state convention to draft a new one.

In a 7 to 9 p.m. League phonathon, members will call Long Beach-area voters at random to present a one-minute message on behalf of their mission, a mission in which the whole state league has invested four years of study.

Mrs. Sylvia Gordon, Long Beach president, said 30 local members will staff telephones in The Independent, Press-Telegram offices to make their calls.

MRS. JEAN MAY, chairman of the local league's constitution study, pointed out that California's 1879 document has been amended 437 times, until it is the second longest in the nation; 75,000 words, or four times its original size.

What's wrong with it besides length? Mrs. May provides these arguments:

It hampers the legislature from legislating, the executive from executing the law. Two-thirds of California's operating funds are earmarked in the constitution, removing that immense portion of our budget from control by our elected representatives.

To get changes, which should be the job of our state lawmakers, we must tack on

Push GI Insurance Reinstatement Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., voiced hope Saturday that White House backing may bring victory in his long fight to let World War II and Korea veterans reinstate their lapsed GI life insurance.

President Kennedy has not taken a stand on the measure since entering the White House, but Long pointed out that the Chief Executive was a cosponsor of the bill when he was a senator.

Also, Long said, expansion of the House Rules Committee may heighten the bill's chances in the House, where it has been killed four times. With an expanded committee, Long said, "such matters will not remain closed with a handful of representatives but will be aired before the whole House."

LONG, WHO commanded a landing craft as a World War II naval officer, is a member of the Senate Finance Committee which handles veterans Edward Forrest, president of the Foundation's Training Center, invited persons interested in the welfare and training of mentally retarded children to the meeting.

HOPE FOR HARD OF HEARING

LONG BEACH, CALIF., Feb. 19, 1961—Something new has just been announced. It is an electronic development designed for those who hear but who do not understand words. There is nothing in either ear. No dangling cords. No tubes. The sound vibrations are conducted right to the inner ear, and right to your center of understanding (Bone Conduction). We have termed this process "Vibratory Sensory Conduction"—truly secret hearing.

The manufacturer has been able to produce a hearing device so small that many who wear it report "No one knows I have a hearing deficiency." It is said to be very reasonably priced.

This new instrument is manufactured by Audivox, Inc., Successors to Western Electric Hearing Aid Division and makers of "The hearing aid your doctor knows."

Further information and details may be obtained by writing to B. E. Blomquist, 823 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach, Calif., or call on him personally.

Astronauts Need to Be Handymen

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—An astronaut has got to know something about fixing his television set and garbage grinder, a general said Saturday.

Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, chief of the Air Force Training Command, said space simulation tests in August showed astronauts must be able to repair television communications equipment, or lose contact with earth, and fix their waste disposal systems if need be.

Briggs addressed a final session of the sixth annual aerospace power symposium sponsored by the Utah Wing of the Air Force Association.

16,000 Spies for Reds Busy in West Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—Communist spies are being caught in West Germany on an average of one every three hours, a survey showed Saturday.

But the counterespionage agents who do the catching figure they would have to keep up this average for the nearly next six years to clean up the estimated 16,000 Red spies now operating in West Germany.

These figures all point up the fact that spying in this divided nation is big business. The Soviets are believed to be spending $2 billion annually just to keep their agents in the cloak and dagger business.

THE COMMUNIST spies carried out 790 successful missions last year and got away before police found out about them, sources said.

But at least three big-time operations were foiled by the counter-espionage men.

Adolf Frenzel, a member of the West German Parliament's Defense Committee, was arrested in Parliament itself on charges of passing secrets to the Czech ministry.

Two Bonn Interior Ministry employees were imprisoned for selling details of NATO defense plans to East German agents.

And police smashed an underground Communist propaganda network spread through West Germany. This sweep netted four clandestine printing shops, 10 trucks and cars, 3,333 and ten of thousands of pamphlets.

MOST OF THE spies are directed by nearby satellite nations, although counter-intelligence officials last September cracked a spy ring whose members got their orders straight from Moscow.

West Berlin lives up to its movie reputation as the espionage capital of the West. Every American soldier, no matter how far he may work from secret data, reportedly is the target for a corps of Mata Haris stationed in East Berlin, just a subway ride away.

The man in charge of keeping allied secrets secret is West German intelligence chief Reinhard Gehlen—"the man without a face."

Gehlen, who has not been photographed since 1943, once worked on Hitler's general staff and brought his highly organized espionage system over to the allies at the end of the war.

GEHLEN'S men arrest between 2,400 and 2,800 Red spies each year—an average of about three an hour. Most are East Germans who cross the Iron Curtain through Berlin's Brandenburg Gate or in the disguise of refugees.

There were 2,325 East German agents arrested last year. Some were amateurs in search of easy money. But others were professionals who rarely meet the public eye.

Ex-College Head Dies

BRYAN, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Thomas Otto Walton, 77, former president of Texas A&M College, died in a hospital Saturday. He had a heart ailment.

Purge Faced by Leading French Reds

PARIS (UPI)—The French Communist party will purge several of its leaders shortly for alleged "deviationism," reliable political sources disclosed Saturday.

The purge victims were expected to include Laurent Casanova, a member of the French Politbureau, Marcel Servin, a member of its secretariat, and several other leading Communists.

All are considered rebels against the leadership of the party's secretary-general, Maurice Thorez.

Thorez, who never completely abandoned Stalinism, has been violently denouncing his opponents in the party for not taking a sufficiently tough stand against President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic.

The "deviationists" in the party were charged with taking too "soft" a line.

Space Law Expert Says Russ Were Right in U2 Plane Row

CHICAGO (UPI)—An expert on the law of outer space said Saturday that the Soviet Union was justified in condemning the American U2 flight over the U.S.S.R. as a violation of international law.

Andrew G. Haley, Washington, D.C., attorney and vice chairman of the American Bar Association committee on outer space law, defended the Soviet position on the May, 1960 flight of Francis Powers on two grounds:

—That no country, including the United States, permits unrestricted aerial reconnaissance of its entire territory.

—That the 70,000-foot altitude of the U2 plane was not beyond the area designed as "air space" under international law.

HALEY SPOKE at a panel discussion on the law of outer space at the 23rd midyear meeting of the ABA.

David F. Maxwell of Philadelphia, panel moderator, said the U2 flight made it necessary to re-examine present definitions of sovereign air space.

He urged the legal profession to consider new answers to the questions: "Do such flights over alien territory for surveillance purposes by conventional aircraft at altitudes approaching 70,000 feet constitute a violation of that nation's sovereignty? And if so, what about the flight of a space vehicle at a much higher altitude for the same purpose?"

Haley said national sovereignty should extend as far into space as air does.

"Most scientists believe this amounts to about 62 miles," he said.

HALEY SAID he believed the United States could successfully devise ways to photograph Soviet territory from that height. He said maps of the United States available everywhere would probably make it unnecessary for the Soviet Union to photograph any U.S. terrain.

Father of U2 Pilot Lashes U.S. Officials

NORTON, Va. (UPI)—The father of U2 spy pilot Francis Powers accused the State Department Saturday of not "doing all they should" to gain the release of his son from a Soviet prison.

A letter that Oliver Powers, a shoe repairman, received from his son Friday night sparked the charge.

He said his son had written he had expected to be released early this month when two other American pilots were freed.

"All they had to do was ask for my boy along with those men and he would have come," the elder Powers said.

"I'm getting burned up about what is going on and what is not happening," he said. "They (the State Department) aren't doing all they should."

POWERS quoted his son as writing "he held a big hope there" when the Soviets released the RB47 pilots.

"He thought he was going to be freed with them, but nobody asked for him," Powers said.

Powers said he thought Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was sincere when he said he was willing to forget the U2 incident.

"President Kennedy isn't doing what he is supposed to have done."

Powers repeated his belief the Russians were willing to exchange imprisoned Soviet spy Morton Sobell for his son.

He identified San Francisco attorney Vincent Hallinan as the man he talked with last summer in Moscow as first suggesting the exchange.

Man Who Killed Himself Here Was Louisiana Fugitive

A 26-year-old man who shot and killed himself in Long Beach was facing charges of parole violation and attempted murder in Baton Rouge, La., police said Saturday.

Gary Mack Brown, 1832 E. Carson St., shot himself in the head Thursday. He died three hours later. No notes were found.

Baton Rouge authorities said Brown served time in Louisiana State Penitentiary for burglary. He was arrested later on charges of parole violation and attempted murder. These charges were pending at the time of Brown's death.

The body is to be shipped today to Baton Rouge for burial.

Donald Riggs Shoots Self; L.B. Teacher

A Long Beach junior high school teacher died Saturday night of a self-inflicted shotgun wound, police reported.

Donald W. Riggs of 4251 E. 4th St., shot himself in the head, police said. Riggs was a teacher at Marshall Junior High School, 5870 E. Wardlow Rd.

Police said they could not determine a reason for the death. The body is at Christensen-Pino Mortuary.

Germans Make 'Impossible' Climb in Italy

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Three daring German mountain climbers were reported Saturday to have defied the experts and scaled 9,424-foot Cima Grande di Lavaredo by its treacherous northern wall. The experts said it couldn't be done in winter.

Experts said avalanche dangers, freezing temperatures, wind and ice-coated rocks made it impossible this time of year. Word of the climb was brought here by messenger from a refuge hut at the foot of the mountain.

Algiers Under Heavy Guard

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Thousands of police, special security forces and military patrols prowled the streets of Algiers Saturday night in a massive attempt to cut down on the number of bombings that have plagued the city in recent weeks.

Plastic charges and grenades exploded by nationalist rebel terrorists and European counterterrorists have rocked the city three and four times nightly. Saturday night, the streets of Algiers, were so thoroughly covered that on some of the main thoroughfares and in the Moslem quarter the patrols were only about 50 yards apart.

Addison Released on Bond of $15,000 Pending Appeal

John Milton Addison, convicted Friday in a federal court in Dallas, Tex., on charges of mail fraud, conspiracy and violation of the Federal Securities Act, was freed Saturday after posting a $15,000 appeal bond.

Four of his associates, tried with him, also were released.

A sixth man, Miles White, did not post bond and remains in custody.

Addison was sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined $36,000 after a lengthy trial. The dapper little uranium promoter received more than $200,000 in "loans" from Long Beach residents.

BRICKLAYING ARTIST

Apprentice bricklayer Larry Popkin, winner of bricklaying contest Saturday, receives congratulations from Eugene Smith (right), instructor at City College's Business and Technology Division.

Popkin Tops Bricklaying Apprentices

Larry Popkin, 24, of 11859 205th St., Artesia, proved he was the best man with a brick and a trowel Saturday.

Popkin came out first in the annual Bricklayer's Local 13 apprenticeship contest at Long Beach City College Business and Technology division.

Second place in the timed bricklaying contest went to Eugene Gwynne, 23, of Torrance. All contestants were under two-year apprentices.

Both men, who attend the bricklaying class 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays at BTDC, have qualified to contend in the March 18 state contest in Fresno. Their instructor is Eugene E. Smith. Winner of the state contest will compete in the nationals in April in Detroit.

8 Dance Pairs Graduated Here

Eight couples were graduated Saturday night from the first beginners' square-dance class sponsored by Long Beach's Rustling Squares, and they joined the club at ceremonies in American Legion Hall, 59th Street and Orange Avenue.

President Ernie Kuneau announced another beginners' class for couples will start March 3 at 8 p.m. in the same place with Ronnie Gravett as caller.

Man Who Sold Gun to Killer Sentenced

The man who sold the murder weapon to convicted killer Mohammed Abdullah, formerly of Long Beach, has been sentenced to one to 10 years in prison.

Martin Horowitz, 35, sobbed when the involuntary manslaughter sentence was announced by Superior Judge Donald K. Quayle in Oakland.

Horowitz was found guilty of selling a gun to Abdullah and discussing with him plans to kill Sonja Hoff, Abdullah, 21, who changed his name

Boy 3, Hurt by Pickup

A 3-year-old boy, Anthony Wayne Wilson, 1329 Quincy Ave., suffered head cuts Saturday when struck by a pickup truck between Quincy and Lee Avenues north of Anaheim Street.

The boy was admitted to Community Hospital for observation. The truck driver, David T. Bunker, 17, of 256 Lindero Ave., was not held, police said.

Dope Traffic War Mapped

Sheriff Pete Pitchess will be guest speaker at a public meeting on the problems of narcotics control at 2:15 p.m. Monday in Concert Hall, Municipal Auditorium.

HAROLD RUSSELL... He'll Meet Mayor

Russell Will Visit City, V A Hospital

Harold Russell, national commander, American Veterans of World War II and Korea (AMVETS), will arrive in Long Beach Monday for a tour of the city and meet with local officials.

Best remembered for his Academy Award winning role as the disabled veteran in the motion picture, "The Best Years of Our Lives," Russell will be welcomed at noon at the City Hall by Mayor Edwin Wade and Miss Welcome to Long Beach, Margo Spicer.

RUSSELL'S TOUR of Long Beach will include the Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital at 1:30 p. m.

A public reception has been scheduled for 7 p. m. at GE-OWN's Restaurant, 8567 Artesia St., Bellflower. Russell will present Harry Jordan, exalted ruler of Long Beach Elks Lodge, with a plaque on behalf of the California Department of AMVETS. Russell will receive a plaque from Walter L. Myers of Long Beach, California Department commander.

By CARL ZIMMERMAN
MANILA (AP) — They whispered that he carried a magic amulet, for he seemed invulnerable in battle.

The simple people kissed his hand when he entered a village. With few guns and no military training, they followed him to war for five years, twice against the proud but crumbling empire of Spain and then against the vigorous new world power, the United States. Defeat ultimately was inevitable.

But ultimate triumph came 45 years later when he marched proudly down Dewey Boulevard the day America gave the Philippines independence.

Now, at 91, Emilio Aguinaldo's strength is ebbing at last. His sight is failing. But he is still painfully writing his memoirs of the days when America went to war to free Cuba from Spain and wound up taking the Philippines.

HE HAS MUCH to be bitter about, but he is not. He is a friend of America although he still maintains America betrayed him, although Americans called him a bandit and cutthroat.

Once even his own people heaped abuse on him. To this day there are many who regard him with distrust, and his place in the people's affections is not secure.

Yet he was the undisputed leader of the revolts that Filipinos consider the most glorious period in their unhappy history, the 1896-'01 revolt against Spain and America.

Modern authorities agree there was no one but Aguinaldo who could have rallied the people. They say the revolution would have sputtered into oblivion long before without him.

AGUINALDO
Near End of Trail

Aguinaldo was an unknown small-town youth of 27 at the start of the revolution.

His education was modest, and he had no military training or experience. His mother had made him village headman at 17 to avoid conscription into the Spanish forces.

HE JOINED a secret society aimed at overthrowing Spain, and was ready for battle the day fighting began.

On Aug. 30, 1896, Aguinaldo and a friend walked unarmed into the guardhouse in his hometown and told the soldiers to surrender. It was an easy beginning, for the Spaniards were surprised and outnumbered by Aguinaldo's men outside.

Within the week Aguinaldo faced a force of 500 armed men sent out from Manila with artillery and cavalry, and routed them at a river crossing.

His victories led him in less than a year to the presidency of the revolutionary government.

Aguinaldo finally signed a pact with Spain when a stalemate was reached in early 1898 and went to Hong Kong with 400,000 pesos as a cash settlement. Some of his supporters demanded that the money be divided.

Instead he bought arms and came back after the Battle of Manila Bay in May 1898 to continue the fight.

THERE WAS the memorable conference with U. S. Commodore George Dewey, aboard his flagship Olympia. Aguinaldo said Dewey promised independence in exchange for an alliance against Spain. But the hero of Manila Bay insisted he promised nothing of the sort, and the Filipino had nothing in writing to back up his claim.

All over the archipelago, Filipinos rose against Spain. They had more guns this time, and the Spaniards were demoralized by the loss of their navy to Dewey's fleet at Manila Bay.

Soon Manila was all but won by Aguinaldo.

But there was no victory. American troops landed, and their generals refused to allow the Filipinos to enter the surrendered city.

Aguinaldo, restrained his headstrong commanders and waited. When America annexed the Philippines, his course was clear—and hopeless—to fight the Americans.

Aguinaldo fought against hopeless odds with dignity. It was still there at the end, at the ignominious surrender to American Gen. Frederick Funston, who wrote: "While naturally agitated, his bearing was dignified, and in this moment of his fall there was nothing of the craven. He is a man of many excellent qualities, far and away the best Filipino I ever brought in contact with."

IT TOOK 70,000 American troops to crush the insurgents. And by the time they succeeded in 1901, the Filipinos had absorbed a vision of ultimate independence they would never lose.

Aguinaldo never abandoned the dream either, but for him the struggle practically ended with his surrender.

He was only 32 then, and had a following that could not be challenged. But he retired to his farm on the shore of Manila Bay and disappeared from public notice.

Aguinaldo, who acquired moderate wealth through marriage, still lives in the old family home at Kawit, Cavite, which is filled with mementoes of the revolution.

It is standard procedure for a new commander of the nearby U. S. naval station at Sangley Point to present himself to the old soldier.

New Customs House Belongs in Harbor

IT IS TIME for the federal government to face facts and locate the proposed new customs house for the Los Angeles Customs District in the harbor area where it should have been in the first place.

Many easterners—accustomed to cities that go up instead of out—have no conception of the vast distances we live with here in the West. When a site in the Los Angeles Civic Center was proposed by a mid-town Los Angeles congressman, it is possible General Services Administration officials did not realize that they would be building a customs house 22 miles inland from the harbors it is mainly designed to serve.

The Los Angeles Customs District is the fastest growing customs district in the nation. It collected $89,748,713 in the last fiscal year. Ninety per cent or more of the district's collections come from the Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles. Most of its personnel are employed at the harbors.

Location of the customs house 22 miles away from the harbor area causes undue hardship and delay to shippers and is contrary to practice in other ports. In New York, for instance, the customs house is 3 blocks from the harbor, in San Francisco it is 4 blocks. The most distant customs house, aside from the one proposed for Los Angeles, is in Portland, Ore. That is two miles from the harbor.

YET, THE GOVERNMENT has proposed that a new customs house be constructed in the heart of the Los Angeles Civic Center—22 miles from the ports. An appropriation to build this custom headquarters is included in the General Services Administration budget sent to Congress by President Eisenhower.

Our harbor communities and their civic organizations should demand that Congress disapprove construction of the customs house in downtown Los Angeles, and that the General Services Administration select a new site in the harbor area, one that is mutually accessible to both the Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles.

Commercial importers report that delays of from one to three days are caused by the present location of main customs facilities in the Los Angeles Civic Center. In addition to costs in time and money to private enterprise, construction of an absentee customs house in Los Angeles will result in the waste of federal funds.

Foolish and unnecessary duplication of facilities will have to be provided for the harbor area if the U.S. customs is to adequately service its major ports of entry with its main headquarters 22 miles away.

Opposition to the civic center site is not only based on the geographic and economic considerations involved. The scheme has drawn fire from architects and from downtown Los Angeles property owners and businessmen.

They point out that there are no provisions for off-street parking in the civic center plan, and that the building would add to the already acute traffic congestion in the heart of Los Angeles.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS have pointed to their lack of personnel as a serious problem in meeting the growing menace of narcotics smuggling through the harbors. An absentee customs house complicates this problem.

The Board of Harbor Commissioners of the Port of Los Angeles endorsed the soundness of a customs house in the harbor area the other day when they offered the federal government free land for such a site.

Two days later, in an amazing reversal, they withdrew the offer, pleading "complications." However, they did not attack the logic of having the customs house in the harbor.

The "complications" are political. Proponents of the Los Angeles Civic Center—who see an opportunity to get a fine new building at the federal taxpayers' expense—set up such a clamor that city officials, who are facing re-election in April, persuaded the Los Angeles harbor board to withdraw its offer.

We think the Los Angeles commissioners were right in the first place. We urge the federal government in the interests of efficiency, economy and service to reconsider the matter and to choose a new site in the harbor area.

President's Stroll a Traffic Hazard

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is an avid walker and likes to take a Sunday afternoon stroll, but he, like other presidents, has found that walking around downtown Washington or in the park behind the White House is impractical. He disturbs people. While promenading one Sunday with a newspaper friend, Kennedy was spied by an Arab driver of a sedan. He leaned out of the car window, shouted: "Greetings from Cairo, Mr. President," and waved vigorously at the President. In his excitement, he forgot to look where he was driving and thunderously crashed into the car ahead of him. The smile never left his face, however, and he was still grinning as the President walked away, murmuring that maybe he was a menace to traffic.

WILLIAM WALTON, the Washington painter who is President Kennedy's close friend, is a lover of classical music. Thus, it was natural for him to spend some time with Sir William Walton when the noted British conductor performed here a couple of weeks ago. Sir William was fascinated by Plain William's relationship with the President, and the fact that the artist goes in and out of the White House as if it were his own home. Could Sir William possibly visit the White House himself? Sure, replied Plain William—just go up to the front gate and tell them you're William Walton—they'll let you in.

Senate Posse Hot on Trail of Earp, Bat, and the Rest

WASHINGTON—TV crime thrillers and westerns may be in for a tough time in the future, if the Senate cross-examination of new Federal Communications Chairman Newton Minow is any criterion.

The senators pounded the new chairman, a law partner of Adlai Stevenson, pretty hard on the manner in which crime on TV is influencing American morals.

"Last night was a very bad night and most of us stayed home," cross-examined Sen. John Pastore (Dem., R.I.). "I looked at TV for three or four hours. I don't know how many people were horsewhipped, I don't know how many were shot, I don't know how many were killed. Just sitting there, I wondered what kind of an influence this has on people. I think the American public deserves something better than that."

"Senator, I will do my best," replied Minow. "I certainly hope we can have more wide open spaces between the westerns and more public affairs than private eyes. The commission has a role in elevating and encouraging better programs, and I am determined to do something about it."

SEN. YARBOROUGH (Tex. Dem.): "Groups from foreign countries say that the worst export America has, doing us more harm in our foreign relationships than anything else, is American films and television programs."

CHAIRMAN MAGNUSON (Wash. Dem.): "When a thing is fiction, it should be so labeled. And when it attempts to present historical fact, it should be as accurate as possible. That hasn't been done in television shows."

MINOW: "Exactly."

MAGNUSON: "That is something the commission does have the authority to handle and it is a sensitive thing. All these Wyatt Earps and Bat Mastersons, if you read their history you wouldn't believe the two are the same people."

MINOW: "I am going to try my best to do something about that, Mr. Chairman."

SEN. COTTON (N.H. Rep.): "Do you, as a lawyer, feel that while the FCC couldn't legally and legitimately, probably say to a licensee, 'We are going to deny you a renewal of your license because you put on shootings and crime plays,' you could analyze the proportion of time they put into that and say, 'You are putting in a disproportionate amount of time, and it should be a better balanced program?'"

MINOW: "That is my view, Senator."

SEN. COTTON: "Do you feel that you would have legal ground to stand to really deny a licensee and have some force and some power in enforcing that sort of regulation?"

MINOW: "I do, Senator. I feel that, after all, the airways belong to the people. When the government assigns the right to use the people's property, it has a legitimate concern and a legal right to see to it that it is used in the public interest."

Will TV Audience Get Too Much JFK?

THERE WAS no television in Shakespeare's day but he had something to say about heads of state who allow themselves to be seen too much by the public.

Admonishing his son, Prince Hal, Shakespeare's King Henry IV said: "By being seldom seen, I could not stir but like a comet—I was wondered at... Thus did I keep my person fresh and new; my presence, like a robe pontifical, ne'er seen but wondered at..."

Some television critics believe that even President Kennedy will lose some of his viewing audience if he televises too many of his press conferences.

The President's advisers are alert to any lessening of public interest in televised press conferences. That is one reason that evaluations will be made before each conference.

In his short time in office, President Kennedy has made it clear that he wants to know and be known by the public. This is in the public interest for all too often Presidents have become increasingly isolated in the White House.

In televised press conferences, the public will become well acquainted with the President. Any one who speaks extemporaneously reveals his innate characteristics clearly. In addition to the stated views, there are the interesting personal mannerisms, facial expressions, gestures, and all the intangibles of personality.

The impact of newspapers has not been lessened by the televised conferences. People still want to read the President's statements in order to give real thought to his views and policies.

Is Suffrage of Ignorance Best Way to Run a Nation?

REMEMBER THE YARN about the southern Negro scholar who tried to crack the prejudice barrier at one of the deep South's polling places? White voting officials kept submitting new tests to the Negro; the Negro kept giving all the right answers. Finally the election board pulled out a chart written entirely in Chinese.

"What does this chart say," they asked.

"It says," responded the scholar, "that no Negro is going to vote in this election."

This fable dramatizes an extreme which might be used to deny franchise to a United States citizen. It is, of course, an abuse of the so-called literacy test.

The Tucson Daily Citizen editorializes, in attacking the Democratic platform's "proposal to abolish literacy tests as a qualification for voting in national elections," that "if the republic is to function by the combined expression of informed public opinion and decision through the ballot box, it cannot allow our government to become a government of the ignorant for the ignorant."

The Tucson newspaper holds that the ability to read the ballot or the Constitution and newspapers "is a qualification that would seem more minimum than extreme." Just to require that a voter be able to read fails to touch another problem, the paper says; the problem of the illiterate. These are literate persons who haven't the foggiest notion about their government's political affairs or personnel.

FIVE NEW YORK CITY colleges studied their students on this score. The study showed 71 per cent were familiar with Pogo but 95 per cent had not even heard the name of the secretary of health, education and welfare. Thirty-four collegians thought Faubus was a rock-and-roll singer.

Although this franchise matter is controversial, it would seem the best case is for more information and literacy among our voters rather than less. An illiterate may get a lot of information by radio and television but his ballot marking is likely to be an emotional rather than rational exercise.

Abuse of literacy tests is another matter. Official challenging of the voter as he stands in the line on election day can intimidate and discourage him.

Assemblyman Robert W. Crown (D-Alameda), chairman of the Assembly committee on elections and reapportionment, has introduced a state bill, AB 370, "to eliminate the provision for challenging voters at the polls on grounds of inability to read the Constitution."

CROWN SAYS the bill seeks "to eliminate the possibility of delays in voting or the disenfranchisement of the voting privilege which might result from extensive challenging of voters on the grounds of disability to read the Constitution."

Crown points out that the Elections Code now provides that persons affirm at the time of registering to vote that they can read the Constitution. He added:

"The proper tests to determine whether or not a prospective voter meets the reading qualifications can best be met at the time of registration when full opportunity for a complete test is afforded each prospective voter."

"My particular concern in this regard was occasioned by reports of intimidation of foreign-speaking voters at the polls during the 1960 general election."

IT SEEMS fallacious to me to place mystic faith any longer in the ability of the American electorate always to arrive at the best choices through this vague and alchemic premise that makes all men equal at the ballot box.

I would agree the test should be made at registration time rather than at the voting booth. But, in addition to literacy tests, there should be an elementary test for familiarity with ballots and issues.

Flagrant inattention to even this elemental responsibility of citizenship and liberly seems unworthy credential for the right to vote.

Demos Do the Job 'Quick and Easy'

EDITOR: Boy, that new Democratic administration certainly didn't waste much time in throwing the country into a good, old-fashioned depression. We were going along just fine until they took over.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Nixon both kept telling us we never had it so good. In comes Mr. Kennedy and in less than 30 days we have over 5½ million unemployed, the greatest number in over 20 years.

I will say one thing for those Democrats, they certainly act fast and get the job done, quick and easy.

Yes, I'm for the good old days when those two honorable men told us about the good time we were having.

Ximeno Busy Bus, Truck Artery

EDITOR: You and your paper have been most helpful to our traffic situation here on Ximeno Avenue, and we do appreciate the articles that you have published. Just so you and the general public won't believe that we lack public spirit or that we wish to deny transportation to anyone, I would like to give you some figures that so far you have not published.

On this narrow, residential street we now have, between the two bus systems, a total of 396 trips daily.

We are not a truck route, but since this has never been enforced on this street we have 60 large trucks an hour at peak hours. This is not counting the smaller pickup types which are permitted.

Wilson High School is on this street and we have, and do not object to, an abundance of fast-driving kids, which does add to the traffic and turmoil.

DURING the day we often have over 300 cars an hour. This street is the "funnel" from Pacific Coast Highway and Anaheim to the beach area, so for seven months of the year we have cars with boats, trucks with boats and trailers with boats.

We don't want to eliminate bus service on Ximeno. We just want relief from the recent addition of the 300-odd bus trips added to this already crowded street. And we would appreciate the city posting "No truck route" signs and the police department enforcing the law.

Declares Wages Raise Prices

EDITOR: In a recent letter H. G. Boyd said "I wonder when the public, laboring man and unions will realize that they are pricing wages and labor out of the American market."

It is time to realize that the unionists cannot run this country by telling people where, when and how much to work for. Their claim that the Republicans covered up the facts is a weak excuse for too many strikes for higher wages at the wrong time.

How much workers should be paid depends on how much the traffic will bear. All things considered but this, nobody works until he gets what he wants called (union bargaining) is no way to decide. Now the unionists are asking the government for help. How about some new laws to allow more fair minded people with common sense to help themselves.

LONG AGO IN LONG BEACH

Tolstoy Was Guest in Virginia Hotel

By R. WINSTON TUCKER

ON JULY 20, 1906, Jotham Bixby laid the cornerstone for the Hotel Bixby later known as the Virginia Hotel. The building site was just south of Ocean Avenue between Chestnut and Magnolia Avenues.

One quarter of a million dollars was invested in the "H" shaped structure and grounds. Ten thousand loads of soil were used in the lawns and gardens. Both the east and west wings were designed to provide a pleasant view of the mountains on the north and the sea to the south. The lobby contained massive marble pillars and a beautiful marble staircase. A Gothic style main dining room extended the entire length of the east wing. Luxurious accommodations were provided for 600 guests in a fireproof setting.

WHEN COMPLETED early in 1908 Long Beach had something new and different to offer. We now had the only seaside resort hotel in the world that provided peace of mind for the ocean swimmer. Dressing rooms, life lines and a fully equipped life saving crew were included with each reservation. Patrons were also privileged to use the Virginia Country Club.

The hotel was host to many distinguished people including various ambassadors, Leo Tolstoy of Russia and certain well known movie stars.

Southern California championship tennis tournaments were held here. The first long distance call from New York to Long Beach came to the Virginia. It also participated in the first wireless message and first radio broadcast.

Because of the results of the depression the hotel was closed in 1932. In 1933 the building was torn down.

BARBERS report that crew-cuts are going out of style and longer hair is coming back. And just when we had finally given up, and sold our comb-company stock at a loss.

THERE WAS a brief flurry of debate over exactly what color the President's eyes are. This is unimportant, of course. What matters is the way the orators describe them—clear, farsighted, etc.

EVERYONE should participate in the Civil War Centennial, if only to the extent of telling the children once again about how great-grandpaw dodged the draft.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

U.S. Will Lower Home Loan Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government moved Saturday to strengthen home building by adding more than $1 billion to the supply of money available for mortgage loans.

The steps taken are expected to lower interest rates and cut some cash down payments on houses costing more than $18,000.

The action was taken as the Commerce Department reported a 12 per cent increase of housing starts in January. The department said the end of the downward slide was partly brought about by starts that had been delayed by bad weather in December.

Smith Attack Grows

BERN, Switzerland (UPI)—The government-controlled Swiss radio Saturday urged the United States to withdraw the name of Earl E. T. Smith as ambassador to Switzerland on grounds he would "complicate" the Swiss task of caring for American interests in Cuba.

The radio said Smith, a former ambassador to Havana, was a supporter of ousted Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista. Since the United States broke relations with the Fidel Castro regime in Havana, Switzerland has been handling American affairs in Cuba.

The radio statement followed strong press criticism of President Kennedy's choice for envoy to Switzerland.

The government officially has said nothing, but it has announced it would withhold approval of Smith's nomination "pending investigation." This was an unusual move in diplomatic affairs.

JFK, Top Aides in Huddle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, U. S. Ambassador to Moscow Llewellyn E. Thompson and other top-echelon advisers held another White House conference Saturday on how to deal with the Russians.

A spokesman said the discussion was "more or less an exploration of views" and was not intended "to reach decisions or chart policy."

Joining Kennedy and Thompson were Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman, Charles E. Bohlen, a special adviser on Soviet relations; McGeorge Bundy, the President's assistant on national security; and Foy Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Thousands in Polaris Protest

LONDON (AP)—Philosopher Bertrand Russell launched his civil disobedience campaign for nuclear disarmament Saturday, leading thousands of Britons in a sitdown demonstration outside the London Defense Ministry.

Another demonstration—like Russell's against the projected American Polaris base on Scotland's Holy Loch—massed more than 7,000 marchers in the streets of Glasgow. The rallies in Britain's two biggest cities were the largest public protests so far against the Polaris base and nuclear weapons. An estimated 12,000 persons took part in the two demonstrations.

Union Heeds JFK, Shuns Raise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Los Angeles local of the plasterers' union Friday night rejected a 12½-cent-an-hour wage boost offered by employers.

"We feel our present wages are sufficient," said Burt Chapman, president of Plasterers Local No. 2. Plasterers now earn $4.25 an hour.

"We turned down the extra money in order to support President Kennedy's plea to hold the line on inflation," said Chapman, "and because it may stimulate construction work."

Fire Kills S.F. Family of 4

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A family of four burned to death Saturday morning when fire raced through their upstairs flat so quickly they could move only a few feet from their beds.

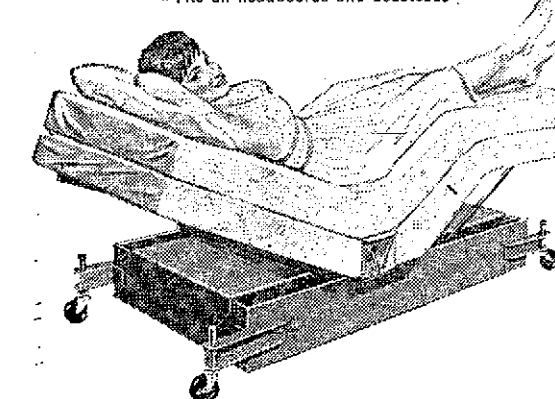

Dead were John T. Donahue, 30, an insurance adjuster; his wife, Gerie, and their two daughters, Marine, 1, and Mary Jane, 3.

Hodges Predicts Rise in Employment; Goldberg Defends 'Recession' Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — An upturn in employment by April was forecast Saturday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

Hodges said he expects President Kennedy's anti-recession program to give a lift to business generally by spring.

The secretary's remarks were made during a televised discussion with Reps. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and John Lindsay, R-N.Y.

Hodges said the nation's economy is basically sound, but that emergency measures were called for to relieve the unemployment situation.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg Saturday rejected criticism of his use of the word "recession" in describing the nation's economic condition.

The labor secretary said the term "recession" was justified by conditions that included 5.5 million unemployed, a decline in industrial production for the sixth straight month, falling income and payrolls, and the classification of half of the country's industrial areas as depressed.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Organized labor leaders Saturday hailed President Kennedy's new top-level labor-management committee as a long needed opportunity to work out solutions to some of the nation's most pressing problems.

AFL-CIO chiefs here for winter union meetings gave assurances that they won't team up with the advisory group's public members to ram home policies over industry objections. Instead, they said that in order for policies to be implemented they must have common consent.

The President appointed the group Thursday, naming seven top representatives each of the public, labor and industry.

SKIER, INVENTOR, CAPITALIST

Signing Money Principal Job of Busy Libby Smith

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elizabeth Rudel Smith, new, soft-spoken treasurer of the United States, is a skier, grandmother, capitalist, inventor, businesswoman and politician.

Although she cannot be said to hold one of the more important jobs in Washington, her name will become one of the best known. Her signature and that of C. Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury, appears on new paper money being gradually fed into circulation.

Democratic national committeewoman from California, "Libby" Smith acknowledges that she knows little about federal finances. But she is confident she has the ability to learn all about her $17,000-a-year job.

It is one of the few political sinecures left in Washington. A treasurer is expected to make speeches, promote savings bonds, look after some political matters—and sign money. She is free to leave the humdrum or complex daily matters of treasury administration to subordinates.

LIBBY SMITH
Started Fire-Starters

—and some treasurers have done just that.

HOW MRS. SMITH will handle the job remains to be seen. Undoubtedly, it will depend partly on "outside" demands on her time—she already has speaking commitments for May—and how she likes the work. Treasury sources said she was wading right in.

Mrs. Smith is no stranger to money matters. She served as a director of a family business for many years, the Rudel Machinery Co. of Montreal, and with a friend founded a women's clothing shop in her adopted home town of Kentfield, Calif., in 1945.

"That was a war year," Mrs. Smith recalled. "We had to scramble for dresses and materials. We were new and all the factories were selling to their regular customers."

Once the store was a success, she sold her interest and began to look around for something else to do.

She took 15 hours of vocational aptitude tests and they pointed toward politics. Coincidentally, her neighbor, Roger Kent, decided to run for Congress. Libby Smith telephoned him to offer her services. He made her chairman of women's activities in his campaign.

THE APPTITUDE tests were right. Libby Smith liked politics and found she had a flair for it (although Kent lost; he is now Democratic state chairman). She became chairman of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, a director of the California Democratic Council and, in 1956, national committeewoman.

A few years ago Mrs. Smith branched out in still another direction. A nephew interested her in the problem of starting campfires with damp wood. She got to thinking about it and fashioned a paraffin and cotton torch which "smelled up the whole neighborhood. It was dreadful."

Disappointed but not discouraged, she consulted a local candle maker. She eventually came up with a fire starting device which she patented. After investing $1,500 in token production and marketing to show the product had a future, Mrs. Smith sold her interest and patent rights for a tidy profit.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Outlaw Oves Fall to Mom

(Prepared in collaboration with Medical Education Department, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M. D.

Medical scientists have three promising leads in the search for drugs to combat virus diseases.

While there are antiviral drugs in existence today, they are too poisonous to the patient for their use to be permitted.

Antibiotics, on the other hand, are useless against most viruses. They combat chiefly bacteria.

Here are the leads to date, reported in the journal Lancet:

• A substance called HBB, active in animal tests and test-tube experiments against polio and the polio-like viruses, Cocksackie and ECHO.

• An agent called helenine, active in animal tests against influenza viruses and certain other viruses that attack brain and heart tissue.

• A substance called interferon, which inhibits virus growth in the experimental animal without damaging its tissue cells.

When viruses multiply, they borrow their host cell's foodstuffs, metabolic machinery and enzyme equipment. The researcher's task is to find a substance that will interrupt the virus's activity without interfering with the cell's function.

WHAT LEADS A MAN into a life of crime? His mother's personality, most likely, says a new book, "Origins of Crime."

The book, reviewed by a medical journal, says that a mother's cruelty, neglect or absence has been shown to have a high degree of association with all types of criminality.

On the other hand, a mother's love (overprotective attitude), anxiety or a neurosis shows a low association with crime rates.

Also of great importance in the creation of criminality: the father's personality. Tending to produce criminality in a majority of boys studied were paternal absence, cruelty or neglect.

Overstressed, says the book, is the influence of the broken home. It's the personality of the parents—not the fact that a parent is missing.

THE CAUSE OF JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is not clearly understood, says a Denver psychiatrist. But one factor, says Dr. James Galvin of the University of Colorado, appears to be a disordered family in which the child cannot satisfy certain emotional needs.

Delinquent behavior supplies a need for these troubled children.

For one thing, he says, they acquire security and affection from the gang.

For another, delinquency provides a means by which they can attempt to master fear and anxiety. To the delinquent the dare is important.

Delinquent children often say they dislike the taste of liquor, the experience of being drunk or the experience of sex, Dr. Galvin says in the American Journal of the Medical Sciences.

THE EARLIER you place a child in a foster home, the better he'll adjust. This is the finding of Gordon Trasler, Ph. D., who reports a study of foster children in a book entitled "In Place of Parents."

When youngsters are placed in foster homes before they're 4, two-thirds can be expected to adjust well, Dr. Trasler says. But if they're between 7 and 13, only 30 per cent can be expected to achieve a good adjustment.

FROM A MEDICAL STANDPOINT, should a woman marry her half-uncle.

A Utah doctor asks this question in the Journal of the American Medical Association and is answered by famed family relations expert Paul Popenoe, Sc. D.

Says Dr. Popenoe: "Specialists are taking a more negative attitude toward consanguineous marriage (inbreeding). In the case described, the medical implications, though not extremely serious, are definitely more serious than if the man and woman were unrelated."

The Utah doctor points out that the woman's mother and the half-uncle have the same father.

"This couple would be advised not to marry," states Dr. Popenoe.

Burn, Wound Patients Better Off Home

Patients with extensive burns and deep wounds are less likely to acquire disease complications if they can go home early from the hospital. The finding is the result of a 3½-year-old pilot study at Los Angeles County General Hospital, Dr. Ann Alconin told the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Service of Long Beach in Petroleum Club.

Dr. Alconin is medical director of the hospital's home care research program. David Bryant was re-elected president of the Visiting Nurse Service of Long Beach. Other officers for 1960-61 are Mrs. Eugene Hamilton, first vice president; Mrs. T. Arrow-smith, second vice president; Rene Sebring Smith, treasurer; and Mary D. Forbes, secretary.

Birth Control Experiments Switch From Pills to Principle of Vaccine

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Those birth control pills now beginning to reach drug stores in quantity are "old hat" in scientific circles.

The pills have three major disadvantages. They're expensive, they work only for women, not men, and they have to be taken daily.

To scientists seeking some practical way of curbing the world's runaway boom in babies, none of the pills marketed so far is the answer.

Researchers now are working on a completely new principle—a vaccine—which would not only meet the shortcomings of current drugs but would have this additional factor: the artificially induced sterility could be either temporary or permanent, depending on the dosage.

THE PILLS recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration suppress the reproductive process in women. A hormone called estrogen causes the ovaries to cease releasing ova, or egg cells.

The new principle is immunization, borrowed from standard medical techniques in prevention of disease.

Small doses of polio virus, for instance, prompt the body to build up a resistance, or immunity, to polio.

Under study now at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena is a vaccine which, in small animals at least, makes female egg cells and male sperm cells immune to each other.

DR. ALBERT TYLER, professor of embryology, has found a way of treating the sperm of sea urchins so that the natural attraction of sperm to egg cells is broken. He does this by treating the sperm with a solution containing bits of egg cell. The sperm becomes resistant to egg cells with the result that there is no fertilization.

Tyler hasn't tried it out with humans yet. Much experimentation must be done to determine if immunization will cause harmful side effects.

He sees the possibility that overdosage, for instance,

Spinal-Cord Injuries Hope Seen

Two medical scientists predicted this weekend that regeneration of matter in the central nervous system will eventually be achieved.

Regeneration, once considered an impossible goal, would give new hope to spinal-cord-injury patients.

The prediction was voiced at a symposium on paraplegia by Dr. William F. Windle, chief of the laboratory of neuro-anatomical sciences, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., and Dr. Carmine Clemente, associate professor of anatomy at UCLA Medical Center.

The symposium, attended by 22 authorities on paraplegia, was held at the Los Angeles County Medical Association building in Los Angeles.

SPONSOR IS the newly organized California Spinal Cord Research Foundation and the Los Angeles Society of Neurology and Psychiatry. Drs. Windle and Clemente said that only basic research will disclose how the spinal cord can regenerate in certain lower forms of life, such as lizards, salamanders and fishes.

Although animal experimentation already has demonstrated that a certain amount of regeneration can occur, the scientists emphasized that even in animal experimentation there has been no success in restoring function.

Dr. John D. French, former head of research at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital and now director of UCLA's Brain Research Institute, presided. Conferees on Saturday toured the spinal cord injury service of the Long Beach VA Hospital, with Dr. Ernest Bors, chief of the service, as host. Dr. Bors is chairman of the medical advisory board of the Spinal Cord Research Foundation.

might lead to a strong allergic reaction between spouses.

As a matter of fact, says Tyler, some sort of natural allergy or immunity may be the reason some perfectly healthy couples fail to have babies.

"There are many cases," he says, "of childless people who have had children after separating and marrying other spouses."

TYLER'S BROTHER, Dr. Edward Tyler, who is medical director of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Planned Parenthood Assn., says, "this application of the principle of immunization is one of the most important developments yet made in birth control."

Edward Tyler, who is on the faculty of the School of Medicine at UCLA, believes an immunization vaccine could be made effective for a year, two years or even longer.

This would be of great benefit, he says, in overpopulated countries where millions are too poor to afford the 50-cents-a-day pills now being offered to Americans.

At the Planned Parenthood Clinic, where 1,500 men and women are under observation in various studies, Edward Tyler is experimenting with a pill which suppresses the production of sperm.

Twenty-five men are taking the pills in small doses but Tyler says it is too early to be certain how effective they will be.

3 Police Hurt in Race Riot

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Three policemen were injured and 11 Negroes arrested in a clash between 300 Negroes and 15 police officers early Saturday.

The rock and bottle throwing crowd gathered after the arrest of a Negro, Clethurs Smith Jr., charged with disorderly conduct in a night club.

In a scuffle with Smith, officer James King was pushed through a glass door. Patrolman W. G. Gore was treated for a wrenched shoulder and H. L. Crawford suffered a knife wound in his right fore arm.

HARBOR VIEWS

Port Record 170 Ships in 1 Month

By LEE CRAIG

One of the oldest records in the file now being compiled for Long Beach Harbor by Frank Black, new assistant port public relations director, is the mark for total number of ships to arrive in the harbor in any one month. Black notes that back in November of 1956 a total of 170 vessels called at the port, a greater number than in any similar period before or since. However, it shouldn't be in the record book much longer. Latest figures show that 168, 166 and 169 ships arrived here during October, November and December of last year.

LONG BEACH HARBOR'S Val Deaser, chief electrical, mechanical and plant superintendent for the port, will be among featured speakers at the Spring assembly of the Radio Technical Commission for Marine Services April 5-7 in San Francisco. Deaser will talk on efficiency of the radar ship guidance system here, the first such system ever established in the Western Hemisphere.

STILL ANOTHER PAIR of new Philippines freighters will call here this week, one in each local harbor.

First to arrive will be the Transocean Merchant, first United Philippine Line ship to enter UPL's newly established joint service with Pacific Orient Express Line from the Pacific Coast to the Philippines, Hong Kong and Japan. The Transocean Merchant will dock Wednesday at General Steamship Corp.'s new terminal at Berth 143 in Los Angeles Harbor.

Calling at Long Beach's Argonaut Terminal, operated by Balfour, Guthrie, will be the Philippines President Mag-saysay on Friday.

AN AMERICAN VISITOR to the port, a passenger aboard a German freighter, was telling of watching television in a German home recently.

It shook him up a bit, he reported, when Gunsmoke's Marshal Matt Dillon met a full-blooded Choctaw on the prairie and the Indian raised his arm and solemnly intoned: "Wie Gehts?"

PUC to Get Red Car Ballots, Petitions

By GEORGE WEEKS

The landslide majority favoring rail cars over buses on the Long Beach-Los Angeles line continues to grow.

A semifinal tally shows 2,077 voluntary, signed ballots (published in The Independent Press-Telegram) for retaining the Red Cars, against 22 for the new bus system.

A week ago the count stood at 1,617 for rail service, 13 for buses.

THE NEWSPAPER coupons, letters and petitions will be presented to the State Public Utilities Commission Thursday at the opening session of a two-day hearing on the joint campaign of Long Beach and Compton to head off abandonment of the rail line.

Numerous civic groups also have announced they will appear in support of the cities' petition that PUC require Pacific Electric Railway Co. to lease its rail facilities to the Metropolitan Transis Authority, or else offer a comparable rail service of its own. PE is resisting the complaint. MTA directors have said they will continue to operate the cars, rather than a proposed new bus system, if they got a lease on satisfactory terms.

CITY ATTY. Lloyd A. Bulloch of Compton is working with four Long Beach officials in preparing evidence. The four are City Atty. Gerald Desmond, Deputy City Atlys. Leslie E. Still and Edward Bennett and Chief Engineer Henry E. Jordan of the Bureau of Franchises.

The state commission has assigned Examiner Keht Rogers to conduct the public hearing, set for 10 a.m. Thursday and Friday at the Veterans Memorial Building, Broadway and Cedar Avenue.

MATE FINALLY WINS A BATTLE

HYOGO, Japan (UPI) — Police Saturday held a hen-pecked husband whose bad dream made him turn on his wife.

They said farmer Shosaku Uchiyama never could win an argument, and his wife always concluded their disputes by beating him up. On Friday Uchiyama dreamt she was hitting him again. It was the last straw. He got up, grabbed a sword and slashed her leg.

K Lashes 'Deceivers and Windbags' in Farm Program

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was quoted Saturday as saying the Russian farm system will have to weed out the "drunkards, parasites, windbags, idlers, fiddlers and deceivers" in its ranks if it wants to surpass U. S. agricultural output.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia disclosed that Khrushchev levelled the blasts at some farm leaders in a speech Feb. 11 in the province of Voronezh.

"Some leaders . . . must not only blush but will have to answer for these deceptions, and fiddling," he said.

Then the Soviet leader took up the specific case of Abouz Koval, secretary of the Gorchechinoya Rayon (collective farm unit) party committee of the Kursk region.

Koval, Khrushchev said, "decided to earn himself glory without doing any work."

"He summoned the manager of a cattle procurement organization . . . and suggested he write out a receipt for 5,000 quintals of meat allegedly delivered by collective farms in the Rayon," the premier related.

"Reports for the Rayon and for the collective farms turned out to be good. However, when the Rayon was ordered to send on the cattle, the cattle were not there."

"This and other 'fiddles' by Koval were well known throughout Kursk blast," Khrushchev, recently on a tour of farming areas, told Voronezh farmers that "the task of overtaking and surpassing the United States in the per capita output of agricultural produce is one that is realistic and can be achieved in a short time."

But to achieve this, he said, each republic must "combat anti-social behavior."

Angels, Dodgers Launch Spring Drills

New AL Club Assembles at Palm Springs Friday

By ROSS NEWHAN

From 35-year old Ned Garver to 18-year old Fred Newman, from 38-year old Del Rice to 18-year old Jim Fregosi. Some 36 ballplayers—some old, some new, some familiar, some unknown—will assemble amid the lush resort surroundings of Palm Springs Friday to begin spring preparations for Southern California's first American League baseball club.

FOLLOW THEM IN I-PT

Lederer, Newhan on Ball-Baseball!

Baseball's spring training season is here and the Independent, Press-Telegram will be right on top of all the diamond news on two fronts, beginning this week.

Veteran baseball writer George Lederer will cover the Dodgers' spring drills at Vero Beach, Fla., while Ross Newhan will report activities of the American League's new club, the Angels, at Palm Springs.

Lederer was scheduled to depart this morning with the main Dodger contingent from Los Angeles International Airport. Present vice chairman of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, Lederer has covered every activity of the Dodgers since they arrived from Brooklyn four seasons ago.

Newhan will be on the job Friday when the Angels officially open their initial camp at Palm Springs.

Opening stories of Lederer and Newhan can be read on this page today. Additionally, a feature story on other Long Beach major leaguers' departures for spring training by Jerome Hall can be found on page 3 today.

Hall will have other stories on individual Long Beach major leaguers in both the Independent and the Press-Telegram this week.

So, for the latest major league information be certain to read the Independent and the Press-Telegram throughout the spring.

Longden Clan Cheers Win by Flutterby

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Saturday was family day at Santa Anita as the Longden clan bagged the big sack of marbles when Flutterby scored a head triumph in the $59,200 San Felipe Handicap.

In the race which annually serves as the final stepping-stone for the big $100,000 three-year-old derby two weeks later, poppa John Longden was aboard the winner while his son, Vance, trained the Canadian Alberta Rancho's colt.

The impressive victory was a chip-off-the-old-block affair for Flutterby, whose sire (Noor) and Mama (Blue Butterfly) both were major stakes winners in California.

Favored Flutterby ($7) out-nodded Willie Shoemaker's second choice, Olden Times, while the 44-1 shot, Wire Us, salvaged the show spot, some three lengths behind the victor.

HIGHLY-REGARDED Captain Fair (5-1) which had finished no worse than second in his last 11 outings, staggered across the line in fifth position just in arrears of another longshot, Game (47-1).

Longden, who celebrated his 54th birthday on Valentine's Day, sparked Flutterby with a masterful ride through the bulky 13-horse field.

While Olden Times was carving out the pace, Longden was content to hold Flutterby in seventh place for the first half-mile of the mile and one-sixteenth chase.

Just before the field completed the turn for home, Longden switched his colt from an inside position to the far outside, then flicked on the spare fuel tank. Flutterby dispatched Shelbyville, Light Talk and Wire Us, then aimed his telescope on Olden Times, which had a two-length lead going into the stretch and

Under the banner of the Los Angeles Angels—a name long cherished by Pacific Coast League devotees—these players will set their sights on April 11 at Baltimore, when Los Angeles will officially become a part of the American League.

Owned by Bob Reynolds and Gene Autry, managed in the office by Fred Haney and on the field by Bill Rigney, the club was formed out of an American League grab-bag and experts will tell you the pickings were mighty meager.

But the experts, perhaps, have not scratched the surface. There is already a driving spirit among the Angels.

SAYS PROMISING second baseman Ken Aspromonte: "We're going to fool a lot of people. We've been called rinky-dinks and fringe players. Well, that's wrong. A lot of us are guys who only needed a break. We're a bunch of angry men."

Says veteran pitcher Truman Clevenger: "The Angels are a better ball club right now than the Washington teams I played with in 1957, '58 and '59. We'll be much better than anyone thinks we will."

Says Haney: "We have a ball club that's going to surprise many, many people."

It is with this uniting spirit that the Angels will begin one-a-day drills at the spectacular Springs. Workouts will be held 10 to 1 daily at the Polo Grounds.

EXCEPT FOR the pitching staff there will not be the pruning of rookies in these workouts as in other spring camps, but there will be more of a search for the right starting combination.

There will be several interesting battles for starting positions.

At shortstop, Long Beach pride Rocky Bridges will duel Ken Hamlin, acquired from Kansas City. At first base, a battle of literally giant proportions will take place among Ted Kluszewski, Steve Bilko and Julio Becquer.

Aspromonte and Eddie Yost have the inside tracks to the second and third base positions, but youngsters Gene Leek, Don Ross and Jim Fregosi could make things interesting.

In the outfield, Jim McAnany, Albie Pearson and Faye Throneberry will battle for the right to start alongside Bob Cerv and Ken Hunt.

THERE ARE 14 pitchers on the Angels' staff. A 15th, Jack Harshman, will be in camp as a free agent and a 16th, Morris Cigar, will also be in camp but is assigned to Dallas-Fort Worth.

Once again the experts will tell you Angel pitching strength is mighty slim, but once again they may be mistaken.

Veterans Garver, Eli Grba, Duke Maas, Jerry Casale and Ted Bowsfield will form the front line to start with, but young hopefuls Ken McBride, Dean Chance, Fred Newman and Bob Sprout will get a

Priest Pins Hopes on Aquinas Strike

FRESNO (P)—A super-goof has delivered a bowling ball to a priest in Glen Ellyn, Ill., and 13 volumes of Summa Theologica by St. Thomas Aquinas—in Latin—to a bowler somewhere.

This came to light Saturday when two Fresno book dealers received a letter from the Rev. J. Clarence Burns of Maryknoll Seminary in Glen Ellyn. He said he would like to have his books and he added he was sending back the bowling ball.

The Fresno post office suggested that boxes containing the ball and the books probably broke open and clerks accidentally switched the contents in repackaging. "I've never known a single bowler who read Aquinas," said Donald Demarest, book dealer. "But who knows, maybe the guy can read the books."

Buzzie's Boys Winging Way to Vero Beach

By GEORGE LEDERER

Spring has sprung for baseball's kind, The season's long, Jim Brosnan remind.

The big question is, Even in Shelley's mind: When October comes, Can the Dodgers be far behind?

General manager Buzzie Bavasi's answer to that verse, or worse, is an emphatic "No." Already Bavasi has laid claim to the National League pennant, which may be either a shock or a welcome surprise for manager Walter Alston.

Twenty-four hours hence, Alston will greet the same squad, basically, which finished a distant fourth, 13 games behind the champion Pittsburgh Pirates last year.

Since Don Drysdale threw the last pitch of 1960 on Oct. 2, Bavasi has made two trades. Neither should upset the bubble gum card business.

Bavasi promised Alston more power and got it by swapping the Dodgers' Convar for a DC-6B. The trouble is that Bavasi also dispatched the club's most capable "stewardess," Joe Pignatano, to Kansas City. Nobu Kawano, the heir to Piggy's job, may need more seasoning.

BAVASI'S OTHER TRADE sent coach Greg Mulleavy to pasture for a year and brought back the often fiery, and also fired, Leo Durocher. Alston may enjoy some benefits from this deal. It's in the cards.

Alston and Durocher should breeze to the bridge championship at Vero Beach's O'Malley-Hilton. As a single, Leo is a cinch for the gin rummy title.

Pennant in hand, Bavasi and president Walter O'Malley will lead the Dodger exodus from International Airport at 10 o'clock this morning. The traveling party also includes vice president Fresno Thompson; 24 players, some accompanied by wives; Dodger office personnel and the press.

When the squad reaches its full complement at Dodger-town, there will be 37 Dodger roster members plus 32 aspirants from the farm system. By the end of the month, the camp's ranks will be increased by the arrival of 28 Tokyo Giants, invited to train with the Dodgers for a month.

The first workout is scheduled Monday morning. The first of 31 exhibition games, including three double-headers, is March 11 against Kansas City.

THE MOST INTERESTING SCRAMBLE of the spring should involve eight outfielders, four first basemen and four third basemen. Some, such as Frank Howard and Tommy Davis, carry dual titles.

There is the chance that Howard, NL "rookie of the

49ERS, TROJANS STUNNED

Cal Poly Plasters Title Bid

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State's championship hopes were dealt a crippling blow when Cal Poly's unpredictable cagers bounced the 49ers, 77-66, Saturday night on the LBSC court before 1,723 fans.

The loss snapped a nine-game home court win streak which the title-conscious 49ers had going and dropped Long Beach a full game back of league-leading Santa Barbara which heads the pack with a 6-2 record.

LONG BEACH now stands 5-3 in CCAA standings and must play its final two league games next weekend on foreign courts (Santa Barbara and Los Angeles State).

The fifth-place Mustangs played the role of spoilers as they jumped into an early 4-3 lead and never trailed again. Long Beach pulled within one point on seven occasions midway in the second half but could never cash in the go-ahead basket.

THE CRUCIAL tilt took on a mysterious effect at the outset when official Art Merriam never showed up. Don Clarkson was forced to work the game alone.

Cal Poly surprised the 49ers by throwing up a tight zone defense which spoiled Long Beach's gunners from close in. Ron Stewart was the most consistent in cracking the Mustang's zone when he topped all scorers with 19 points. Forced to shoot from far out, Stewart popped in 7 of 13 shots and added 5 of 6

Huskies Trip SC, 61-55; 25 for Rudo

SEATTLE (P)—Washington's stubborn Huskies upset the favored Southern California Trojans Saturday night, finishing strongly for a 61-55 Big Five Conference basketball victory.

John Rudometkin, scoring ace of the conference-leading Trojans, stacked up 25 points but the stingy Washington defense kept a tight clamp on the rest of the Southern Cal starters.

When things looked blackest for the Huskies, they came through with their finest effort. Bill Hanson and Lyle Bakken, powers of the teams' front and back courts respectively, fouled out before the middle point of the second half. Senior Earle Irvine and sophomore Dale Easley went into the lineup without checking Washington's momentum.

NEITHER team got farther than six points ahead at any time. The Trojans tallied six before Washington got its first shot of the game and the Huskies' six-point margin was not attained until Clint Names dumped in two free throws with four seconds left to play.

SELVY SPARKS LAKER WIN

(Compiled from Wire Services)

The Los Angeles Lakers moved a big step nearer to a National Basketball Association playoff berth Saturday night when they took on the Royals in Cincinnati.

Frank Selvy and Elgin Baylor scored 28 points each before a national television audience Saturday as the Lakers walloped the New York Knickerbockers, 121-106.

When Detroit lost to St. Louis in a night game, it enabled the second-place Lakers to move a game and one-half in front of the third-place Pistons and three games ahead of idle Cincinnati in the Western Division race.

With 13 games left to play, his poorest games ever against the Knicks Saturday—he averages over 40 points against them—backcourt men Selvy and Jerry West took the play away from the Knicks on their Madison Square Garden home court.

Air Crash Stirs "Fear" Talk

The tragic airplane crash which wiped out the entire United States figure skating team occurred at a very inopportune time for major league baseball clubs, which travel by air far more than any other athletic organizations.

"It's terrible when anything like this happens," commented Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi, "but this particular tragedy happened at a time when baseball teams are ready to open spring training and thus the subject of plane travel becomes a prime topic among certain players who don't like flying at all."

What Bavasi meant was that those "nervous in the air" players become even more agitated when such a tragedy vividly points out what could happen to them. Consequently, their minds aren't 100 per cent on the business of shedding winter avoirdupois and of regaining their past season's batting eye.

One prime example is Don Newcombe, who was in Los Angeles last week at the time of the crash. Newcombe will join the Dodgers at Vero Beach, although he probably won't ever be returned to the Dodgers' pitching roster.

"I got scared all over again about flying when I read about the crash," sighed Newk, who once even turned to a psychiatrist in an effort to eliminate his fear of air travel. "Baseball players are flying so much that I'm scared to death something's going to happen to some team some day."

Obviously—as Bavasi left unsaid, but certainly inferred—a man in the mental frame of Newcombe isn't the best subject for a 20-game win pitching campaign.

The Dodgers log more air miles than any other team in baseball. They take their own plane to every exhibition game in Florida, whereas other teams travel by bus, a major part of the time. During the season, the Dodgers always have to fly cross-country whenever they leave, or return to Los Angeles.

The Giants also have constant cross-country hauls during the season, but they do almost no flying during their Arizona training campaign.

When one considers the staggering number of daily flights in the world, he must realize the odds of an accident are 10,000,000 or more to one... and that's certainly a far greater safety average than the automobile driver can boast.

Yet, it's a terrible mental problem for the worried athlete who must be in the air three or four times a week... and obviously a detraction from his best performance. And for that person, one must harbor genuine pangs of sorrow!

GRABBING THE BRASS RINGS:

... Ram assistant coach Vic Lindskog believes Long Beach State's Dick Keelor stands an excellent chance of making the NFL club next season. "In the films of Keelor I saw, I'd rate him as fine an offensive blocking guard as Duane Putnam—and I think Putnam was the greatest," enthused Lindskog.

When Dodger chucker Sandy Koufax bumped into Cub slugger Ernie Banks at the Friars Club banquet last week, his look of surprise turned to one of dismay. "I see enough of you during the season," sighed Koufax. "Do I have to see you on the banquet circuit, too?"

Banks had an idea how the Cubs' novel "eight-coach corps" could be utilized to advantage this season. "If things go real bad," chuckled Ernie, "we could throw a pitcher on the mound and let the eight coaches form the rest of the team. Then nobody could second-guess anybody else."

MORE BRASS RINGS:

I'm sure Sid Gillman must be smarting over Harry Wismer's comment on the Chargers' move to San Diego. Snorted talkative Harry: "The AFL almost resembles the old Pacific Coast League now with Oakland, Denver and San Diego. And with those cities, it may be as hush."

Chalk off Charger defensive backfield coach Jack Faulkner as one of Norm Van Brocklin's assistants as Minnesota. When Sid Gillman learned the Dutchman was huddling with Faulkner, Jackson immediately landed a juicy raise.

Oh what a difference a race makes. The owners of Fluttersby were quite upset over Johnny Longden's comment when Fluttersby finished second in his last race. Longden said frankly that Fluttersby "doesn't have it to be a winner." Concludes Longden: "If a horse doesn't have guts, it's not my fault... and I see no reason why I shouldn't state such an opinion." Saturday, after Fluttersby had won the San Felipe Handicap, Longden enthused, "when he saw that horse in front, he went right out and got him."

Cal Poly Surprises

attempts from the foul line, perked up the next 10 minutes. Long Beach, which went into the game boasting the highest scoring average in the league, was never able to spring its fast break which blitzed Fresno State Friday night.

Six different times Long Beach cut the deficit to one point, but Poly showed no signs of cracking. When Dunn conference Joe Rycraw and Theo Dunn did the most damage as each pulled down 14 rebounds, Dave Jones was Mustangs spurred ahead by high for Long Beach with 8.10 when Ed Shackelford, Cal Poly uncorked a ball control attack which slowed the first half to a near-stagnant. Taking only the good shots, the Mustangs hit 39 per cent of their shots from the field to move ahead, 32-27, at half. The 49ers were ice-cold and sank only 28 per cent of their shots.

UCLA BREEZES TO 87-82 WIN

CHICAGO (UPI)—Tall UCLA, with its smallest starter measuring 6-3, overcame an out-manned and undersized Loyola team, 87-82, in a non-conference basketball game Saturday night.

It was the 14th game victory in 20 games for the Bruins, who showed the Stadium how height can pay off. John Berberich, 6-8 center, scored easy baskets by just standing in a cluster of players and using his height to tremendous advantage. The star of UCLA, however, was John Green, a 6-3 guard who had 25 points.

UCLA coach Johnny Wooden said he did not use Ron Lawson and Gary Cunningham, a pair of high scorers, until the final seven minutes because they

BUCKEYES EKE BY IOWA, 62-61

IOWA CITY (UPI)—Top-ranked Ohio State, out-played and out-fought until the final two minutes, pulled out the 62-61 victory over Iowa's "second string" Hawkeyes Saturday night on a pair of stolen passes. The Buckeyes, No. 1 in the nation and in the Big 10, trailed Iowa virtually all the way, and never managed more than a tie until the final two minutes.

But then Iowa, pressing for an upset, got reckless and Ohio State plucked off two passes and turned them into scores to take the lead. Larry Siegfried grabbed one and Gary Gearhart got the other to save the game for the Buckeyes.

Iowa got one more chance with 18 seconds remaining and held for a final shot. But center Don Nelson's attempt rimmed the basket and Iowa's frantic rebound attempts proved futile.

The Hawkeyes, paced by Nelson, the only regular left on the squad after a rash of ineligibilities less than two weeks ago, took control of the game from the start.

However, all-American and Olympian Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's center, poured in 17 points in the second half as he nearly single-handedly paced the Buckeye comeback from a 34-24 halftime deficit.

Rudolph Races to Another Record

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Olympic ace Wilma Rudolph set a women's indoor 70-yard dash record Saturday night in the first Mason-Dixon Games and promptly broke it.

Miss Rudolph was timed in 7.9 seconds in a preliminary heat and sped along the boards at Freedom Hall in 7.8 seconds in the finals of this event.

The old mark was 8.2 set 26 years ago by Stella Walsh.

Amazing Cal Comeback Nips Tribe

BERKELEY (AP)—California's Bears, down 45-24 at halftime, made a fantastic comeback Saturday night to beat Stanford, 64-61, in a Big Five conference game.

Two free throws by Bill McClintock broke a 61-61 tie with three minutes left and the Bears stalled it out from there.

A second half California splurge, highlighted by the Bears' scoring 21 points to Stanford's 3, gave Cal the spark needed. Stanford then boosted its lead to 56-48 but the Bears once again spurred and cut it to 56-52.

Stan Morrison took over and scored nine straight points for California to two for the Indians. It gave the Bears their first lead at 61-59.

BIG WALT BELLAMY, held to five points in the first half, broke loose for 23 in the second half Saturday night to help end a three-game Indiana losing streak as the Hoosiers dumped Wisconsin, 98-84, in a Big Ten basketball game.

In other Big Ten games, sharp-shooting Terry Dischinger paced Purdue to a 65-64 squeaker over Michigan and Northwestern topped Illinois, 78-72.

Texas nodded SMU, 71-65, in the nationally televised college game of the week. In other top college games, St. Bonaventure rallied to turn back De Paul, 78-69; Cincinnati rolled over Tulsa, 81-52; St. John's trounced Niagara, 84-62; Bradley rolled over North Texas State, 105-70; Dayton downed Louisville, 91-71; Duke nodded Navy, 75-73; North Carolina tripped Clemson, 61-55, and Wayne Hightower scored 27 points as Kansas laced Colorado, 90-62.

MILT PLUM of the Cleveland Browns football team came into his own during the 1960 season. Final official figures released Saturday showed that Plum beat out more publicized quarterbacks like Norm Van Brocklin and Johnny Unitas in winning the NFL passing championship. Plum led in percentage of completions, 60.4; average gain, 9.19, and

Rams Sign Keelor, L.B. State Ace Guard

By JERRY WYNN

A 49er joined the Rams Saturday... a Long Beach State 49er!

Dick Keelor, standout guard and twice captain at LBSC during the past three seasons, has signed a contract to play for the Rams.

While the barrel-jawed, 235-pound 24-year-old from Redondo Beach made a loud noise in CCAA football and wrestling circles, he wasn't given a whistle by either pro football league in their college drafts.

WHEN INFORMED that Keelor was bypassed, Long Beach State line coach Fred Miller abruptly told this reporter, "Keelor is a better player than most of those all-America boys picked high in the draft."

A little birdie then chirped of a pro team hereabouts itching for a crack-jerk offensive guard.

"We'll certainly investigate," said Rams' ace publicist Jack Teale when informed of Keelor's availability.

A former 49er himself, Teale personally obtained information and movie clips on Keelor to show coach Bob Waterfield and line coach Vic Lindskog. Both liked what they saw in the films even though they were taken during the 1959 season when Keelor weighed a mere 195 pounds and had just been shifted from center to guard.

"He's real aggressive and quick," praised Lindskog. "He has a fine attitude," observed Waterfield after an interview with Keelor. "He wants to make the team badly."

To earn a berth on the Rams, Keelor will face competition from the likes of Buck Lansford and Roy Hord, last season's holdovers, and high draftees Marlin McKeever, Hal Beatty, Steve Olderman and Willie Hector.

But the 1959 Pacific Coast heavyweight wrestling champion is confident. "I know I can make it," he declares, "now that I've got the chance."

And the chance starts mid-July when the Rams rookies report to Redlands.

Ball-hawking tactics by West and Selvy disrupted the Knicks each time they tried

The Lakers also got another fine game out of their big center, Ray Felix. He made three tip-ins, scored 15 points and did some fine work under the boards.

Of Selvy's total points, 12 of them came in the second period when the Lakers took command. Tom Hawkins came in at one corner post and scored 16 points in the last half to help keep the Lakers out of range.

Bob Kelley Says

Ingo's Press Agent Having Field Day

I waited a few days so I wouldn't say anything harsh. But I find my feelings haven't changed about Ingemar Johansson's complaint he was drugged before the last Patterson fight.

It reeks of a publicity gimmick, to be frank. Ingo and his trainer, Whitey Binstein, you'll recall, contend they ate at a New York restaurant the night before the fight, and somebody doled Johansson's food or beverage.

INGEMAR JOHANSSON
Angling for Publicity?

Would a drug remain in the system 24 hours later, the night of the bout? "Possibly," Dr. Anonymous told me. "But it is doubtful. If Johansson claims he was giddy the night of the fight, that could be caused by a subconscious fear. Whenever people are scared, they have a tendency to giggle at things which aren't even funny."

It is Binstein's contention that Ingo mysteriously lost six pounds the night before the fight. We must take his word for it, because I wasn't around when they weighed him the day prior to the bout.

Strange though, that Ingo weighed only 147 pounds less for that match than he did the first time, 194 1/2 to 196. Yet Binstein contends he dropped six pounds the very night before.

"IF HE DID LOSE THE SIX POUNDS," Dr. Anonymous observed. "A little thing like diarrhea could explain it."

Binstein, however, denies the presence of diarrhea. Which is OK with me, for some of us doubt the six-pound yarn anyway.

Isn't it amazingly coincidental, though, that Johansson has not made a big thing of the doping suspicion till a month before his next meeting with Patterson?

Put yourself in the place of the fight's press agent. He wants to get people into the arena and into the theaters. He must convince them it will be a tough, close fight.

How? Patterson is a lopsided 3 1/2-1 favorite. So Mr. Press Agent has got to figure out a way to make people think Ingo has a big chance. If he can convince them the Swede wasn't himself the night he got knocked out, it's money in the till.

"By the way," Dr. Anonymous added. "If Johansson and his people thought they were drugged the night of the fight, why didn't they stroll into a lab the next morning? It is very simple to take a couple of samples, and they can tell you right then whether you have any drugs in your system."

DR. ANONYMOUS WAS PUZZLED: "Why didn't they check on it at the time? Why wait till now to bring it up?"

Maybe because it wouldn't have sold any tickets then, Doc.

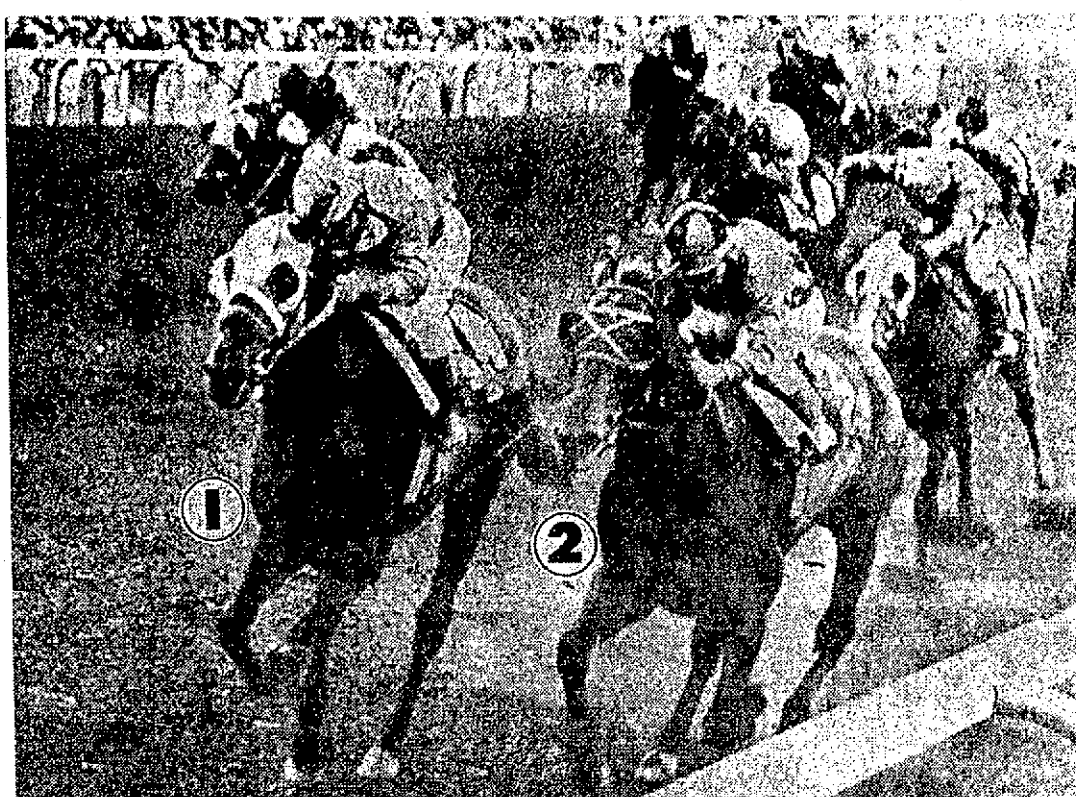

Going back to his theory of a sub-conscious fear causing Ingo's giddiness, the Doctor asked: "Wasn't Johansson the one who tried to jump out of the ring in the Olympic Games?"

On that count, I had to stick up for the Swede. I saw the films of Ingo's controversial fight with Ed Sanders, where Johansson was disqualified for not fighting.

"It wasn't his fault anymore than it was Sanders," I said. "Neither one of them were doing any fighting."

But I'll tell you one guy who's fighting—that press agent. His angles are beauties.

NCAA Ruling Puts Shrine Grid Classic in Jeopardy

By DOUG IVES
"Strong legs run so that weak legs may walk"—that is the theme of the Shrine North-South All-Star football game staged every year since 1952 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

With proceeds used to cover the costs of treatment and cure of crippled children in Shriners hospitals in this area, the mid-summer classic is indeed a worthy one.

But, as startling as it may sound, the NCAA is on the verge of junking this game and others like it throughout the country, because of a few bad eggs which have spoiled all-star games by using them for purely personal reasons. The state executive council of the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) will vote in a March 27 meeting in San Diego on the unprecedented new rule by the NCAA which would in effect:

—Deprive any recent high school graduate one year's varsity eligibility if he participates in an all-star game (in any sport) unless approved by a state interscholastic federation. Unless rules are adopted by the state CIF to cover all-star games for graduates, the 1961 Shrine game cannot be played.

Over a nine-year period, the Shrine game has raised nearly $900,000 to help those less fortunate children who cannot help themselves to regain a semblance of a normal life. It is inconceivable to think that the NCAA would deprive needy children perhaps a new lease on life because of its own shortcomings, yet that is what it intends to do. It is not the Shriners, or other similar organizations, which have fallen short. It is the NCAA which has failed to rid of the bad elements that conduct all-star games under the guise of charity but that really use them for other aims. For fear of citing "bad elements" without giving an example, let us use this hypothetical case—yet let it be known that this case is very close to the actual goings-on.

Say a football or basketball game is planned in a state other than California. Say the organizer is a college or university which wants to recruit out-of-state players but doesn't want to pay the cost of such a venture.

So the game is set up in the name of charity. Players come from other states, and thus this school gets its chance to scout them. Transportation costs, etc., are paid and what's left over (if anything) is ticketed for charity.

These are the bad elements which prompted the NCAA to adopt its new ruling. However, in any basket of eggs there are bad ones and good ones, but to dispose of the rotten ones by discarding the entire basket is not the answer.

(The state CIF executive committee consists of 15 men, five of them from Southern California. They are Winston Nelson, assistant superintendent of Pasadena school district; Oliver Corbin, Covina high principal; Bruce Kirkpatrick, Marshall High (L.A.) principal; Bryce Schurr, principal of Granada Hills, Calif.; and William Schlechte, superintendent of Vista school district in San Diego. The state CIF office is located at 5715 N. Manchester Ave., Los Angeles 45.)

Sifford One Behind Sullivan at Tucson

By HAL WOOD

TUCSON (UPI)—Handsome Buddy Sullivan, an unheralded professional from Yuba City, Calif., rolled in a two-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole Saturday to take undisputed leadership at the end of 54 holes in the $20,000 Tucson Open golf tournament with a score of 199—11 under par.

Sullivan seldom wins any money and never had led a tournament until he tied at the halfway mark Friday with Jay Hebert. Saturday he had a two-under-par 68, which gave him a one-stroke lead over Negro champion Charley Sifford of Los Angeles. Sifford had a 65 on the par 35-35 El Rio Country Club course.

Sullivan had four birdies and two bogeys. He started off his round by chipping into the cup from 15 feet on the first hole and followed that by tanking a 15-footer on the second for a bird. He got another on the par 5 ninth when he got home in two putts. In between he got two bogies.

Six Indy Drivers in Ascot 100-Lapper

Indianapolis Speedway veterans Rodger Ward and Tony Bettenhausen will be cast in the spotlight when a bulky field of 24 blasts off in the 100-lap USAC national championship late model stock car race at Ascot Stadium in Gardena today.

Ward and Bettenhausen, both winners of the '500', are among six Indy drivers who will be seeking the lion's share of the $4,000-added purse.

Dempsey Wilson, Bill Cheesbourg, Wayne Weiler and Paul Goldsmith are the other Indianapolis drivers in the field.

Plenty of local talent will be on hand, topped by Parnelli Jones of Torrance, the 1960 USAC midwest sprint car champion.

Sisk Starts for Rockets in First Game of Playoff

The Long Beach Rockets, champions of the semipro Winter League, meet Ish's Sports Club, the Shaughnessy playoff winner, at Blair Field this afternoon in the first game of a best two-out-of-three series. Game time is 1:45.

Don Rowe and Bill Clear will return today to boost manager Jack Graham's Rocket pitching staff. Former Poly High star Tom Sisk, on the roster of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, is scheduled to start.

Austin, Madron in Hot Rod Main

Jack Austin, Downey, and Audie Madron, Compton, take on the roles of favorites for today's hot rod main event at Gardena's Western Speedway. Time trials start at 1 p.m.

Austin swept to victory in the feature three weeks ago, then last week Madron took top honors, as Austin finished third.

L.B. Pro Jurus Ties Demaret for Third

DUNEDIN (Special)—Johnny Jurus of Long Beach fired a one-under par 71 Saturday to move into a third place tie after three rounds of the PGA Seniors Championship.

Clarence Doser of Gaithersburg, Maryland, added a 72 to previous rounds of 68 and 67 to carry a 207 total and two-stroke lead into today's final 18 holes.

Paul Runyan of La Jolla, Calif., fired a 72 for a 209 total and second place.

Jurus, owner of the Pioneer Driving Range, is tied at 212 with Jimmy Demaret and Ivan Gantz. His 71 was one only three sub-par rounds Saturday.

Lowrey Takes 1-Shot Lead in Baseball Teefest

MIAMI (AP)—Peanuts Lowrey, battling a stubborn virus as well as tough greens, fired a three-over-par 73 Saturday for a 54-hole total of 223 to surge into the lead in the National Baseball Players golf tournament at Miami Springs.

Nancy Kovack, a Singular Girl

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—When people ask Nancy Kovack how she spells her name, they often say, "Is it like Ernie Kovacs?"

Nancy's answer is: "No—I'm singular."

And she certainly is. One day soon she's likely to be a rich Hollywood star, but like the Texan who died and went to Heaven, she won't find happiness there.

Actually, beautiful, rebellious, brunette Nancy dislikes stardom already—though she hasn't attained it yet.

"Everybody'll say 'This girl is out of her nut,'" prophesied the Flint, Mich., firecracker a few days ago—the same gal you've seen on "Beat the Clock" and the Dave Garraway show scores of times.

"Becoming a star is very simple," she said, sipping some tea at the Spindletop. "Just strict discipline and no

Hudson's unusual attire was for a scene in "Lover, Come Back."

In the script, Doris Day, his co-star, strands him at the beach with only his shorts. He hitchhikes a ride back to his apartment with a furrier who

BARGAINS IN $300,000 CLASS

Actors Tire of Battle of High Prices, Dump Fancy Mansions

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Income taxes and the high cost of keeping up fancy Hollywood mansions have forced the sale of some of the most beautiful estates owned by actors.

And not only stars are hit by the rising price of hiring gardeners, maids, butlers and chauffeurs. Others in high income brackets have tired of battling expenses involved in fancy living.

John Clerc-Scott, regional vice president of Previews Inc., an international real estate firm, says some Hollywood homes can be purchased at what amounts to bargain prices.

That is if you consider anything costing in the neighborhood of $300,000 a bargain. Suffice it to say, these aren't tract homes.

"THIS STRONG and steadily growing trend has established a new low ceiling on prices for this type of home and it now is possible to buy many luxury establishments at a fraction of their original cost," said Clerc-Scott.

The realtor admitted, however, that buyers are scarce for the same reason that owners want to sell—high upkeep costs and taxes.

Judy Garland and her husband, Sid Luff, left for England and put their 19 room English tudor mansion up for sale at $335,000. The beautiful home is located on a landscaped estate in the fashionable Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles.

ACTOR JACK WEBB has his eight room ranch style home in nearby Encino for sale at $174,500. The Webb home contains $40,000 worth of hand-carved panelling designed and built by George Montgomery, Dinah Shore's husband.

Besides a swimming pool, Jack's property has a one-stall stable, corral, tournament tennis court, playroom, servant's cottage and guest house. Taxes on Webb's property are approximately $2,379 a year.

Preston Foster is offering his home and 100 acres of working ranch property for $185,000. Located in the Sierra Paloma mountains about 50 miles from Hollywood, Foster's "Twin Oaks Ranch" has all the elements of a working cowboy spread.

The property has a home, recreation building, cow barn, milk house, blacksmith shop, gas station, poultry shed and bunkhouse for cowboys. The yearly tax bill is approximately $1600.

BESIDES MOVIE star's homes, Previews Inc. has some unique residences for sale.

Are you interested in a Japanese palace? Fill out a check for $225,000 and you've got one in Fullerton, Calif., near Los Angeles. Taxes, $1,000 a year. The palace even has its own lake and moon-viewing deck.

If you want to live up the coast from Los Angeles, at Santa Barbara, there's a beautiful hillside estate with a view of the mountains and Pacific ocean offered for $200,000. A yearly tax tab of $3600 goes with the home.

Should you desire something else, there's a New Orleans style French mansion overlooking nearby Malibu. The place boasts walled gardens, a pool and a $250,000 price tag.

SLEEPER

Nobody Naps During Joe E. Lewis Act

HOLLYWOOD (P)—A famed movie star who had a little too much of the juice in him fell asleep at a ringside table during comic Joe E. Lewis' show at a night club.

Lewis nudged him awake and said:

"I don't mind you sleeping during my act, but it hurts when you don't say 'night-night.'"

The squelch kept the star awake the rest of the show.

Sportsmen Booked for Home-O-Rama

"The Sportsmen," one of the nation's outstanding male vocal groups, will headline entertainment during the second annual Long Beach Home-O-Rama which opens March 1 in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

The group, whose repertoire ranges from the light classic to the humorous, have long been familiar to television viewers on such programs as the Jack Benny Show, NBC Saturday Night Review, Red Skelton, Shower of Stars and many others.

They have also appeared

Wayne Wells of the Insurance Furniture firm has been installed president of the Long Beach Retail Furniture Dealers Association at Lafayette Hotel dinner-dance. Other new officers include Ron Frank, vice president; H. G. Montague, treasurer; and Richard Wells, secretary.

Better Business Bureau Praised by City, Navy

Congratulations for a job well done came to the Better Business Bureau of Long Beach during the observance of the 37th anniversary.

From the city came an official proclamation and from the Navy was a letter of deep appreciation for the work in protecting servicemen from unethical business dealings.

Both the city and Navy pointed out that the Better Business Bureau had done much to eliminate fraud and misrepresentation in both advertising and selling among places on the fringe area of downtown Long Beach.

Said Rear Adm. F. J. Becton, commander of the U.S. Naval Base:

"Acting in my capacity as Commander U. S. Naval Base Los Angeles, Long Beach, I would like to take this opportunity, along with many others, to offer my congratulations to your organization on the anniversary of its 37th year of operation and the celebration in the Long Beach Area of Better Business Bureau Week."

"JUST TWO YEARS AGO this Command brought to the attention of several civic organizations the many abuses which occurred to naval personnel because of questionable business practices indulged in by a fringe element of the Long Beach merchants."

"The response to the appeal was immediate and gratifying. One of the many results was the preparation by the Better Business Bureau of the Long Beach area, in conjunction with three other civic-minded organizations, of a Code of Business Ethics in which local business firms were asked to sign pledges against misrepresentation, fictitious list prices, false comparative prices, bait advertising, false mark downs, and sales to minors without realizing they can disaffirm their contracts."

"On this occasion may I again congratulate you and your worthy organization and express the hope that the close cooperation which has existed between the bureau and the Navy over these many years continues for a long, long time."

NOTES OF BUSINESS

Record in Building Is Seen Over State

By KEN CHILCOTE, I.P.T. Business Editor

New construction in California is estimated to total $7 billion in 1961 according to a study released by the California State Chamber of Commerce Department of Economic Development and Research.

"This is an all time high, and it will be $309,000,000 or 4.6 per cent, greater than that for 1960," the report said.

The total is a composite of both public and private spending. It does not include either maintenance or operation.

In explanation the Chamber study observed: "California's prodigious growth in both population and in industrialization has generated large needs for housing, factories, service establishments, utilities, highways, sewers and other facilities which are essential in urbanized, industrial living. These require construction on a vast scale."

"There appear to be ample funds available in 1961 for loans for both residential and non residential construction," according to the Chamber study.

GENERAL TELEPHONE plans to spend $257,000,000 in the next five years to expand and improve facilities. The 1961 construction budget is $53,000,000.

In the three Long Beach districts will get about $1,000,000 each and the Lakewood district $1,867,000.

S and S Financial Enterprises, which was formed two years ago in California and already has acquired over $6 million in property in the state, has purchased the building occupied by Walker's Department Store, 4th and Pine Ave. The Kratter Corp. of New York sold the property to the S and S for an undisclosed amount.

Acquisition of the local property will result in no change in the lease and is part of the expansion program of S and S. Henry J. Siegel, former owner of the Shoreland Hotel in Chicago and Bernard B. Sanburg, realty financier, founded the firm which not only has acquired much property but also has financed other major real estate transactions.

LAS VEGAS AREA real estate activity is continuing at boom paces, a survey by Campbell Realty of Las Vegas shows. Sales volume of realty, based on Internal Revenue stamps, shows $10,600,000 for January this year, an increase of 95.5 per cent over January last year.

BUTLER BROS., division of City Products Corp., has named Ernest Dimperio to a newly-created position to develop a cooperative advertising program for its national network of franchisees Ben Franklin variety stores. Dimperio, who was associated with Montgomery Ward until he joined Butler's has been advertising and sales promotion manager of West Coast department stores for Butler.

"DRUG SHARES continue to be among the best performers in the market and should be a part of every investor's portfolio," Investors Research Company stated in its 1961 survey of the drug industry. "The prospects are extremely good for continuation of the pattern of profitable growth which the drug industry has demonstrated over the past six years," the report added.

CHRISTIANA OIL CORP. common stock is now listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange. It will be traded under the ticker symbol "CST."

Listing of the stock for trading on the exchange reflects the rapid growth in the activities of Christiana Oil in California and Arizona, L. W. Douglas, Jr., president, stated.

The company announced a new multi-million dollar planned marine city for Southern California at Huntington Harbour, adjacent to the Pacific ocean between Seal Beach and Huntington Beach. As a residential marina, Huntington Harbour will include water front home sites, multiple family units, recreational and shopping areas and yachting facilities.

In addition, Christiana Oil has acquired Arizona Title Guarantee & Trust Company of Phoenix, and has combined Arizona Title with First American Title Insurance & Trust Co., of California, which issues title insurance policies in Orange, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Ventura and other California counties. Christiana also owns an interest in natural gas properties near Manteca, Calif., in San Joaquin Valley. Recently it purchased approximately a 13 per cent interest in Reeves Broadcasting & Development Corp., which owns and operates television station KBAK-TV at Bakersfield.

ERNEST W. SCHMIDT and David L. Merrill, both of Long Beach, co-district sales managers for Investors Diversified Services, Inc., and Investors Syndicate Life Insurance and Annuity, its wholly-owned subsidiary, have been honored with national recognition and an award for record sales during the 1960 autumn sales campaign, W. Grady Clark, president, announced.

Bank Conclave Here Thursday

Some 300 bankers from 40 Bank of America branches in the Long Beach and Harbor area will meet Thursday at the Long Beach Elks Club.

Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the board of Bank of America, will be the principal speaker. He will discuss the economic outlook for the coming year and review monetary and fiscal trends of 1960.

Thirty-five Bank of America officers from Long Beach and Lakewood will attend. Edward Halsey, Seal Beach branch manager, will be chairman.

Get Full Value in Home Stressed by Sol Vista

"Giving a full measure of value and presenting the features of the Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes in an open and upright manner has resulted in sales to more than 1,000 families," says Al Solomon, president of the Alco-Pacific Construction Co. Inc.

"Everyone is cordially invited to see our latest development in the Huntington Beach-Westminster area, minutes from the ocean and close to several golf courses, schools, churches and shopping areas, including the recently announced Broadway-Hale Department Store as well as stores of leading national chains." The Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes offer a home location with ideal year-round climate and a relaxed atmosphere among such famous attractions as Knott's Berry Farm, San Juan Capistrano and Disneyland, not to mention the many facilities for boating, fishing and surfing. The homes offer the purchaser 18 exterior elevations and five floor plans.

THESE HOMES carry the seal of "Medallion" which indicates they have "All Electric Kitchens." They include Frigidaire range, oven and dishwasher. Also included is color coordinated range hood and light with electric fan, disposals and lavish use of ash cabinets. Another feature, in all plans, is the convenient entry from kitchen to garage.

ALSO INCLUDED are hardwood floors with 2" tongue and grooved sub-flooring, rock wool insulation, acoustical ceilings, and forced-air heating with thermostat control.

Sol Vista Homes are priced from $17,150 with a minimum FHA down payment. Cal-Vet and conventional terms may also be arranged. Model homes are open daily 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and until 6 p.m. Saturday. The sales agents are Walker and Lee.

Directions: From Los Angeles take the Santa Ana Freeway to the Artesia turn-off, Follow Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) to models.

From Long Beach, go out Garden Grove Blvd. or Westminster Blvd. to Hwy. 39 and turn right three miles to the models.

"We're moving up... to Hacienda Hills!"

A move to Hacienda Hills reveals you're stepping up, and more: it literally sets you up above the crowd... with a hilltop home. You're in, as well, on the "ground floor" of a new breakthrough in Southern California land development. (Think how your home will grow in value!) For Hacienda Hills is the first, the only community where homes on hills, with wide, level hillside lots, are selling at flatland prices.

Know what people have had to pay—up to now—for homes like these on hillsides? Upwards of $50,000! At Hacienda Hills you pay 10% down on a total of $21 to $28,000, with "economy-run" 6 1/4% financing, and the standard monthly payment.

Come up to Hacienda Hills. Test the easy livability of the spacious, gracious, 3 and 4 bedroom homes. Look down on the San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys. Feast your eyes on the full-circle spectacular view. Breathe the good air. Luxuriate on the screened patio. Feel the elbow room that a 15,000 square foot lot with 100 feet of frontage gives you. What a place to raise your children!

Then, compare value with the ordinary lot houses at the same price on the Valley floor. You'll recognize your opportunity at Hacienda Hills immediately... and you'll be quick to seize it!

OFFERS SCENIC VIEW

Here is a model of the hillside homes provided in Hacienda Hills where scenic views are provided. Each home is built on an exceptionally large lot.

Homes on Big Lots in Hacienda Hills

Hacienda Hills, the $60,000,000 community in suburban North Whittier, has taken a third step in the development of the 1,100-acre site with the opening of 35 new homes. These are on a high hillside overlooking the San Gabriel and Pomona valleys, according to R. H. Walter, who heads the project.

Hacienda Hills is the creation of Sun Gold, nationally known developers who have specialized in homes on hills and have built over 500 homes in Southern California.

HILLSIDE VIEW, LOTS with 100 feet of frontage and some 15,000 square feet of area are available in the $20,000 to $38,000 home class. Located two miles north of Hacienda Country Club on Highway 39, plans call for an ultimate 2,000-home development.

Observance Set for Life Insurance Week in L.B.

The eighth annual Life Insurance Week, starting today, will be observed by the Long Beach Life Underwriters Association with an award dinner-dance at the Petroleum Club Thursday evening, Feb. 23, according to the general chairman Claude Murrell (Mutual of New York). Murrell also arranged for an official proclamation for Long Beach Life Insurance Week to be issued by Mayor Edwin Wade.

Dale W. Harding, C.L.U., president of Long Beach Life Underwriters will give the welcoming address and explain Life Insurance Week for the benefit of approximately 150 of the outstanding insurance counselors, their wives, and agents and/or managers.

Raymond T. Miller, C.L.U., (Manufacturers Life) will present books on life insurance to representatives of both Long Beach State and City Colleges. Harding will also present Leadership Awards to the honor counselors, whose pictures and companies appear in an advertisement in this issue of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Will Discuss Tract Planning

Lester Goodman will be the speaker at the meeting of the Long Beach Chapter, Society of Residential Appraisers it was announced by Ralph Cary, program chair.

The meeting will be at the Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave. at 6:45 Wednesday. The topic will be "Planning and Coordinating Community Developments and Tracts."

Gibbs Incorporates for Shopping Unit

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Marina Center Corp., which will develop a shopping area near the new Marina. To be capitalized for $200,000 in $10 par shares, directors of the corporation are: Heph Gibbs, Gertrude Gibbs and Donald Gibbs.

$5,000 Hike

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The salary of the state superintendent of public instruction would be raised from $20,000 to $25,000 a year under a bill introduced in the legislature by assemblyman W. A. Hicks (D-Sacramento).

College Park Estates Notes Stepped Up Tempo in Sales

IN COLLEGE PARK ESTATES

Recent announcement that the builders of College Park Estates, community of one-story and "split-level" architect-designed luxury homes on 7th Street in Long Beach, are winners of two national awards for design excellence, quality construction and the use of quality materials, has had a marked effect on the sales tempo in the final unit, officials state.

Increased sales tempo at College Park Estates, which is now in its final unit of one-story and "split-level" architect-designed luxury homes, is credited to the recent announcement of the two national awards the builders have won for design excellence, meticulous construction and the use of quality materials says W. R. Effinger, director of sales for this Long Beach community.

Effinger also pointed out that homeseekers are aware that start of construction on College Park Estates final unit means a last opportunity to purchase in this exceptionally fine location on 7th St. just off Pacific Coast Hwy. and directly across from Long Beach State College. Boasting a park-like atmosphere which is heightened by an encircling wall, the community is close to schools, excellent shopping, the beaches, marinas and golf courses, and it is just 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach.

EXTERIORS ARE DISTINCTIVE and diverse and the range of flexible plans encompasses virtually everything from two bedrooms with two baths to four baths, most with family rooms or dens.

The exciting "split-levels", in actuality three level homes, offer 2,293 square feet of actual living area. On the lower level is an immense playroom with a handsome fireplace, a service area, bath and a big storage space. The third level houses the four spacious bedrooms and two baths, and on the main level there is the living room with a second fireplace, the dining room, the fourth bath and the appliance-equipped kitchen.

"I build all kinds, but I live in a Medallion Home"

RALPH W. CHRISTIE, EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT, CUSTOMCRAFT CONSTRUCTION COMPANY
BUILDERS OF PARK HILLS ESTATES, VENTURA COUNTY

"Twelve years experience in building hundreds of homes, all kinds, convinced me. When it came to our own, it had to be a Medallion Home.

"The features of a Medallion Home make it easy for the hard-working woman of the house to be a better homemaker. The flameless electric heating in a Gold Medallion Home is the cleanest possible heat—healthful, too."

Wisely gauging public demand, Mr. Christie is building Ventura County's first Gold Medallion Home development, Park Hills Estates. Here, all the benefits of total electric living are ingeniously designed into a moderately priced residence.

When expert builders—such as Mr. Christie—choose Medallion Homes to live in and to build, their experience can be your guide to better living. When you buy or build, look for the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electrical appliances, including automatic electric range and oven.
2. Plenty of "Housepower"—modern wiring to handle today's and tomorrow's appliances.
3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.
4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

Pacific Sands Prices Below Market Value, Salesmen Say

A conservative estimate in today's market would place the value of the new Pacific Sands homes at $17,000 to $20,000 . . . yet the actual price is as much as $5,000 below this evaluation, reports Bill Cheney, manager, for Walker and Lee, sales agency. Prices at Pacific Sands range from just $12,500 to $14,950. This below-market pricing, Cheney explains, is possible because of a seasonal leasing plan under which homeseekers buy their home, but lease their site . . . gaining all the advantages of land ownership without paying the initial price. The monthly land rental, Cheney adds, is approximately $12 less than interest alone would be if this exclusive property were available for sale. This method of living on preferred ocean-close property has been used for years in Balboa, Newport Beach, and other oceanside communities.

HOMES IN DEMAND

Pacific Sands sales office has been the scene of constant activity on recent weekends as crowds of 3,000 gather to admire the beach-close homes.

Built and developed by B. C. Deane and M. J. Brock, the new homes incorporate three or four bedrooms, family room, and two baths. Offered are low $295-down terms with monthly payments as low as $89.50. The homes are designed to remedy a long-standing shortage of quality beach houses in the Newport-Balboa-Huntington Beach area. Buyers will find it easy to rent their beach-close residences when they go on vacation, Cheney points out.

To visit the new Pacific Sands homes from Los Angeles, drive south on the Santa Ana Freeway to the Artesia-Beach turnoff. South on Knott to La Palma. Then left (east) to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Right on 39 (past Garden Grove) to Pacific Sands, one minute from the beach.

From Long Beach, drive southeast on Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Left on 39 to Pacific Sands.

Inspector Buys Home in Talbert Plaza

A dramatic tribute was paid recently to the new homes at Talbert Plaza, offered with low $495 total move-in costs in a choice valley-view locale.

Construction Co. builder-developers.

The tribute took the seemingly routine form of a home purchase; but the purchaser, in this case, was Jim Cleveland, chief building inspector for the city of Huntington Beach. Cleveland and his wife report that the new Talbert Plaza homes are among the finest values they have ever seen.

Helping to sell the Cleveland on Talbert Plaza are mature shade trees which enhance the striking viewsites and set off the spacious new homes. Offered with three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a large double garage, the

LOW MOVE-IN COSTS

Homes like this are provided in Talbert Plaza for only $495 move-in costs. The homes are priced from $15,750.

homes incorporate as much as 1200 square feet of family living area.

HIGHLIGHTING the interiors are resplendent sliding glass doors and decorative brick or stone fireplaces. Although priced from just $15,750 to $16,450, the new homes also include built-in deluxe dishwashers . . . a feature unusual in this price range, officials declare. Buyers who already own homes may avoid all problems of refinancing and selling by taking advantage of Talbert Plaza's easy 48-hour trade-in plan.

Homes Are Opening

Home buyers will soon be offered an unusual homebuying opportunity with the initial opening of new Golden West Estates, near Westminster and Huntington Beach, reports a spokesman for the McCarthy Co., builder-developers. Priced in the $17,000 range, the new Golden West homes are offered with three or four bedrooms, family room and two-car garage. Available are GI no-down payment terms and the FHA financing with down payment from $700.

To visit Golden West Estates from Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Golden West St. Right (south) on Golden West to furnished models.

PEOPLE IN NEWS

L.A. Realtor Speaker for Local Board

William H. McKay, Los Angeles Realtor, will be the speaker at the Long Beach Board of Realtors Tuesday breakfast meeting at the Lafayette Hotel.

His topic will be "Are You In Tune." He is well-qualified to speak on this subject of interest to all Realtors as he has been actively engaged in the Real Estate profession in California for the past 17 years. He has served as President of the North Hollywood Realty Board and San Fernando Valley Board of Realtors.

SAMUEL KERZNER has been named president of Foreman & Clark, 19-store west-coast family apparel chain. This was announced by Samuel O. Newsman, board chairman of Howard Stores Corp., manufacturers and retailers of men's and boys' clothing through its 132-store nationwide operation under the names of Foreman & Clark, Howard and Ripley stores.

Foreman & Clark has just embarked upon a $5-million expansion and remodeling program which will see the addition of 12 new stores in Western states within two years.

Raymond H. Heller has been elected an assistant vice president of Robert-Fulton Controls Co. Thomas T. Arden, president, announced.

Heller is general manager of the firm's Aeronautical and Instrument Division, Anaheim. Heller joined Robertshaw-Fulton in 1952 as a process engineer at the Anaheim division, and served as project engineer, field engineer, chief field engineer and director of field engineering and sales before assuming his most recent duties in 1960.

WILBUR C. DAVIS has been selected as sales manager for the Beryl Linville Realty, 3960 1/2 Studebaker Road.

Davis has had 34 years of sales and personnel management of which 20 years have been in the Southern California area.

He entered the Real Estate profession in 1953 in the Lakewood-Los Altos area.

WILLIAM G. LAKOFF, 5339 East Ocean Blvd., has been named sales representative for Jessop Steel of California, Santa Fe Springs. Lakoff represents the firm, a leading west coast distributor

Mrs. America of 1961—the nation's No. 1 Homemaker—will be hostess from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday in four model homes at Brentwood Gardens, one of the largest subdivisions in the history of Orange County.

Lawrence Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., said his firm plans to build 2,500 homes at Brentwood Gardens.

Mrs. America will appear at Brentwood Gardens under sponsorship of Johns Manville Corp., manufacturer of some of the quality materials in the Brentwood Gardens homes.

MRS. AMERICA in private life is Mrs. Rosemary Murphy, a hazel-eyed brunette and former model from Kentland, Ind. She is the mother of five children ranging in age from 3 to 11 years and is the wife of George E. Murphy, a truck terminal manager.

Rosemary, who won the Mrs. America title in competition with champion homemakers from 49 other states and the District of Columbia, prefers cooking to any other homemaking skill.

"Cooking constantly requires new ideas and provides new delights for the family," Mrs. America said.

The Brentwood Gardens homes, which begin as low as $15,700, feature a modest $95 total move-in costs for veterans and low monthly payments of $87 including principal and interest.

The homes boast many outstanding features in three or four-bedroom or three-bedroom, family room plans, all of which includes two baths.

OTHER FEATURES include pulverator, oversized forced air furnace, aluminum sliding doors, termite-proof insulated foundation, roof insulation, 100-amp electrical service and oversized water heater.

The homes are 12 minutes from Long Beach and 25 minutes from Los Angeles and are close to beaches, tree-studded parks, children's playground and country club golf courses.

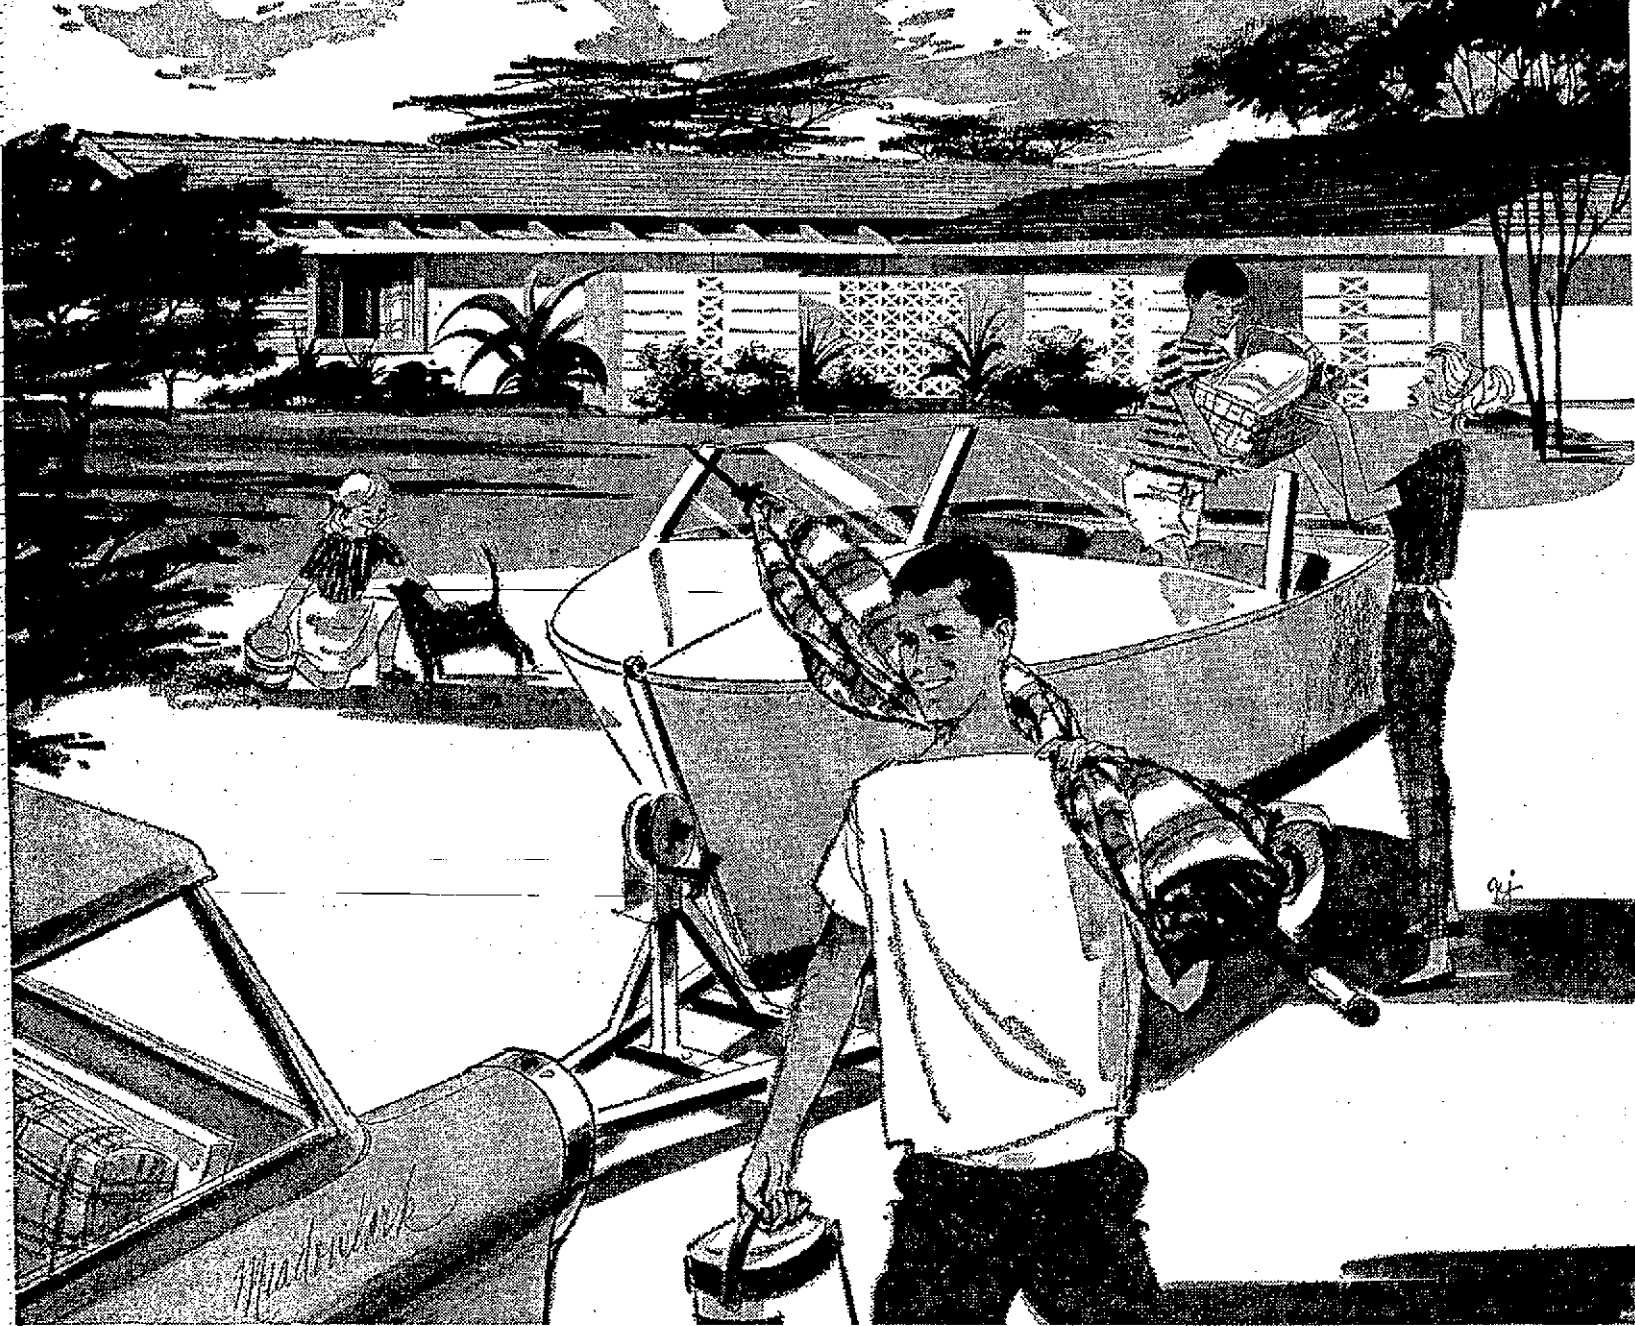

To visit the Brentwood Gardens development, drive east from Long Beach on Carson (which becomes Lincoln Avenue) to Knott Avenue and the model homes.

of stainless steels, in Long Beach and the southern area of Los Angeles.

ROY N. LINTON, 5521 La Pasada St., will speak at a dinner meeting of the National Machine Accountants Association, Monday night at the Roger Young Auditorium.

Linton will discuss "People Business," stressing the importance of a more satisfactory relationship between employer and employee.

planted to Long Beach, plus fashions for the entire family. Sponsored by the Downtown Long Beach Associates as a benefit for the local Red Cross Chapter, the show will take place Feb. 27 at 8 p. m. in Municipal Auditorium. Spring and summer fashions will be from downtown retailers. Ticket information listed elsewhere on this page.—(Staff color photo by Roger Coar.)

Also Behind the Scenes

PHONE CALLS to make, phones to answer—all this is part of the big job of recruiting volunteers to work on the forthcoming Red Cross drive. From left, area chairmen Mrs. Evelyn DuPont and Mrs. Curtis Blakely are given aid by Mrs. H. V. Burkhardt, colonel, as workers are lined up for county-wide residential campaign next month.—(Staff.)

Women

Volunteers Wanted! Won't You Consent?

It works something like a chain letter. The campaign chairman gets the area chairmen. The area chairmen get the colonels. The colonels get the captains. And the captains get the block workers. Then the campaign—the 1961 Red Cross drive—starts.

NEEDLESS TO say, chain reaction is the anticipated result.

It all sounds quite simple, this getting campaign volunteers, but between each chain of command are long hours of telephoning and double checking and explaining of procedure.

At least 3,000 women volunteers will be needed to cover the area. Lining them up is no small task.

WHILE THE advance gifts drive is already under way, the house-to-house campaign will take place from March 1 to 17.

Should a person have free time between those dates and feels disposed to volunteer her services, she need not be contacted personally by the various chairmen; rather, she can call Red Cross headquarters and express her willingness to work. Leaders hope to find more workers this year than any other previous year.

Mrs. John D. Bowler, petite in stature but a giant in organization, is chairman of the women's division. Assisting her as vice chairmen are Mrs. Glenn Scott and Mrs. James Pine. General campaign chairman is Phil Hattery. Temporary campaign headquarters are located at 144 Pine.

WHERE DO the dollars contributed go? A portion of each dollar in order of percentage received, goes to the Armed Forces and veterans; general management, training and administration; disaster; community services; blood program; health, nursing and safety services; fund raising; public information; educational relations and international services.

New service of the local chapter is a daily blood bank and an emergency distribution center available to some 28 hospitals in the Long Beach area which can call upon its services on a 24-hour basis, thus eliminating the need of rushing to Los Angeles for blood.

Anticipate Gala Show

Blue Monday doesn't stand a chance of materializing on Monday, Feb. 27. Indigo moods will be completely overshadowed by the vibrant red of Red Cross, for on that night the ninth annual Festival of Fun and Fashion will unfold before a capacity audience of 3900 spectators in Municipal Auditorium. (Only blues evident will be those who couldn't get tickets.)

Always a gala affair, the 1961 show promises even more than the appearance of a celebrity entertainer to match talents with former entertainers Sammy Davis Jr., Vic Damone and the Kim Sisters.

"Bo" Wagner, fancy dancer and marimba player from the Lawrence Welk show, will be a headliner. And for the first time, Hollywood television and screen stars have consented to model. Another beauty wearing new fashions will be Dawn Loewen, princess of the American Dairy Assn.

STEVE DUNNE, television star of "Brothers Brannan" and a veteran of radio, films, and summer stock, will be master of ceremonies.

Again Frank Sennes will bring 15 chorus girls, and six male dancers and drummers to town from his Hollywood Polynesian Revue. One of the acts will feature three "wild Polynesian" male dancers tossing heavy 30-inch knives about as if matchsticks. Sennes owns such well-known Hollywood spots as Moulin Rouge and Giro's in Hollywood and arranges all shows for two Las Vegas hotels.

John Hersey, fashion commentator, will describe more than 90 new spring and summer fashions to carry out the theme, "Fashion-Americana." Models will parade along a T-shaped 95-foot ramp, and audience

To Buy Tickets

Persons wishing tickets for the ninth annual Red Cross Fashion Show and musical review, "Fashion Americana," on Feb. 27 at 8 p.m. may obtain them at the Downtown Long Beach Associates Offices, 601 Pacific Ave., Monday through Friday from 8:45 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 to noon. Telephone information may be obtained by dialing the letters H-E-L-P E-R-S. Free parking near the offices is available at Victoria Auto Parking, 135 W. 6th St.

Tickets may also be purchased at the first floor accommodation desks of Buffums' and Walker's department stores.

Starting Monday, tickets will be on sale at Municipal Auditorium from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Free parking is available by entering the Linden Ave. side. Reserved seats are $3.50 and $2. General admission is $1.

seating will be similar to that for the Miss International Beauty Congress.

PARTICIPATING merchants include Meads Men's Store, Proctors Sporting Goods, Schick's, Joseph Salon Shoes, J. C. Penney Co., Walker's, Buffums', Young Maternity, Sears, Roebuck & Co., Jo Kaye, Desmonds, Barnetts Bootery, Vinsons, C. C. Lewis Jewelry Co., Audreys Bridals and Formals, Economy Dress Shop, Gene's Smart Shop, Lockwood Furs, Normandie Hats, Jordan's Womens Wear, Columbia, Wonder Shops, Parker and Kohl, Long Beach Uniform, Career Girl, Bundy's, Taller Girl, Gladys Morgan and Parisienne.

Models will emerge from thatched huts in a verdant Polynesian village setting by Jim Knott. Dominating the stage will be an eight-foot Polynesian mask. Dick Stabile's orchestra, attired to harmonize with the tropical setting, will provide the musical background.

DURING THE festival a check for almost $7,000, representing the entire ticket proceeds, will be accepted by Mrs. Frances Heusel for the Red Cross from George Trammell, president of Downtown Business Associates, sponsors of the show. Approximately $50,000 has been given the local chapter of American Red Cross in the eight years the fashion show has been presented.

Committee members working toward the show's success are Vito Romans, general chairman, John Hersey, Keith Morrow, Jack Greenen, Frank Dayringer, Edith Johnson, Ruth Ruvel, Ruth Lange, John Sarver, Win Hansen, Jim Knott, Mimes Francis Heusel, Lloyd P. Mallin, Lewis T. Dorgan and Miss Alice Solberg. As the committee points out, ticket holders can enjoy an exciting show while making a direct contribution to the Red Cross.

A Fashion-atin' Gal

By MARY ELIJS

L. P. T. Fashion Editor

Fashion leads a double life (even triple) for petite, pearl-blond Peggy Finley, who has more career-wardrobe lives going than a Hollywood movie set.

As she puts it: some career gals need an agent, some a housekeeper. Her great need is a wardrobe maintenance clerk.

As news bureau manager and editor of Mercury Magazine for the Los Angeles Athletic Club Corp., she covers all social events for the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach, the Athletic Club in downtown Los Angeles and the Riviera Country Club, Pacific Palisades.

A ONE-TIME model and former head of a local theatrical agency, glittery Mrs. Finley notes that her work takes her, in a very short distance, to areas of direct contrast.

In Long Beach, where she makes her home, she's fashion right in clothes that started the national craze for the colorful, breezy California "casual" look.

For assignments in Los Angeles, the more citified, sophisticated, hat-and-glove look is in order.

FOR GREEN-EYED gregarious Peggy this means maintaining a wardrobe versatile enough to go anywhere, whenever — at the drop of an invitation or an on-the-job assignment.

To keep the fashion pace, Peggy's wardrobe jumps into immediate action with 250 pairs of shoes (she's wild about footwear), a jungle of furs and 30-plus cocktail dresses.

Only her closet walls know how many daytime dresses, suits, coordinates and sweaters she has (all in good working order) to give each costume an "all-in-one" look.

FOR INDEED, creating a costume or ensemble look with everything she wears is a fetish with always "fashion-ating" five-foot, 97-pound Peggy.

Take a swimming meet at Pacific Palisades, for instance. For such an occasion Peggy would probably grace her 34-22-34 curves in Tabak's pale aqua slub silk straight skirt with matching shirt and throw-around-the-shoulder cashmere sweater.

For jewel box atmosphere — say a party at Los Angeles Athletic Club — Peggy's preference runs to one-of-a-kind cocktail glitter, such as her white peau de soie trimmed with vibrant red silk, created by custom designer Gamine of Hollywood.

For an afternoon event in Long Beach — like the Pacific Coast Club's fashion show slated for Feb. 23 — she might choose her powder blue linen sheath by Mr. Blackwell, completely lined with floral print.

STYLE-EYED Peggy has many set ideas on which goes-with-what-when.

"For one thing, I don't like to wear my mink with evening things," says she, "I prefer foxes for after-five."

Her menagerie of fine skins includes, besides her diadem mink, four fox stoles (white, Norwegian blue, silver and beige), a 10-skin baum marten, several small sables for suits, a new oyster white clipped beaver jacket ("it's wonderful for football games or mountain resorts") and several fur-trimmed

In a ceremony attended by family members and a few close friends in Los Angeles Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Miss Mary Charlene Markham became the bride of Harold Kay Scholes.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don C. Markham of Long Beach, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Scholes, Provo, Utah.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of Valencia lace over silk with scalloped neckline appliqued with lace. A tiara of seed pearls, rhinestones and crystal confined the folds of her fingertip-length veil of bridal illusion.

In coral peau de soie sheaths were the attendants, Miss Suzanne Criddle, maid of honor, and Misses Pat Sunderland, Linda Markham and Pat Markham, sisters of the bride.

Peter W. Scholes was his brother's best man, while David S. Hansen was chosen to usher.

AFTER THE TEMPLE marriage the bridal party and close friends were guests of the bridegroom's parents at a luncheon at Chalon's in Los Angeles. Later, 400 guests attended a reception in the home of the bride's parents at 253 Roswell Ave. A coral and white color theme predominated in the home decorations.

The newlyweds are at home in Provo following a wedding trip to Lake Arrowhead.

The bride was graduated from Wilson cashmere sweaters.

ALSO, SHE has many pet peeves about clothes that are out-of-tune with the time — and the place.

One such is pants. "I never wear capris or shorts in public," says she. "I think they should be confined to picnics, patios, boats or horseback."

"All clothes have their time and place," says she. "Whether it's a yachting party, a wedding reception, a shopping spree or a cocktail party — a woman should be properly costumed for the occasion!"

High School where she was a Delta Phi Kappa and is a sophomore at Brigham Young University where she affiliated with Comi Los.

Mrs. Harold Kay Scholes

The bridegroom will be graduated in June from Brigham Young U. He is a member of Athenians.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON
L. F. T. Women's Editor

LOOK OUT! The gals are coming out swinging these days at Virginia Country Club and let no man get in their line of fire. It's that time of year for a annual Black Gold Tournament, one of the two most rigorous, vigorous contests of the year.

Jackie Neushulz is tournament chairman for the three-day, 54-hole event which was "booked" to begin Friday, continue Tuesday and end Friday next. Assisting are Cleone Deebie and Cay Elliott, who have their work cut out for them keeping tabs on scores, handicaps, lost putters and powder puffs.

Defending champions from last year's event are: A Division, Ruth Combs; B, Chairman Jackie; C, Lois Clark; and D, Judy Ellik. Judy, with a high handicap and a hot score, turned up overall winner last year.

Other overall winners from past years of this Long Beach Oil Development Co. sponsored event, and still very dangerous competitors, are: '54, Lois Young; '55, Besco (you DO understand, dear reader, I refer to the year played and not the age of the winners, don't you?) '56, Estelle Mooney; '57, Myrtle Harrower; '58, Mollie Reid; and '59, Dixie Millie.

19th Hole festivities will occur at the awards luncheon Feb. 28.

"SENIOR" citizens with youthful memories turned up by the dozens at the Starlight Room, Lafayette, Wednesday when they had an Old Timers' Night for past-age-limit members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Kiwanis Shindig Will Set Show Biz Back 40 Years

An event that will set vaudeville in particular, and show business, in general, back 40 years is Downtown Kiwanis Club's "Flicker Frolics" to take place Thursday night at Norway Hall.

How he's managed I don't know but Lyle Huggins, general chairman, has talked a crowd of the club's usually dignified business and professional men into providing the show, with all acts required to smack flagrantly of footlights stuff, circa 1900 to 1920. If the truth be known, it was probably his wife, June, who sweet-talked the crowd into performing.

Helping with plans to re-create the era of honky tonk music, Crackerjack, the 10-cent hotdogs of the old midway and performances to defy description are Mauri and Barney Bailey, Evelyn and Ken Hemphill, Louise and Paul McClaughrey and Henrietta and Frank Tallant. The latter probably the only real "tallant" of the night!

HEARTS had a tendency to beat faster Tuesday when Long Beach Yacht Club had its colorful Valentine party. Spirited dancing usually does cause the pitter to patter more so, regardless of the romantic nuances of such a night.

Among heart throbbers were Nancy and Myrl Ott, Carrie (in luscious pink floral print) and Al Vignola, Audrey and Arnold Romeyn, Shirley (wearing bright red chiffon) and Bill Gillis, Pat and Hal Horrocks, Kay (in a smart black chiffon gown) and Bill Nesbitt, Sue and Bob Driscoll, Neville and Harry Tibbet, Mary (she also wore St. Valentine's -red) and Carl Brooks, and Barbara and Marvin Clark.

HOUR OF the ice cube is set for 3 o'clock today when Ann and Daulton Lee entertain at an informal, little cocktail party in honor of visitors, Alice and Dr. Doyle Slifer of Decatur, Ill.

FOREWARNED is fore-armed. I know of 12 bridge players who are sharpening up their games—so don't get too bid-happy in case your decks cross. Mary Jane and Bill Durbin started the brush-up sessions last Monday with Blanche Cox as instructor. By the end of the eight week course only some kind of a nut would dare say "double" in opposition to a bid by Merle and Ruth Cunningham, Eleanor and Verne Weir, June and Bob Lind, Pat and Doug Tipton, or Marian and Montie Magree.

FLU felled family festivities planned for Tuesday by Barbara and Warren Eckert for her parents, Lois and Lawrence Jones, here for a visit from South Dakota. Well, fiddlesticks.

IT ISN'T often we beat the drums to announce that a party isn't being planned. However, that's the way of this. Alpha Phi alums want everyone to know they WON'T have their popular, annual Table Topics Tea this year because they've been too busy with the new sorority house for the State College activities. President Mollie Meyers turns fortune teller, though, and predicts a really smart event for '62.

TOTAL sophistication—just like downtown Paris—was an event called the annual Bachelors' Ball according to Nancy Cree and if she and Bill think so you can bet your last social register that it's true. Also attending the swank affair at Beverly Hilton the other night were Sue and Jack Ten Eyck.

IF YOU want to talk to Alice Clark you'll have to get up to her level—which is full flight and 'way out. Alice is riding the clouds of pleasure at having her daughter and husband, Marilyn and Phillip Langner, here from New York. Phil, of the famous New York Theatre-Guild Langner family, is out here on show biz duties as co-producer of the movie, "Affairs at Nuremberg" starring Spencer Tracy, Marilyn Dietrich and Julie Harris. They'll be in the Southland for several weeks before leaving for Germany where picture will be completed.

WELKING, or waltzing, if you prefer the old fashioned pronunciation, will occupy members of the Viennese Welk or, Waltz Club Saturday at Virginia Country Club for another of their formal dinner and one, two, three, four nights.

As is the custom, eight couples will serve as hosts. Greeting duties are relegated, this time, to Eve and Ed Harvey, Janice and Clifford Cole, Marian and Bob Ritner, Marian and Warren Ten Eyck, Donna and Russell Clark, Lou and Ed Lovell, Lillian and Leland Irish, Marie and Ed Platz. To avoid any slip twixt the step and the music the gang will have a rehearsal night Thursday under the tutelage of Vern and Byrd Garten.

SOMETHING I CAN USE!

Mrs. William Becker draws from a grab bag an item that pleases her as prelude to Kappa Delta Alumnae white elephant sale Monday. Flanking her are Mrs. Albert Brown and Mrs. Alexander Cameron with articles they will contribute to fund raising project. Proceeds this year go to Long Beach Branch of Crippled Childrens Society.—(Staff Photo.)

PLAN NUPTIALS

On March 11 Yvonne Carol Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard I. Smalley, Anaheim, will repeat vows with Donald R. Gress, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gress of Sunnyside, Wash. Bride-elect attended Poly High School; prospective bridegroom attended Washington schools and served in the Navy.

BETROTHAL TOLD

Engaged to marry are Loretta Whitney, daughter of Mrs. Edith Whitney, Long Beach, and Louis Szijarto, son of Mrs. Sophie Szijarto, Lakewood. No date is set as yet. Both were graduated from Jordan High School. She attends LBCC and he is a history major at LBSC.

Now White Elephants Become Objets d' Art

There's that wedding vase from Aunt Agatha and the mountain scene from Uncle Rudolph that just "don't go" with modern decor. And there are the wrong-size Christmas gifts, not to mention the hat that husband couldn't tolerate.

Plus the perfume whose fragrance doesn't send me, but might you. And the toys—still whole, praise be—the children shove to the back of their closet...

These are just a few of the wide variety of items to intrigue Long Beach alumnae of Kappa Delta sorority at their white elephant sale Monday night in the home of Mrs. J. Albert Brown, 2304 Stearns Ave.

AS OFTEN happens, what may be relegated to a box in the garage in one person's home may find itself on proud display in another's. At least the alumnae hope so, for profits from the sale to members will be given to the Long Beach Branch of Crippled Childrens Society of Los Angeles County. Members learned that $75 will buy a pair of braces for a child, while $225 will pay for two weeks at camp for a youngster. The sale is but one of several ways the chapter employs to raise money for its philanthropies.

MRS. CLEO Hubbell will be co-hostess at the Monday meeting. All Kappa Deltas in the area are invited.

During the next few weeks Kappa Deltas will be busy addressing envelopes for the Crippled Childrens Easter Seal campaign.

On the social side, members will gather March 7 in the home of Mrs. C. B. Brothers, 2320 Oregon Ave., for bridge.

Beauty Hazard

Leg stubble is not only a beauty hazard, it is apt to snag sheer nylons. Shave often—either with razor or electric shaver. Immediately after, soothe the tender, sensitive skin with good quality astringent. Give it a few seconds to dry thoroughly, then draw on the stockings in the usual way.

Film Premiere Slated for NCJW Joint Meet

Long Beach Section and Evening Branch, National Council of Jewish Women, will have their annual joint meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Jewish Community Center.

Husbands are invited to participate and gain insight into the council's work.

Mrs. Gilbert Lapid, section president, and Mrs. Sidney Berman, evening branch chairman, announce that the program will feature a premiere Long Beach showing of "A Small Triumph", a half-hour film written by Morton Wishengrad and produced by Stephen Sharff. The film documents the work of women volunteers in service to the blind and is narrated by Alexander Scourby.

THE NATIONAL Council of Jewish Women, with 110,000 members nationally, conducts approximately 900 community services in 240 U.S. communities, as well as programs of adult education and social action in Jewish communities overseas. Founded in 1883, it is the oldest major Jewish women's group in the world.

Hostesses for Tuesday's meeting will be Mmes. Norris Bernstein, M.E. Bernstein, Irving Blumberg, Leonard Atlas, Harry Cohn, Maurice Cohn, Louis Cohn, Irwin Cohen, Harry Albin and Robert Baldwin.

Supreme Queen to Visit Daughters of Nile Tuesday

Mrs. Minnie T. Brehmer of Miami, Fla., supreme queen, Daughters of the Nile, will pay her official visit to Merret Temple 103 Tuesday in Palos Verdes Masonic Temple, 5155 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Her reception, slated for 8 p.m., will be preceded by a 6:30 dinner. Mayor Edwin W. Wade and Mrs. Wade will welcome Mrs. Brehmer on behalf of the city, and El Bekal Temple Shriners will be represented by their potentate, James M. Munholland, and Mrs. Munholland.

Los Angeles Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, recipient of Merret Temple's philanthropic endeavors, will be represented by a member of its board of governors, George F. Thagard, senior past potentate of El Bekal Temple, and Mrs. Thagard.

FOLLOWING her reception, Mrs. Brehmer, who is accompanied on her international tour by Mrs. Dixie Layman of Reno, Nev., and several appointive officers, will witness a ceremonial conferred upon a group of candidates by officers of Merret Temple with Queen Velma Nye presiding.

Completing the evening will be a performance by the Temple Dancers and an exhibition drill by the Temple Patrol.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER NINER

If there's a little confusion in the SCTA (Student California Teachers Association) at Long Beach State, it is probably justified: Among newly elected officers are DIANA Kronquist, vice president, and DEANNA Beach, secretary.

Once the SCTA rank-and-file gets straightened out on Diana-Deanna, the rest is relatively easy: President Louise Settemyer, treasurer Brad Benson, historian Margaret Hilton, campus publicity chairman Elsie Lyman, NEA representative and state board member-at-large Elinor Gall, and last but probably not least, refreshment chairman Connie Krauss.

At the group's last meeting, outgoing president Ken Wicsmann was presented with a plaque and sponsor Owen Reince with a briefcase in token of many busy hours for SCTA.

At the next meeting Thursday, the group will hear a panel of experts former LBSC students now teaching, discuss aspects of teaching from the viewpoint of both the neophyte and the professional.

And during the coming week, SCTA will have a display in the library to inform interested students and enable them to join.

LAST WEDNESDAY night, it was welcome back to Jim Batchelor, former student body leader and 1957 "49er Award" winner. Jim, currently a deputy district attorney of Santa Ana, appeared on a program sponsored by Phi Lambda Chi, wherein six attorneys offered information regarding law schools.

All the visiting attorneys were granted honorary membership by Phi Lambda Chi.

TOMORROW night, Sigma Kappa sorority is host at its traditional All-Greek Coffee Hour. The time, 8:30; the place, the cafeteria; and there will be an outside band.

Social Welfare Club has its regular monthly evening meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Soroptimist House. On tap is a panel of five members of Alcoholics Anonymous discussing "Why I Am An Alcoholic."

Students, faculty, and the public are invited to this interesting presentation which was arranged through the efforts of club adviser Dr. David Dressler.

Panel presentation and questions from the floor will last about two hours, and the evening will close with refreshments.

As we write this, we have just come from the Little Theater where dancer Jean Erdman is performing.

The house is packed and, as the saying goes, there aren't even many seats in the standing room.

Soothes Nicks

After manicure or pedicure, apply cotton ball soaked in good quality witch hazel to the treated area. Soothes nicks and cuts.

Pinky's in Paris, mes cheris! Parlez vous Français? Pinky's Parisian Ball will take place Saturday, in Petroleum Club for members of the Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary, their husbands and guests. Proceeds will benefit the Long Beach Epilepsy Clinic.

Pinky, the cheery pink and white striped puppet made by auxiliary members, is given each youngster admitted to Community Hospital. Theme of the party this year, "Pinky's Holiday Tour," is under direction of Mrs. Harry W. Orme, social chairman.

For the event, Mrs. Orme has chosen a black taffeta sheath dress with tiered overskirt as she and Dr. Orme, great members and guests.

THE GAY evening will begin at 7 p.m. with a no-host cocktail party in the club. Board members and their husbands will welcome guests. Mrs. David-F. Atwater, president, will wear a knee-length bouffant gown of shocking pink peau de soie with matching slippers.

Haughty pink and black French poodles wearing jeweled collars will salute guests as they are seated at their tables for dinner at 8 p.m. Mrs. Stuart A. Monfort, decorations chairman, and her committee fashioned the poodles and other entrancing decorations by hand.

Mrs. David Gean is in charge of invitations, and Mrs. Walter K. Janssen may be contacted for reservations. Music for dinner and dancing will be provided by Roger Bacon and his orchestra.

ENTERTAINING at a pre-ball cocktail party will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Plumb whose guests will include Dr. and Mrs. William G. Zantiny and Messrs. and Mmes. Jame E. Sullivan, Frederick Fowler Jr., M. T. Campora and John J. Erwin. Mrs. Plumb will be attired in a royal blue chiffon sheath.

Dr. and Mrs. Oliver R. Nees Jr. will entertain Dr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanders. Black chiffon with a full skirt has been selected by the hostess for the ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Conalser will be hosts before the ball to Messrs. and Mmes. Elmer Caputo, Bob Holland, John Czingier, Kermit Kuhns, Bill Connelley, Bill Lockett, Grant Firestone, John Crosby, Bob McAfee, Jim Baxes, A. H. Conalser, Glen Lucas and Harold Belcher. The hostess will greet friends in pink peau de soie.

Following the ball, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Wilkins Jr. will entertain at breakfast. Their guests include Dr. and Mmes. Harry W. Orme and Walter K. Janssen and Messrs. and Mmes. Stuart A. Monfort, Donald L. Woolf, Dean Gemmill, James A. Knowles, Leon T. Davis, John P. Hann, Eugene G. Jameson, Elmer E. Lenz, Bruce R. Zacher, L. P. Morgan, J. M. Johnson, William Todd and Glenn W. Faus, Fred Landsberg and John Brizendine. Tangerine is the color chosen by Mrs. Wilkins for her evening dress featuring a full chiffon skirt with linen bodice.

Economists to Hear Architect

Roy Lamoreaux, landscape architect, will speak at Monday's meeting of Long Beach Home Economists, section of the American Home Economics Association.

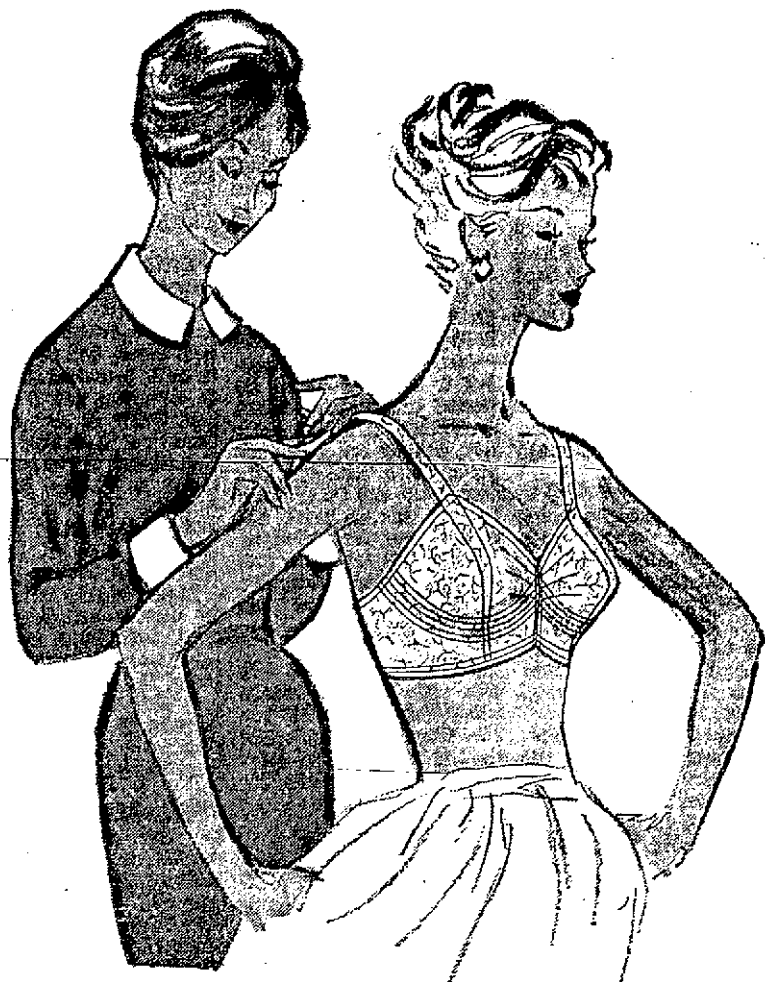

Members and their husbands will gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frerks, 393 Los Altos Ave. at 7:45 p.m.

Mmes. Itaru Ishida and Jack Cheshire will assist the hostesses in serving refreshments.

UNIVERSAL THEME

Craftsmanship, Idealism Goals of John Quitman

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

How does a serious young artist feel on the eve of his first one-man show at a major gallery?

"Excited—hopeful," says John Quitman Lynch, who signs his work simply "John Quitman."

Eighteen of his oil paintings and six drawings will be on exhibit at Rex Evans Gallery, 748 1/2 N. La Cienega Blvd., Los Angeles, from Monday to March 11.

New Exhibits

Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Ave.: Alaskan scenes and local color done in oils and water colors by Carola Gough, through February.

Saylor Art Center, 624 E. Fourth St.: Maria Bucher water colors.

La Poule Rouge, 833 Ocean Blvd., Seal Beach: Paintings by Alice Skjonsby.

Veltman Gallery, 5808 E. Second St.: Award winning student art work from Naples Elementary School, opens Monday.

Security First National Bank, 102 Pine Ave.: "Portrait of a Lady," by Gainsborough loaned by Ivor Evans from his collection, through Feb. 27.

Bank of America, 25th St. and Western Ave., San Pedro: Henry L. Richter memorial exhibition.

Pasadena Art Museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave.: Woodcuts by Japanese master, Hiroshige (1797-1858), through March 5.

1960 Prize Play

The drama critics' prize play of 1960, "Five Finger Exercise," starring Jessica Tandy and Roland Culver, opens a three-week run Tuesday at Biltmore Theatre, Los Angeles. John Gielgud directs.

3929 E. ANAHEIM ST.
LONG BEACH GE 9-5551

If, during 1961, you plan to buy either television or stereo, you should investigate the special sale prices in effect during the once-a-year Magnavox clearance sale. It's in full swing now at Humphreys Music Company, 130 Pine, downtown in Long Beach. Open tomorrow night.

Navy Canvases Show Combat Scenes

'Operation Palette,' the Navy's traveling show of combat art created by top-ranking artists during World War II and the Korean conflict, will be on free display Wednesday through Feb. 28. Major exhibit will be in the Times Building, Broadway and Long Beach Blvd., with viewing hours from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Auxiliary displays will be placed in windows at Southern California Edison Co., Buffums, Walker's and J. C. Penney Co.

Ken McLaren is chairman of the Navy League committee sponsoring the event in conjunction with the Armed Services Commission of the city and the Armed Services Committees of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and the Fleet Reserve Association.

AFTER THE outbreak of war, the Navy commissioned a small number of high-ranking professional artists to form the nucleus of what is now the Combat Art Section of the Navy Exhibit Center. Painted at Normandy, Iwo Jima, the Philippine Sea, Midway, Okinawa and many other areas, the works depict high lights of ocean war and the consequences of war.

Artists have not used experimental techniques or abstractions, but at first hand have painted in simple, graphic medium the story of the Navy in action. Landing on beaches with the first troops, they lived in sub-zero climates, underwent strafing and bombing attacks, or sweltered in jungles as they worked.

PAINTINGS to be shown here include Shepler's "Fox Green Beach"; Jamieson's realistic work in oils and volcanic ash at Iwo Jima, "Souvenirs"; Draper's "Walking Wounded"; Hahn's vivid paintings of carriers in action from the Korean collection; and Genders' paintings of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean and the Chinese Nationalist evacuation of the Tachen Islands in 1955.

Mooney, Bob Newhart, Cal Tjader Barbara Dane at LBSC in L.B. Concert

Two programs, open to the public, will be given in Long Beach State College theater this week.

Friday at 8 p.m.: Ria Mooney, director of Dublin's famed Abbey Theater and longtime leader in Ireland's experimental theater movement, will read works of such Irish poets as Synge, Yeats and O'Casey and will answer questions about the Irish theater. There is no charge for this performance, sponsored by LBSC Associated Students "Evenings on Campus" committee and Harlequins drama club.

DALE OWEN, painter-mosaicist who judged the cash awards show in mosaics for Artists' League of Seal Beach, will be on hand to assist president Pat Jones in presenting prizes at 2:30 p.m. today in Art Center, Ocean and Main, Seal Beach. Top winner in the panel division is Winifred Roth of Anaheim for "L'Images"; and in the round objects category, Irene E. Eck of Anaheim for her chess table.

In creating the 186 entries on display—ranging from small ash trays to large panels—artists have used rocks, shells, glass and mosaic tile. The exhibit will be open to the public until March 13; hours daily are from 1 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m.

RICHARDS RUBEN, painting and printmaking instructor at Chouinard Art Institute and Pomona College and winner of more than 40 major awards, will address Long Beach Art Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Museum of Art, 2300 Ocean Blvd. Eugene Wallin will preside; La Homa Johnson is program chairman.

His LBSC performances, sponsored by LBSC Associated Women Students, are billed as a balanced combination of Latin and straight jazz. Tickets are on sale at the college and local agencies.

Monday, Friday Bills at LBCC

Jose Greco and Jester Hairston are the featured performers in two separate programs at the Long Beach City College auditorium this week.

Greco and his Spanish dance company make their second appearance on the "Evenings at Eight" series Monday night. A limited number of general admission tickets will be available at the door.

Among the new members of the Greco company this season is Carmen Mora, featured dancer in the film "The Naked Maja," who makes her American concert debut this year.

FRIDAY night at 8:15 p.m. Jester Hairston will appear in concert with the College Choir, directed by Royal Stanton. Tickets will be available during the week from the college music department.

Hairston, recognized as one of the leading authorities on Negro spirituals, will sing some of his own arrangements and appear with the choir in a dramatic skit based on one of his recent nationwide television programs.

Members of the College Choir will present Bach's Motet No. 2, "The Spirit Also Helpeth Us," and other selections from the repertoire of their forthcoming eighth annual spring tour to Northern California.

Bob Newhart, crew-cut young comedian, is polishing up a number of spanking new routines to unveil at his concert appearance Thursday night at West Coast Theatre.

One vignette concerns a fellow on an airliner who happens to look like Hitler, mustache and all. Passengers notice him and begin talking—with typical Newhart remarks flying fast and furiously.

Another new routine, still unrecorded, has two Aztec nations ready to renounce war because one has discovered the ultimate weapon, the spear.

Barbara Dane, "The Big Dane," one-time choir singer who got her start in San Francisco three years ago and today is one of the best of the blues singers, also will be featured.

Salon to Be Tribute to Orchestra

Roth String Quartet will play at Symphony Guild's first evening salon to honor members of Long Beach Symphony Orchestra Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Waters, 1485 La Perla Ave. Board members of the Symphony Association also will be guests.

The internationally known quartet has been in existence since 1926 when it was organized in Paris by Dr. Feri Roth, first violinist, who now is professor of music at UCLA. Other members are Irving Weinstein, violinist; Thomas Marrocco, second violinist; and Cesare Pascarella, cellist.

IN ADDITION to playing in music festivals and concerts, the quartet has won 17 awards for recordings and has received the award of merit from the National Association for American Composers and Conductors.

Friday, they will play Mozart's "String Quartet in G Major," Debussy's "String Quartet, Op. 10," and Beethoven's "String Quartet in G Major."

Euterpe Club

Euterpe Opera Club will vary its usual program format Tuesday with "Opera Petite," sung by Marie Gibson and Paul Harvey at an 11:30 a.m. meeting in Cocomo Grove, Ambassador Hotel.

After luncheon an international style show, "Fashions Around the World," will give the illusion of a grand European tour.

Miss Hannah Choristers in Recital

Marcia Hannah will play an organ recital next Sunday at 4 p.m. in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 7th St. and Atlantic Ave. She also will direct the St. Luke's Choristers in the "Requiem" by Faure. Soloists are Philip Carey, baritone, and William Craeger, treble.

The "Requiem" ranks with the finest religious music ever composed in France; though it dates from 1887, its freshness of conception is striking even today. Inspired by the death of the composer's father, the work is an expression of sincere and moving grief of a man who can accept death in wise, confident tranquility.

THE PUBLIC is invited to this musical sponsored by Long Beach Alumnae of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional fraternity of women in music. Donations will go to the international music fund which supplies gifts of music and instruments to restock war-damaged libraries abroad. During post-war years shipments have been sent to many areas, including Korea and the Philippines.

Great Books Group Being Organized

A Great Books Discussion Group is being organized in Long Beach with Peggy Schwab, 129 Glendora Ave., as community representative. A leadership training course will begin April 4.

The Great Books Foundation, which sponsors the groups, is a non-profit organization. Its purpose is to provide adults with a means of furthering their liberal education through cost-free group discussion.

Mrs. Schwab was associated for several years with the program in Los Angeles, where there are 94 discussion groups, both as a group leader and as a member of the executive council. She and her husband, M. Hugh Schwab, moved to Long Beach in 1959 when he joined the faculty of Long Beach City College.

Named Heart Brunch Head

Mrs. Dean Lucas, 1441 La Perla St., was named this week as chairman of the annual Heart Fund Benefit Brunch Feb. 26.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, 4147 Country Club Dr., president of Women's Heart League, auxiliary of the Long Beach Heart Association.

In accepting the appointment, Mrs. Lucas reported that 1,000 tickets will go on sale immediately for the annual event.

The brunch, the fifth in the annual series, will be held at Alfred's Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St., from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Money will help finance programs of medical research, education and community service in the field of heart and blood vessel disease.

Mrs. Dean Lucas

RESERVATIONS which should be made well in advance, are being handled by Mrs. Lucas and members of the Women's Heart League as well as by the Heart Office, 2034 Pacific Ave.

Mrs. Lucas' committee will include Mmes. Robert Barmeyer, Don Gilroy, Julian Knutson, Mark Kuffel, Robert Lintz, Burt Marter, Norman Meager, Mary Lou Sippelle, John Snider and Donald Root.

Starting this week, the Voice of the Viking will be written by two Long Beach City College students. Pat Ball, former "Explorer" editor, takes over the coverage of events on the Pacific Coast Hwy. campus (Business and Technology Division). Darleen Fitzpatrick continues as chief chronicler of activities on the Carson St. campus (Liberal Arts Division.)

LIBERAL ARTS

As the new term goes into its fourth week, students of the Liberal Arts Division are much involved in class work, club activities and community service projects.

Members of Kassai, women's honorary service club, ushered at Saturday night's performance of "Chorale for Winter," a joint concert by the Schola Cantorum and the College-Community Orchestra.

Following Friday night's LBCC-Bakersfield basketball game, the ASB Cabinet and Twenty-One Plus will sponsor a Sock Hop in the women's gym, with tickets available at the door. Opal Myers is in charge of refreshments and representative of arts Judy Goodwin will handle the dance arrangements.

IOTA CHI, the new club for nursing students at LAD, has planned many special events for the coming semester. These include lectures on professional grooming and employment opportunities, a tour of VA Hospital, and a family picnic. The club is composed of students in the two-year registered nursing program — which graduates its first class of future RN's this summer.

Spring semester presidents of LAD women's social clubs include the following: Betty Jane Melino (Aurora), Andree Sauve (Entre Nous), Sandy Hogan (Mahabharata), Barbara Gorey (Ramayana), Pat Windham (Tammuz) and Sandy Stokke (INT).

AMONG the men's club presidents are Gary Wright (Junior Exchange), Leon Reeves (Thor), Ken Porter (Tilsmen), Jim Jerauld (Order of Tong), Mike Gilbert (Tyr) and Don Parkins (Vidar).

Aurora, newest sorority on campus, and Tammuz took part in the recent World University Service Week program at Long Beach State College. The two clubs provided talent for a show to raise funds for the construction of dormitories on a college campus in Chile.

BUSINESS-TECHNOLOGY

Business and Technology Division activities for the new semester bowl along at an ever-increasing pace with presentation of trophies, elections and club meetings.

Bowling Club recently awarded trophies to outstanding performers. Recipients of the team trophy were Mike Pearlman, Martin Howard, Don Tiffin and Carl Eddy. Individual trophies went to Howard, Tiffin, Eddy, Phyllis Horn, Carol Moore and George Contrano.

BTD's Aircraft and Engine Club announces new officers for the spring semester: James Hibbs, president; Eugene A. Robinson, vice president; Gene Morgan, secretary; Norbert Boczar, treasurer.

CHRISTIAN Fellowship Club began the new semester with a pot-luck dinner at the home of its sponsor, Mrs. Ruth Purdy. At the first club meeting Harley Smith and Dr. Douglas Barnes, BTD staff members, spoke on "What Christianity Means To Me." Officers for the spring semester are Carol Simson, president; Rolly Smith, vice president; Suzie Shaw, secretary; Jerry Welty, treasurer.

Bill Brundige of Bowling Club is spring semester president of Inter-Club Council. The council chose Judy Lundquist (Sigma), vice president, and Judi Anderson (Theta), secretary.

THETA sorority announces its new officers for the spring semester: Judi Anderson, president; Roxanne Pettigrew, vice president; Mardell Hegedus, secretary; Virginia Allen, treasurer. Theta rushing started Feb. 8 at the home of Virginia Allen, with two more rush parties slated.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Chefs Greet 'Man of Year' Feuer

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Contented, but never satisfied—fair minded, unruffled, calm, yet possessing enough fire and dash to be a leader of men, is today's Chef of the Week, David (Dave) Feuer.

A person with an extra dimension describes the man who has just been named Man of the Year by the local Jewish War Veterans Post and the Jewish Community Council. He will be presented the award at a dinner Feb. 22 in the Lafayette Hotel. Last year's recipient was "chef of the week" Gus Walker, president of the Farmers & Merchants Bank.

In the early '20s, Feuer was president of the Seventh National Bank of New York City, and the youngest bank president ever permitted to sign U.S. currency. He still carries a few "marked" bills. In his home town of Bridgeport, Conn., he was active in governmental affairs, serving as commissioner of taxes, paving and others.

FEUER PREFERS business hours to vacation days, and his accomplishments stand as evidence that he hasn't spent his life putting in commas and semicolons. Serving as both district manager of Insurance Securities, Inc., and president of the Seaboard Glass Co., he came to Long Beach from Bridgeport in 1932. He got off to a good start and his momentum has never faltered. His presence was felt immediately, for he took part in every worthwhile civic activity. Were we to chronicle his many unknown philanthropies on paper, space would rapidly shrink. Many of the businesses, churches and other endeavors which thrive today in Long Beach were made possible by his generosity. Leader in the fund raising and financing of the beautiful Jewish Center, he has made outstanding community contributions in every major fund drive and building program over the years. During World War II, he was personally cited by then Secretary of Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., for outstanding achievements in the sale of war bonds.

A LONG BEACH Optimist, he belongs to the Los Cerritos Masonic Lodge, the Scottish Rite, El Bekal Shrine and the Shrine-Club. He is a life member of the Long Beach Elks, and honorary president of Temple Israel. Presently he serves on the board of the Chamber of Commerce.

Our "chef" and his wife, Helen, have one daughter, Betty Lee, now Mrs. Wallace Arntzen. He's particularly well known for his story telling, but won't commit himself on his cooking. His party entree, however, if the occasion is extra special, will be Chicken a la David. Just forget the calories and enjoy it. It's delicious!

CHICKEN A LA DAVID
6 boned chicken breasts (split)

- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1/2 pt. pastry cream
- 6 slices boiled ham (long rectangular pieces)
- 1 box fresh mushrooms
- 1 can water chestnuts
- 1 bunch white grapes
- 2 tablespoons sherry
- Sautee mushrooms, remove stems and slice head. Slice chestnuts and grapes. Salt and pepper each piece of breast. Put 1 slice of butter between each breast, several sliced mushrooms, chestnuts and grapes. Wrap in ham and put edge (fold) of ham down in pan.
- Mix soup and cream and pour into well-greased shallow pan. Bake uncovered in 350 degrees for 1 hour. Add sherry after one-half hour. Baste well each 15 minutes. The basting gives it its special flavor and must be done thoroughly.
- If desired, extra chestnuts, grapes and mushrooms can be added to sauce as it cooks.

Deception Successful

Some deceptive plays are almost sure to work since there is no way for a defender to read that he is being hoodwinked.

West had a natural spade lead against South's normal three-trump contract and after the jack is played from dummy East will play the six spot which is his lowest spade.

If South wants to go after everything possible he will play the four and try a club finesse. West will be in the lead with the king and if West is up on his toes West will see that his only hope is to try the heart suit. He will play the ace; East will signal with the nine; and four heart tricks will beat the hand.

IF SOUTH wants to give himself the best possible play for his contract he will play his king of spades on dummy's jack; go over to dummy with a diamond and try the club finesse.

West will be in with that same king of clubs, but unless West has super vision West will almost surely lead a second spade. Now South will not only get his third spade trick back, but he will also be able to run the diamonds and clubs and will wind up with four odd.

Civic Show Moves Back to Monday

Glodora Theatre Studio of Inglewood will present "Glodora Frolics" Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

The performance ends a three-month series of Tuesday evening shows, announced the sponsoring Long Beach Recreation Department.

Featured will be four chorus lines, the "Glodorettes," "Dancettes," "Babettes" and "Q-Tettes." Dan Udov will sing and the Glodora Majorettes, a precision drill team, will present an exhibition of baton and flag twirling.

GARY CLARK will be master of ceremonies. Preceding the stage performance Carl Robertson, accompanied by Regenia Beam, will lead a half-hour of community singing. Two hours of old-time dancing to the music of the Tyos will follow. Auditorium doors will open at 7 p.m.

Soft Hands

Even gloves cannot provide the full protection hands need in winter. Apply lubricating skin lotion often—every day if possible. An effective home made lotion is a mixture of two ounces of glycerin, three ounces of good quality witch hazel and two ounces of rosewater.

Dear Abby

Flame Has Burned Low

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: "Cold wives" are often the subject of discussion in your column, but I don't recall having seen any mention of "cold husbands." I am interested in this subject because I am married to one.

My husband was very affectionate when we were first married. Now, only three years later, he pulls away from me the moment I make a gesture of affection. He says I am still very attractive and there is nothing wrong with me. (I know this is true.) I am certain other wives must be faced with this problem. What do you advise? — "WARM WIFE"

ABBY

DEAR WARM: If, by your husband's own admission, there is nothing wrong with YOU, then there is obviously something wrong with HIM. Send him to a physician to find out why you don't "send him" any more.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is very serious to me. I am ten years old and I am cute, and I mean real cute. My mother won't let me date and I am asked out by 7th and 8th graders all the time. Don't you think if the boys think I am old enough to date, my mother should let me? — MATURE TEN

DEAR MATURE: Trust your mother's judgment, Honey. Little girls who start dating at 10 have nothing to look forward to at 18 but a rocking chair and a game of gin rummy.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has a friend (her age) who makes a practice of stealing money from her father's wallet. She has stolen $20, $40 and even $50 at a time. Her father is well-to-do and apparently doesn't miss it because she has been getting away with it for a long time.

This girl admits to her friends where she gets the money. She squanders it on sweaters, jewelry and lunches for her friends. They all think it is a big joke.

We know the girl's parents, and they are the kind of people who criticize everyone else's children but think their own are perfect, so if we told them about their daughter they probably wouldn't believe us. We are afraid this girl will get into the habit of stealing elsewhere. What should we do? — SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Tell her parents!

Confidential to "Tired": Perhaps if you quit your job he would go to work. It's worth a try.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Who pays for what? For Abby's pamphlet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50c to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Home Helpers Fun, Practical

By MARY NETH

Homemaker-keyed items include a variety of things from health foods and make-up aids — proving beauty isn't skin deep — to gadgets in line with a busy at-home-schedule, such as telephone and correspondence accessories. The following are available in Long Beach stores.

Under $1
Letters from lady-of-the-house won't be returned for lack of necessary postage if she is owner of home postal scale. Hand scale weighs up to four ounces and gives exact amount of postage required without extra trip to post office.

Housewives who like to keep up with news of the outside world from within own domain — and few don't — will appreciate a telephone muff.

Muff muffles noise from clamoring and skirt tugging offspring, fits any telephone and is kind to ear.

Women-at-phone chatterers also will find automatic telephone cord coiler boon to conversation. Coiler ends nuisance of tangled, twisted telephone cords. It's of lasting steel music wire wrapped in rubberoid.

Under $2
Look, no hands! Party lines can buzz as busy homemaker remains just that. An on-shoulder phone rest leaves hands free for taking notes, stirring cake batter or polishing nails. Rest is available in attractive colors to go with room decor.

Delicious luncheon or sandwich treat, a new peanut butter plus is made of sesame seed and toasted nuts. A taste treat made without preservatives or sugar.

Popular Tiger's Milk from Adelle Davis' cookbooks now comes in handy packets that may be slipped in purse for quickie liquid snacks. A pure protein food, milk is advertised as nutritional supplement and appetite-appeaser.

Under $3
Papaya powder concentrate adds extra flavor to fruit drinks. It may be used alone, mixed with water or added to other juices. Also is delicious as topping for cereal.

Whipping up gourmet dip can be a secret kept on kitchen shelf. Four bottles of herb seasonings tailored to party dip tastes will build a hostess's reputation for food with a flair. Seasoning mixtures may be mixed with sour cream or cottage cheese and come in garlic, horseradish, golden toasted onion and tangy herb flavors.

Under $12

Skin care, in trio form, features moisture plus. Cleanser, freshener and moisturizer all are water soluble. From line of cosmetics endorsed by Society of Make-Up Artists, trio is sold by consultant, who specializes in personal skin care advice.

Under $25
A distinctive white and gold kit enables any woman to apply make-up exclusively hers. Kit comes with palette, spatula and professional brushes. It includes ten lipstick shades, five eye shadows, three under make-up concealment mixtures and a blending rouge.

Under $40
A full-size heavy-duty juicer at low cost quickly juices raw carrots, beets, cabbage, oranges and other fruits and vegetables. Juicer features solid steel motor housing, steel cutters and unbreakable juicing parts. A European import, it's sold with guarantee.

ROBERT MITCHUM AND URSULA THIESS STAR IN 'BANDIDO,' THIS WEEK'S 'MILLION DOLLAR MOVIE'

Movies Are TV Station 9's Business

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor
Southern California's most popular movie house has gleefully hung out the "SRO" sign.

In this case the "SRO" means "Sitting Room Only," not "Standing Room Only."

And, in this case, the "SRO" also signifies unlimited seating capacity.

For the movie house is KHJ-TV (channel 9) where "MAYFE"—not to be found in the dictionary—is the password.

The password and the programming that accompanies it were introduced by Malcom Klein, 33, Southern California's youngest television station manager.

Klein's "MAYFE" stands for "Movies Are Your Finest Entertainment."

Since Klein's managerial advent last May, channel 9, although licensed as a television station, has basically been operating as a movie theater—a highly successful one.

"In any one week," Klein said, "38 per cent of Southern California viewers will watch our 'Million Dollar Movie.'"

* * * *

THE DECISION to concentrate on movies was made for the following reasons, according to Klein:

1. Economic survival. Channel 9, an independent television station, is not in a financial position to compete for talent with the three major networks.

2. An independent station should specialize in programming counterpoint to that of the networks.

3. Networks are inundated with similar-type ("two-man, hour-long private-eye") programs. Movies offer variety to the viewer and it's variety with the quality of proven box-office attractiveness.

4. Showing the same movie 12 times a week, including during "prime time" viewing hours, provides the advertisers an opportunity of reaching a new audience every night. It also gives the viewers ample time to watch "specials" on other stations.

* * * *

"SUPPOSING we had an almost unlimited budget," said Klein.

"So we decide that we're going to get a top star—like John Wayne—and a top director—like John Ford. We decide we're going to do a story about post-Civil War days.

"Great, except that it's been done already with the finest movie-making techniques and John Wayne and John Ford.

"They called the movie 'She Wore A Yellow Ribbon.' It's one we showed."

Television's movie house does one thing that regular theaters do not. Most of channel 9's movies are cut down.

Klein defended the policy. "We're simply taking out the 'pad,'" he said.

A pad, it developed, is what movie producers do to make a film longer so it will draw A-time monetary rates from theaters.

A pad, according to Klein, basically is a diversion from the main story line.

Channel 9's movies are not edited below 72 minutes, which would still qualify them as A-time movies.

And elimination of the "pad" is in keeping with television viewers' habits, according to Klein.

* * * *

THE YOUNG television manager pledged that his station never will run American films not approved by the Legion of Decency.

In foreign films, "good taste" will be the prime measuring rule of decency.

"I like controversy of concept, but not of taste," Klein said. "I don't want to run movies simply because of their sensational quality."

Klein has been involved in controversy before.

As manager of a New York station, he was responsible for the airing of "Open End," "The Mike Wallace Show" and "The Play of the Week."

He started his television career in the Southland when he was 19 years old. At that time, he was a stage manager for KLAC, now KCOP.

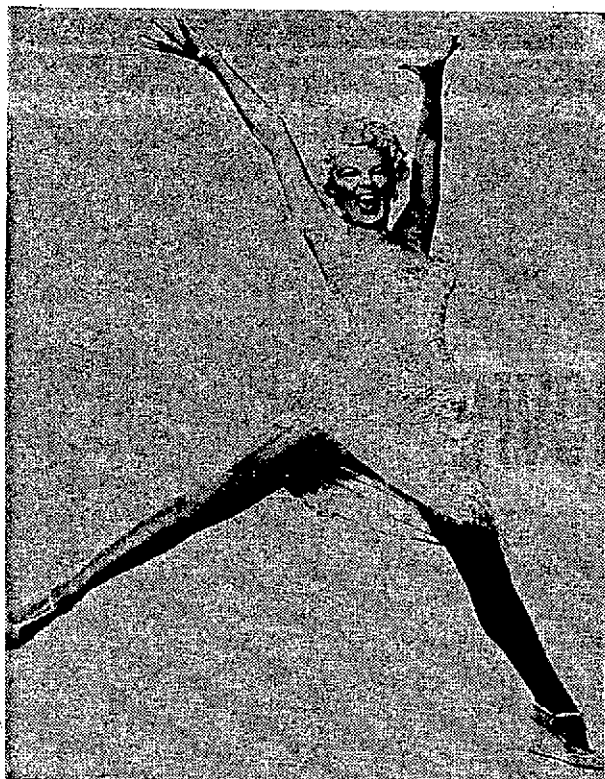

But movies are his specialty now and Klein claims: his station has the largest usable library of motion pictures in the Southland.

He's going to use one of Mitchum and Ursula Thiess, the better ones this week, "Bandido," starring Robert

'THE WITNESS' TAKES THE STAND

A Promising TV Idea Testifies How It Was Destroyed

SHEREE NORTH ... One of Last Witnesses

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

(Editor's note: CBS-TV's "The Witness," victim of the rating ax, was replaced by "The Gunslinger" two weeks ago. Reporter Dick Kleiner examines the reasons why.)

NEW YORK (NEA)—Will The Witness please take the stand? Raise your right antenna. Do you swear to tell the whole truth?

A.—At this point, what have I got to lose?

Q.—What is your name?

A.—The Witness.

Q.—And your occupation?

A.—I am a television show. Currently unemployed.

Q.—Now, sir, will you tell us why you are out of a job?

A.—It's a long story and a sad one. You see, when I was first invented, I was going to be something different, something unique on TV. And TV certainly can stand something different.

Defense Attorney—I object. The witness is expressing an opinion.

Judge—Overruled. I agree with The Witness.

Q.—Continue with your story, sir.

A.—As I was saying, the men who created me had a bold idea. I was to be a show in which all kinds of people were to be investigated by a make-believe investigating committee.

Q.—And isn't that what happened?

A.—No, sir. All I was was a series of hoods. One after another—Legs Diamond, Al Capone, Ma Barker. Dozens of them. I was The Untouchables in a court room. So many hoods . . . I felt like ladies' ready-to-wear.

Q.—And wasn't that what you were supposed to be?

A.—My goodness, no! They had some exciting plans for me. They were going to investigate Cleopatra and Julius Caesar and all kinds of interesting people. I would have been entertaining and also, if I do say so myself, a bit on the educational side. But palatably so, I might add.

Q.—All right, now, no crying on the stand. Now, sir, how did it happen that the basic idea was changed?

A.—Well, our first show was a bomb. I admit it. The room was too noisy, the committee too frantic. They had reporters and photographers around all the time. The whole thing was just too busy.

Q.—Didn't they change that?

A.—Oh, yes. Within a few weeks, the format was much better. We got a new committee and they kept the running around to a minimum. But it was too late. The network got panicky after that first one. They decided that what I needed was hoods, hoods and more hoods.

Q.—They wouldn't let you get to Cleopatra?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—So you were, how shall I put it, canned?

A.—I couldn't have put it better myself.

Plan TV Special on 'Last Supper'

A sequel to the "Project 20" production of "The Coming of Christ" will be aired as an Easter presentation in 1962.

As yet untitled, the sequel will deal with the last days of the Ministry of Christ, the Last Supper, the Agony in Gethsemane, the Betrayal by Judas, the Delivery to Pilate, the Crucifixion, the Entombment and the Resurrection.

Originally, the sequel had been planned for airing this Easter.

However, Donald B. Hyatt, director, reported:

"To complete a thorough job of research and processing, another full year of production is necessary.

"Postponement will allow us what will amount to a full two-year search for appropriate art masterpieces in museums, private collections and institutions throughout the world."

SPORTS TODAY

CNP Begins Production on Six Series

California National Productions has begun production of pilots for six television series.
Tentative titles are:
"Three White Hats," based on exploits of present-day
Texas Rangers.

"Police Surgeon," taken from experiences of a police surgeon assigned to Los Angeles Central Receiving Hospital.

"War Birds," exploits of the first men to fly airplanes in military combat in World War I.

"Cottage 54," anti-crime activities stemming from a headquarters "blind" at a fashionable California beach resort.

No. 7 Cannery Row," missions of a West Coast maritime security operations chief.
"The Wellington Bones Show," half-hour cartoon series.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

KTTV (channel 11) newscaster Vince Williams, who pioneered in experimental television in 1939, predicts pay-TV will be with us in three years.

He compared those who say fee-vee is much farther away than three years with TV crepe hangers in 1944.

"Even production men in the industry then said that television was 20 years away from being bigtime," he said. "Boy, were they wrong."

Pay-TV will not be completely free of commercials, according to Williams.

"They'll probably start innocuously enough by naming the watch-manufacturing company providing time signals. Then, about 1½ years after the advent of pay-TV, we'll have plenty of commercials."

Fee-vee will be "great for the movie industry, but not for the theaters."

"Theaters probably will be converted into apartment houses or bowling alleys," Williams said.

The newscaster is the brother-in-law of the late Clark Williams and was one of the last to see the movie actor alive.

"Clark refused to go into television for two main reasons," Williams said.

"He didn't want to compete with himself and he didn't want to hurt an industry in which he had made his living."

Williams leaves for Tokyo next month to begin shooting of a 20th Century-Fox film, "Marines, Let's Go."

IF YOU HAVEN'T seen Winston Churchill's "Valiant Years" at least once, you're missing what could win an Emmy for the best new show of the year.

It's on 10:30 p.m. Sundays, channel 7.

A documentary, the sweat-and-tears aspect is delightfully broken up by the intimate, usually humorous remarks of those whom associated with the great British leader during lighter moments.

ANOTHER VERY SUCCESSFUL Sunday night show is "Candid Camera," airing at 10 o'clock on channel 2.

In Arthur Godfrey the program has the world's worst master-of-ceremonies.

In Allen Funt, it has one of the world's biggest hams.

Put the two together and you have an ego clash that even their flashing false smiles fail to hide.

Despite the ham and ego, the show is great.

Funt is responsible for most of the stunts that bring such searching—and humorous—insight into man's character.

He unquestionably is a genius in his field.

But I fervently wish the genius would stick to the off-stage creative part of his job and keep himself out of the act.

I'VE FINALLY FOUND out why it costs so much to buy a good steak.

Since the onslaught of television's westerns, cattle are worth more on the hoof than on the platter.

The producers of CBS-TV's "Rawhide," for example, pay $3 a head per day for each steer they use in a scene. They have used as many as 3,000 head for one shot.

And that $3 per is just for long shots when the cattle are grazing. If the TV men are going to run the cattle, the fee is $9 per head.

Guess our little old budget will stick to sea-food until the fish join the Screen Actor's Guild.

With all the seahorse undersea operas currently clotting the networks, that day may not be far away.

Anyone for eggs?

RUSTY HAMER, the 13-year-old television son of CBS-TV's Danny Thomas, recently chose the wrong time to stay out of the limelight.

Rusty was one of the special guests at a financial-drive banquet for St. Jude Hospital.

When the time came to introduce him, he wasn't there.

Danny finally found him in the banquet hall's projection booth.

Rusty had talked the electrician into letting him work the spotlights.

Which just goes to prove that the light is always brighter on the other side of the fence—ouch!

'ASTAIRE TIME,' featuring Fred Astaire and Barrie Chase, will be repeated 8:30 p.m. Monday on channel 4. First showing of the special drew critics' plaudits. A sure nominee for an Emmy, Astaire says it's his last dance show for television.

Senator Attacks TV Commercials

By JERRY REYNOLDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI). — Sen. Stanford C. Shaw, D-Ontario, last week renewed his attack on television commercials, especially at dinner hours when they "discuss bowels, hemorrhoids, sore feet, livers and nasal passages."

Shaw also criticized regular programs in which he said "prime viewing time is consumed almost exclusively by inane situation comedies, trifling game shows and an oppressive bulk of repetitious mystery and western programs."

The senator introduced a resolution demanding that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) "take immediate, conscientious steps to improve the television industry or immediately surrender its control to the states."

Shaw introduced a bill in the 1959 legislature to control TV commercials, but it was dropped when it was learned that television is under jurisdiction of the federal government only.

HE SAID SHIFTING television regulating responsibility to the states "might create an uncoordinated means of bettering the industry," but he added that "it could not conceivably be less effective than the present absence of regulation."

He said more than 95 million persons watch television and the three major networks apparently have decided that the 20 million "minority viewers" who watched "such abandoned or curtailed programs as Playhouse 90, Philco Playhouse, Omnibus and Kraft Playhouse" are "insignificant."

"The industry has worked to eliminate programs of intellectual controversy, live drama, other than sports and news, classics of music and literature and documentaries," he said.

"THE TELEVISION viewing public in order to see a program in total, must endure commercials interspersed with an exasperating fre-

I.P-T Writer Wells on TV 'Perspective'

Independent, Press-Telegram columnist Bob Wells will appear today (Sunday) on "Perspective," channel 11 at 7 p.m.

The scheduled discussion is: "President Kennedy's Program for Medical Aid to the Aged."

Other participants in the TV program will include Dr. Edward H. Crane Jr., president of the Los Angeles County Medical Assn., and Harry Nelson, medical writer for the Los Angeles "Times."

Knox Manning will serve as moderator.

Police Series

"Whispering Smith," a series about a police officer, is expected to be aired by NBC-TV sometime in April. Audie Murphy has been inked for the title role.

WHIRLPOOL BATH

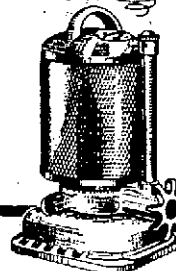

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long-lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS . . .

You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. It starts automatically.

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of the body.

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Hydromassage provides penetrating heat and massage at the same time to stimulate local blood circulation in painful areas of the body. It brings long-lasting relief from pains associated with

Groucho Set for New TV Series

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Groucho Marx announced Saturday he is folding his popular "You Bet Your Life" television show after 12 dazzling successful years.

The deadpan comedian isn't leaving video, however.

He's cranking up a new quiz-interview series titled "What Do You Want?" which is scheduled to replace "You Bet Your Life" next fall.

How does Groucho feel about killing off the longest-running show in NBC history?

"I don't feel anything," he said, puffing on a cigar.

"TV is a good racket, the show paid well and wasn't too much work. It's been darn good to me. When we started on radio I had no idea it would last 14 years."

IT WAS RUMORED the mustachioed comedian would switch to a situation comedy next season.

"Not me," he exclaimed. "That means working five days a week in some drab studio. On my show I only work a few hours one day a week. Every Wednesday night I show up at the studio at 6 o'clock to discuss the contestants. Then I go out to dinner and return at 8:30 to film the show until 10:30."

"I don't want to work any harder than that. I don't have to."

Groucho again will lean heavily on humor in his new show.

"We'll have all different kinds of people on the program who have a good answer to 'What Do You Want?'" he said.

"MAYBE WE'LL have a gambler who wants to expose card sharks, or a couple who want to recite 'Romeo and Juliet,' or a girl looking for a husband, or a mother searching for a missing son. 'But I'll have to be funny. When viewers tune in to see a comedian they feel cheated if he doesn't make them laugh."

In fact that's the trouble with TV today, there's hardly any comedy left on the air except for a few westerns. I have to stay up late to see who's on Jack Paar's show if I want to see comedy."

"And situation comedies aren't funny at all. They're all right for kids, but they just aren't funny. They can't be because sponsors are afraid of offending someone. And I can't blame them, maybe I'd feel the same way if I were trying to sell a product on TV."

"One of the reasons these new comedy records are selling so well is that people can't find laughs on television. It's just not a comedian's medium."

Southland

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA... FEBRUARY 19, 1961

OUR COVER

By day or by night, Washington Monument is impressive, a constant reminder of a national hero and the freedom for which he fought. Clean, towering lines of the great shaft are inspiring. As a symbol of the U. S., the monument is known around the world wherever enlightened peoples dwell. To it flock visitors from all lands and nearly 35 million persons have passed through its portals since the structure was opened in 1888, more than 100 years after it was first proposed. That the monument was built in its present form—that its simplicity was not compromised—is a story in itself. There are many other interesting sidelights to the monument's history. As the nation prepares to honor George Washington on Wednesday, Southland's cover presents the monument partly framed by the capital's famed cherry trees. See Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

Milady's pretty head undergoes some interesting developments when it's time to put up her hair for 1961. Increasing use of color—pastel shades get a big play... more bangs... swirls. Hairdressers are about to display the newest thing in their annual show that's just a few days off. (They're the ones that style contestants' hair for Miss International Beauty, you know.) Get a peek preview of what's new in hairdos in "Color With a Bang" next week in Southland Magazine.

La Reina Rule WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin of KIDD.
—J. K., Wilmington; R. K., Long Beach.

J. K., R. K.: KIDD is world famous because of the buccaneer, Capt. William Kidd of Scotland and America who died in 1701. This name originated as a shop-sign trademark that advertised the ancestor's property with a pictured sign of a kid-goat over the doorway. The family eventually became surnamed for the place of business. The Kidd lineage originated in Yorkshire, England. Ancient ancestors include Thomas and William Kydd in 1379. The Kidd coat-of-arms has two silver goats standing on their hind legs facing each other on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze BLUMBERG.—P. B., Westminster.

P. B.: BLUMBERG, alternately spelled Blomberg, is a Prussian German lineage whose name came from a geographical phrase. Blumberg means "flower-mountain" and is the name of two German towns. The family coat-of-arms, granted to the Blomberg branch, has a silver star in the center of a black stripe across a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What do you have on COX.—H. N., Bellflower; S. C., Norwalk.

H. N., S. C.: COX had two early English origins. One was the Norman French word "Le Coq" meaning "rooster," taken from a sign on a hostelry owned by the ancestors. After usage in England, Le Coq became Coq, then Cox by the 1200s. Alternately, Cox is based on the occupational surname Cook-son shortened to Coxon, then to Cox. The Cox coat-of-arms has 10 alternating blue and gold horizontal stripes covering the shield. William Cox was among the first settlers and a colonial commissioner of Maryland in 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give the origin of PENDERGRAFT and PRENDERGAST.—H. B., Garden Grove; Mrs. J. P., Lakewood.

H. B., J. P.: PENDERGRAFT and PRENDERGAST originated from these families' ancient manorial estate called Prendergast, located in Pembroke, Wales. The word Prender-Gast is from "Prender-Gast" meaning "stranger-chief" in early English. Pende or Penda was a 7th century king of Mercia, a division of central Britain. The Prendergast coat-of-arms has a fur covered cross centered on a red shield.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Hero Hewn and Hidden!

By Enola Chamberlin

TO MANY Americans, George Washington is but one face, the face Gilbert Stuart gave him in the famous Athenaeum painting three years before his death. But there are other paintings of Washington, and statues of which all can be seen but one. That one statue, although it cost the government nearly $30,000 is hidden in the basement of the Smithsonian Institute; hidden there because there is a law which says that government works of art cannot be destroyed.

In the 1830s Congress appropriated $5,000 to pay for a statue of Washington. A sculptor who, events proved, acted on his own initiative and went to Italy in order to have the finest of marble from which to hew his heroic subject. The completed statue was accepted unseen since no official was to gaze upon it until its public unveiling.

BEFORE THAT unveiling could come to pass the statue had to be brought from Italy to America. It had to be transported overland from Florence to the port of Leghorn and there were trees in the way. The U. S. paid the Italian government $9,000 for cutting down of fifty miles of olive trees.

The statue broke loose while being loaded aboard ship in Leghorn Harbor, crashed through the bottom of the wooden hulled vessel and buried itself in the harbor mud. The salvage job cost $12,000.

Finally brought to the United States, the statue, still shielded from public gaze, waited while a $2,000 pedestal was erected for it. Then came the great day for the unveiling and congressmen stood by to watch.

WHAT A MOMENT! George Washington, thick crop of marble curls crowned by a laurel wreath, a book under his arm, wore nothing but a sheet!

Hurriedly covering the expensive monstrosity the congressmen hurried to vote to dynamite it, only to come up against a law that says government works of art cannot be destroyed!

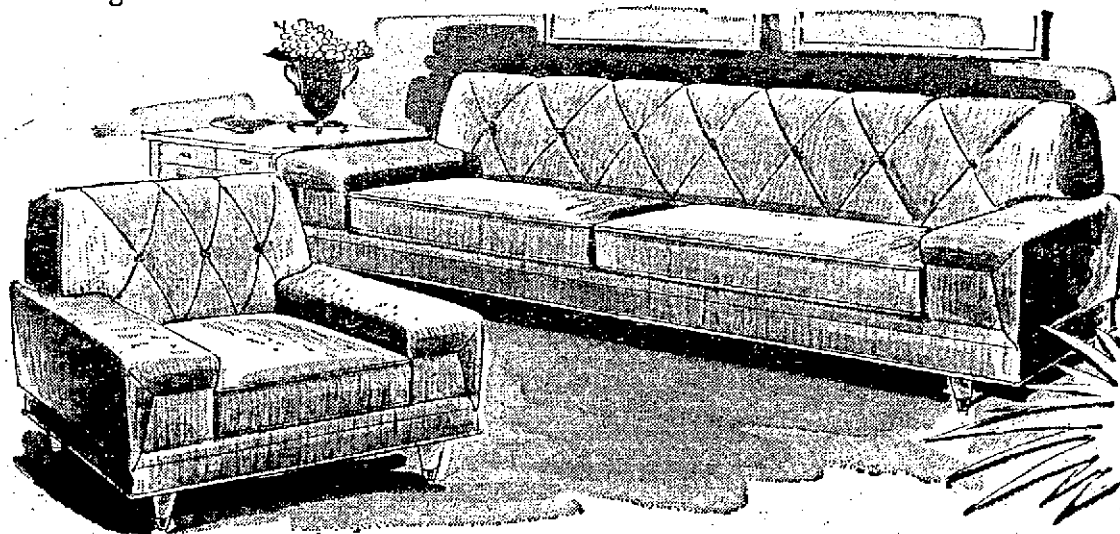

So, although this statue is in the Smithsonian Institute, visitors never see it unless they prowl where they have no business to go—behind a row of printing presses in the basement!

Sidewinder II, drag racer, is inspected by (l-r) Dee, Larry, Steve and Jack Chrisman as Wayne Reed (center), owner of the car which is in revamp phase, looks on.

Draggin'est Family

By Bob Ruskauft

OVER THE YEARS, automotive drag racing has won a place in the sports firmament and a growing field of devotees, among them the Chrisman family of Long Beach.

The Chrismans — 32-year-old Jack, his blonde wife of 10½ years Dee, and sons Larry, 8, and Steve, 6, of 6954 Line Ave.—rank as one of the nation's top drag-race families.

Why the hoys? Easy; each has a go-cart and is an expert at driving.

But both will sideline their carts in a flash to watch daddy race. Why not? Chrisman, a 10-year veteran of drag competition, is now one of the hottest drivers in the world.

NEXT WEEKEND, Chrisman plans to go after two winter championships in the big meet at LADS. This is the now - nationally - known plant which has for seven years been operated year-around with events weekly at 223rd St. near Alameda Ave. It is run by Lions Associated Drag Strip, Inc., a group of nine harbor area Lions Clubs.

Two major awards of $500 each are at stake in the meet.

"Saturday, I'll drive Wayne Reed's Sidewinder II, which we've just put back together, for single-engine Top Eliminator honors," said Chrisman. "Sunday, it will be Howard Johansen's twin-engine Chevy A-10 Dragster, for Over-all Top Eliminator."

THE WORDS Top Eliminator mean a vehicle which, from a standing start, finishes a 1,320-yard sprint in better ET (elapsed time) than any rival. Top speed for the tremendously powered Class A gas dragsters, or "rails," such as Chrisman drives, means the winner will probably better 170 m.p.h. and complete the run in time bordering on 9 seconds.

So, there is some danger? Chrisman says: "There is some of that in all racing. There's also enough today on the freeways. In drag racing there is the thrill of the competition, of course. But there is another. This stems from the realization of mechanical accomplishment by a thorough and able team."

Jack's hazel-eyed wife added: "I love the sport. In my manner, I help. Originally we had a Model A. I helped Jack on the engine, polished the ports and car. When it came time to move up in class, I guess I talked Jack into the dragsters."

Chrisman and Sidewinder II. The Long Beach driver will seek single-engine honors in this car in LADS events.

Born With Their Motors Running

Able young students, such as Bruce Haskett, Stanford Junior High School, take a series of difficult tests to determine best direction for their talents.

(What combination of curiosity and discontent form the magic spark of motivation? Why do so few find it early? To those who might otherwise find it too late or not at all, the Long Beach Unified School District is dedicating its latest and best efforts.—Editor's note.)

By Virginia McCracken Crill

IN EDISON'S YOUTH, his very genius made him unacceptable as a public school pupil.

In Long Beach, not only are the gifted speeded along, but those who are still dreamily hiding their light under a basket, are being sought out and propelled forward by a new and remarkable series of aptitude tests. Long Beach Unified School District has a place for everyone—the important project now under way is that of helping everyone to find his place.

Is your child a VSP? These Very Superior Pupils begin to stand out in the early elementary grades, and are therefore one of the first groups to gain special attention. They are the ones who seem to have been born with their motors already running. Their liveliness and curiosity had them talking early and long—and sometimes loud, especially when they were asking questions.

A very high reading level and extreme curiosity are prime requisites for this group, for these children are constantly exploring. A genius without curiosity would be lost here. They, like Edison, might be led by their curiosity into many mischievous difficulties or outright troubles, but they are more fortunate than he.

Well-trained teachers equipped with accurate records of work, as well as personal likes and dislikes of these students, are waiting to channel all that extra energy into projects and studies which will be both informative and entertaining to these active minds. Just how far the spark of motivation can lead this group, will be interesting to watch.

Along about fourth or fifth grades, another group begins to stand out. These are the young scientists. They too, ask many questions about the world in which they find themselves, but since the teachers cannot allow them to put their whole school day into their love of science, they do not get all the answers here. They question their parents also, but how many fathers can explain the "Coriolis Effect"? By the time they have discovered the value of TV science lectures and the public library, they are well on their way toward the type of class of which all teachers dream.

MISS RUTH KIRKLAND, Stanford Junior High School, teaches a "preferred" science group. To enter this class, pupils must be ninth graders with As or Bs in eighth grade science, have a tenth grade or higher aptitude for the subject, and much enthusiasm. Miss Kirkland's most difficult task is "Sitting on the lid to slow them down enough to make sure they get all the basics." There is room in her class for anyone who can meet the requirements, and each pupil has the opportunity to work on a project of his own choosing. Some of their past individual projects have included a model of an atomic energy plant, (the young man completing this received permission from Scientific American to use diagrams of different types of Nuclear Reactors), and a machine for manufacture of paper, which was built from coffee cans, salvaged tubing and other such items. It worked.

Still another pupil won the "Craftsman Award" at the L. A. County

Science Fair with a working steam engine which he built from a block of aluminum with borrowed power tools. Another did a complete study of chicken embryology. This class has been only the starting point for most of Miss Kirkland's past pupils for the spark of motivation has carried them into important positions in medicine, research, and teaching all over the country.

Meanwhile, back in the regular classroom, the VSPs who were not interested in science are still perking along. In the sixth grade they were served a special literature class which included not only extensive investigative homework in English literature, but a generous introduction into mythology, biographies, various award books, and translations of foreign books. A few of them were accelerated through both fifth and sixth grades in one year, and many will take further accelerated classes in mathematics in junior high.

The curiosity which breeds the spark of motivation for these youngsters seems a hard taskmaster, but it rewards its followers well. Most of them already know where they are going, and may even wish the adults would move a little faster or get out of their way.

THESE SPECIAL CLASSES, however, are not the only advantages which the Long Beach Unified School District plans for its own. This year parents of Long Beach ninth and twelfth graders are being invited to an individual career planning conference for their child. This conference is held for the purpose of acquainting the parent with the results of two extensive tests which their child has been given.

The first test is the "Differential Aptitude Test." This covers various specific abilities such as verbal reasoning, numerical reasoning, clerical speed-accuracy, spelling, sentences, abstract reasoning, space relations, and mechanical reasoning. This, plus earlier tests made all through grade school, composes an accurate picture of a child's actual working ability. B. B. Howell, principal at Stanford Junior High, states: "Counsel is never on the basis of any one test, particularly in the matter of IQ. Other factors such as grades, achievement record, teacher evaluations, and very important, the interests of students, are included."

This "interests of students" is served by the second portion of this pair of aptitude tests. It is a new and different type of test which digs into a field previously considered extremely difficult to tap. The "Kuder Preference" record includes outdoor, mechanical, computational, scientific, persuasive, artistic, literary, musical, social service, and clerical. It brings to light the student's sometimes deep-seated and very real interests as well as those toward which adults may have tried to guide him. The results can be surprising.

Sally, who has been forlornly studying typing and shorthand because her older sister is such a good secretary, may have not only the yen, but the talent as well, to do excellent advertising copy. All she needs is permission to take art courses, and she's on her way—maybe! No survey or test, no matter how perfect or complete, can do any more than point the way. From there on, Sally has to take over. Let us hope that with the school's help and her parent's encouragement, she will do just that.

Do the stars change mates for novelty? Are they unable to separate their film work from reality?

What's Behind Hollywood Divorces?

By James Bacon

Associated Press Movie-TV Writer

JUNE ALLYSON-Dick Powell; Desi Arnaz-Lucille Ball; Glenn Ford-Eleanor Powell; Jean Simmons-Stewart Granger. All were joined in what fan magazines call ideal marriages. All have split. And there are hundreds more.

So, what's the matter with marriage in Hollywood?

Hollywood boosters will tell you there are more happy marriages per square swimming pool here than any other like community in the world. But where is there another community like Hollywood?

Critics—and headlines seem to back them—counter that Hollywood marriages are whims, that stars change mates for novelty, much as they switch agents.

Somewhere in between lies the truth. On the promise not to use names, I got some revealing intelligence from Hollywood husbands and wives whose split-ups made headlines.

LISTEN TO ONE star whose wife, also a star, recently divorced him.

"The only villain a feminine star encounters in the course of a day is her husband. She gets up in the morning and a studio chauffeur is waiting to take her to work. He bows, scrapes and dashes for her make-up kit. He tells her how great she looks—even at 6 a.m.

"Next she hears compliments from her hairdresser, make-up man, the director, the studio boss, gushing fans and other hangers-on in a phony world.

"When she comes home for dinner at night, her husband growls at her: 'Oh, no, you're not sitting down with all that makeup on your face?'

"She cries: 'Everybody else thought I looked beautiful today.'

"I know it sounds far-fetched but, brother, I lived through 10 years of it. I know.

"My next wife is going to be some nice young girl who doesn't have to have a career to make her happy."

One famous actress who shed her actor husband—and vows she'll never marry another—says, "I just got tired of racing my husband to the mirror every morning."

OFTEN TWO young people will fall in love when both are just starting in the business. One makes it—the other doesn't. This happened to one feminine star who divorced her husband although she claims she still loves him.

"At a premiere photographers would ask my husband to step out of the picture. I've even heard them give him the bit where they called him by my last name. Until it happened to me, I thought that was only something out of the script of a 'A Star Is Born.'

"A few years of this and my husband's whole personality changed. He became a heavy drinker and, what's more, an obnoxious one. Then he started investing my money in crazy businesses that he knew nothing about. He lost a bundle.

"Finally, my advisers kept suggesting that I couldn't afford him, financially or socially. So I divorced him. And now I'm miserable—and so are the children.

"If I had had any class, I would have quit my career when I saw it booming faster than his."

THE FORMER wife of one of Hollywood's most virile stars tells of the great temptations offered her husband.

"You can't realize how cheap some women can be until you are married to a screen idol. They literally threw themselves at my husband, even when I was in the same room."

One wife whose husband started in the movies but is now a major television star claims that TV saved their marriage.

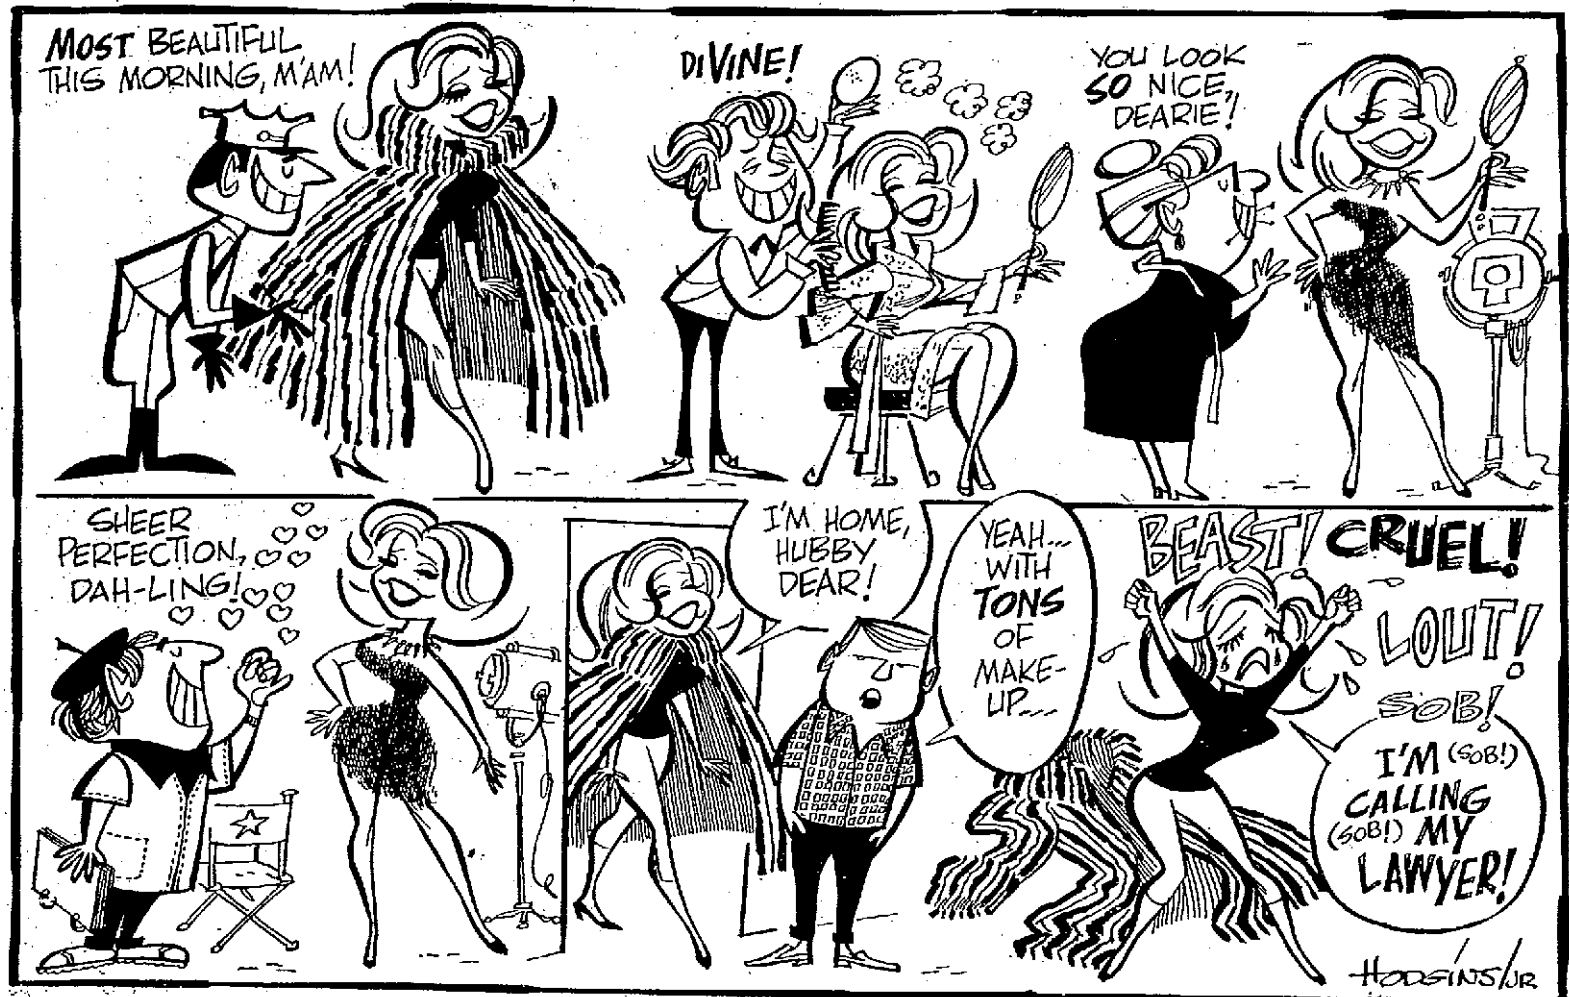

"On a movie set, there is way too much time between camera set-ups—and much too much work away from home. That gives too much opportunity for devilment. And there are always plenty of ambitious young starlets around to provide the devilment.

"But television operates on a split-second schedule. There's no time to get in trouble when you have to turn a show out in three days. For one thing, it cut down my husband's drinking—also his cheating."

Not all the cheating is done by husbands in Hollywood.

Corona's Racetrack of the Giants

By Georgia M. Clark

FOR A FEW YEARS, almost a half century ago, Corona was the auto racing capital of the Southland and probably the West. To the casual driver going through the city on Highway 18, the appearance of a circle drive around the main part of town could be a bit confusing. But to hear the history of that circular street is to know where some world records were broken.

In 1866, the Corona city fathers decided that a perfect circle divided into four quarters would provide the main arteries for the city. Until 1912 this circle was unpaved and was a favorite promenade for equestrians and for ladies and gentlemen in horse-drawn carriages. But in that year a layer of asphalt was poured on the 60-foot roadway and the quiet and dignified tempo of Corona changed almost overnight.

A joint meeting of the Corona Automobile Club and the newly formed Western Automobile Racing Assn. was held and the first automobile race was scheduled for Sept. 9, 1913, on the Corona Circle. Hustle and bustle was everywhere... housing and eating places were listed, grandstands and barricades were erected, bales of hay were piled at strategic points to keep racers from going into the crowds, handbills by the hundreds were printed and publicity was broadcast throughout the country.

THE DAY OF the race dawned bright and hot. Hotels were filled to capacity. Many persons unable to find accommodations had slept in their cars. Representatives of the press, mechanics, auto drivers, and auto fans from all over the country poured into town to view this first western classic. They came by train, car, bicycle and on foot. Special trains were dispatched from San Francisco, San Diego, San Bernardino and other western points. By noon of race day, the entire city was filled with excitement. Flags, bunting and streamers decorated the streets. The odor of gasoline exhaust was intensified by the still, hot air. Every seat was taken in the 5,000-seat grandstand and thousands lined the circle.

Under the blazing sun, 15 racing cars lined up for the main event but only three rolled over the finish line. Earl Cooper captured top honors, driving a Stutz, doing 109 laps in 4 hours, 2 minutes, 38 seconds, with an average speed of 74 miles per hour and winning $5,000 prize money.

The next year, race day, Nov. 26, was a special Thanksgiving Day event. The same enthusiasm was present. The admission was 50 cents. There were 19 entrants and seven record. And not one car had left the track due to an accident. Babcock, driving a Sunbeam Racer, had his steering gear break while he was trying to avoid hitting a little dog that had wandered out onto the track, but he was able to keep his car in course and brought it to a standstill midst the cheers of the spectators.

On April 8, 1916, the largest and last race was held on the Circle. Eighty thousand cheering fans lined the pepper tree-shaded Circle to see the racing greats in this thrilling classic. The warm California sunshine could not overcome the acrid smell of the overheated motors. Around and around went these men with nerves of steel. "Wild Bob" Burman fought into the lead after coming from last position. He had been in the pits several times for tire changes and engine trouble, but with each lap he seemed more desperately determined to win this race.

IN THE 97TH LAP he was running at approximately 100 miles per hour when a tire blew out. His mechanic and a race track guard were killed almost instantly in the crash that followed. "Wild Bob" died on the way to the hospital. Frank A. Lawry of Long Beach, who had been standing behind the pits throughout the race, heard many of the townspeople declare: "This must never happen again in our city." And it never did. The people of this normally quiet town were so shocked and saddened by this tragic day that the Circle was never again used as a race track.

Eddie O'Donnel won this last race in 3 hours, 29 minutes, 52 seconds; Joe Thomas was second; Eddie Pullen, third; Teddie Tetzlaff, fourth; and R. C. Durant, fifth.

Some of these great race drivers went on to become winners in national races. According to the Helms Athletic Foundation in Los Angeles, there are 18 racing drivers listed in the Helms Automobile Racing Hall of Fame, including Burman, Cooper, Ralph DePalma and Oldfield. Cooper, long identified with a local oil company, is now retired and living in the San Joaquin Valley. Oldfield and DePalma have joined Burman in death.

Motorists driving through Corona today may turn off Grand Boulevard and drive the Circle in the theoretical tire tracks of the giants of automobile racing—but any attempt to emulate their careening careers may bring the familiar sound of a motorcycle policeman's siren.

Ralph DePalma won worldwide fame as a speedster and drove this Mercer in competition at Corona. Circle thoroughfare is still a city street.

crossed the finish line. Again Earl Cooper led until the 107th lap, seemingly assured of second place if not first. He was driving one of the fastest races of his career. But in that fateful 107th lap, his timing gear failed and the prize money slipped through his fingers. Always known as "Lucky" because of his fast rise from mechanic to one of the world's fastest race drivers, Cooper finally made his way back to the judges' stand and with a wan smile told of his misfortune.

FIRST PLACE with $6,000 prize money was won by Eddie Pullen, driving a Mercer, in 3 hours, 26 minutes, 2 seconds with an average speed of 86.76 miles per hour. Also finishing were Cliff Durant in a Chevrolet Cyclone, Barney Oldfield in a Delage, Eddie O'Donnel in a Dusenbergl and Bob Burman in a Peugeot.

Barney Oldfield had predicted before the race that the track was not safe and was not fast. Later he retracted his statement because five world records were broken and he, himself, had established a nonstop

Tribute in Stone

By Frank L. Remington

LOOMING majestically on the skyline, the Washington Monument towers above any other structure in the nation's capital. Tall as it is, the surprising and seemingly improbable oddities concerning this white marble shaft are not tall tales.

One man actually jumped over the top of the Washington Monument!

A score of persons have walked down the 898 steps within the shaft on their hands!

A magician volunteered to make a pony disappear from the top of the Monument!

SINCE ITS OPENING on Oct. 9, 1888, the Washington Monument has hosted close to 35 million visitors, and currently accommodates about 3,000 to 5,000 sightseers daily. About one in every seven visitors disdains the use of the elevator which for one dime could whisk him to the top in one minute flat. The stout-hearted walker prefers the "shoe-leather express," which usually requires about half an hour's arduous climb up the winding stairway.

The hiker is rewarded by an unfolding panorama of memorial stones at each ten-foot interval on the landings. He soon becomes aware that nearly every race, creed, and color of man has made its contribution to the construction of the Monument memorializing the man who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

ONE OF THE memorial stones was sent from the ruins of ancient Carthage. Another stone from the Pennsylvania Sons of Temperance proclaims: "The Surest Safeguard Of The Liberty Of Our Country Is Total Abstinence From All That Intoxicates."

From the observation platform at the top, sightseers thrill to a most spectacular view of the city of Washington. Of course, there are always those unthinking persons, who once at the top refuse to obey the rules. Despite the vigilance of the monument attendants, some tourists insist on tossing every conceivable type of article over the side. These items include 12-inch-long steel spikes, pennies, bottles and newspapers.

Monument officials try to discourage this type of thing but are not always successful. They especially discourage those publicity seekers who walk down the hundreds of steps on their hands. But usually about one person a year succeeds in getting away with the maneuver.

OFFICIALS FLATLY refused a starry-eyed young couple's request to repeat their nuptial vows in the Monument. Nor did Blackstone the magician get away with a stunt calculated to advertise his show. He promised to vanish a pony from the top of the Monument. Just how he proposed to accomplish this legerdemain remains a mystery, for officials turned thumbs down on his request.

The Washington Monument has weathered a stormy history. Indeed, more than 100 years passed from the time it was first proposed to the time it was dedicated and opened to the public. With numerous interruptions from political squabbles and national emergencies, it was some 40 years in the building.

IN VIEW OF its stormy past, it is surprising that the memorial to Washington was not compromised in half a dozen different ways. Actually the Monument was built in its present form only after thousands of individuals had competed for the honor of designing it and after the ideas of some half-dozen people had come close to being accepted.

A nationwide contest for a design was won by architect Robert Mills. His plans were considerably more elaborate than the present Monument. They called for a circular Greek temple 250-feet in diameter by 100 feet high. This was to have a rotunda containing thirty massive columns representing the 30 states of the Union.

Beneath the building were to be catacombs for presidents and other great American dead. The portico was to support a gigantic statue of Washington sitting in a chariot drawn by six horses, and driven by a figure representing Victory. A central shaft was to rise 600 feet to be capped by a blunt point.

THE MILLS PLAN was so complicated that it was decided to concentrate on the central shaft and leave the rest till later. Accordingly, a foundation was laid and the cornerstone was set on July 4, 1848.

Construction went ahead steadily for several years. But political squabbles and lack of funds ultimately stopped the work at the 150-foot level. A new campaign for funds began, but before actual construction could be resumed in earnest, the Civil War was on hand. Interest in the project naturally lagged, and the 150-foot-high stump of the monument stood dumpy and desolate for the next 20 years.

Grandiose early plan for the Washington Monument included circular Greek temple, 30 columns for states.

Millions for Sound

THREE MILLION dollars worth of Cinerama equipment has been moved into the Forum Theater, 4050 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, which now becomes the Cinerama Forum Studio and Technical Laboratory—the first of its kind affiliated with the motion picture industry.

Cinerama is moving 12 highly trained electronic technicians from Oyster Bay, N.Y. to Los Angeles where they will be based permanently.

Simultaneously with the announcement of the new studio and lab, Cinerama, Inc., announced the development of a completely transistorized Cinerama sound system.

NICOLAS REISINI, president of the company, said that Dr. D. G. C. Hare, head of the Grass Valley Group of California, had developed transistorized units "that achieve the finest reproduction of sound ever attained."

The new all-transistor sound system accomplishes three main objectives, he said: it saves space and weight, it reduces power loss, it improves audio quality.

The new equipment uses no transformers and can handle high peak power levels.

Largest screen ever installed in motion picture industry history, the screen to be used by Cinerama laboratory will occupy entire proscenium of L. A. Forum Theater.

DISTINCTIVE CUSTOM DRAPERIES

Over 800 Rossmore homeowners have Willbanks Draperies in their homes . . . There is more than one reason why all of these people have selected us to do the drapery jobs in their lovely new homes. Price, of course, is a major consideration . . . With the largest shop, best equipment and largest stock of mill fabrics our bids are consistently lower than smaller competitors . . . But price alone doesn't make a good looking window. In Rossmore as well as all over Long Beach . . . one woman has sold another. The quality of our work, the after-the-sale service, the lower price and better selection has made Willbanks the largest Drapery factory in this entire area.

Champagne upholstery covers this large and inviting couch in the interesting home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bakos, Rossmore. Lighted painting finds a true setting here.

FILIGREE concrete blocks sweep across the front of the very modern residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Bakos, 3152 Shakespeare St., Rossmore, simultaneously backgrounding and accenting a strikingly landscaped lawn area. An inner garden, set apart by the block screen, is entered through an iron gate. Thus is the setting established for one of the area's most interesting homes.

Within, champagne carpeting curves to meet the marble flooring in the entry. Living room, dining room, kitchen, and family room form one large rectangle, divided only by a partial wall between the kitchen and living room. Champagne drapes and furniture in the living room blend to add a feeling of spaciousness. The curved couch at the far end is colorful with bright peacock blue and orange pillows, color accents that are carried out in larger pillows atop a low brick settee near the fireplace.

Entry area is delineated by a low, brick settee in background center above. Multi-colored pillows create useable bench for seating and provide an accent of color.

A handsome picture, lighted from above, is on the wall above the couch. The painting is from Italy and shows sailing ships at sunrise, the lighting providing a three-dimensional effect.

A PLANTER on the floor by the fireplace adds a touch of green. The classic contemporary furniture was chosen with obvious care. Accessories were picked for their beauty as well as for function. A lamp from Hong Kong is placed near one chair. A brass lamp from Italy is near the couch, and on the other side a blue lamp from Sweden attracts notice.

The dining room furniture is polished walnut: a low round table flanked by four black leather upholstered chairs and a tall breakfront against one wall. A low bar separates the dining room from the open kitchen.

The window above the sink overlooks a back yard that portrays California living at its best: a large, curved pool with built-in barbecue, patio area, and artistic landscaping. The kitchen is modern and functional.

On the other side of the kitchen a low bar separates the family room—an all-purpose area probably used more than any other in the home. A low comfortable couch faces the television set and many little accents give this room individuality. A mosaic hanging light is colorful above the bar, calling attention to a graceful mosaic picture nearby.

THE MASTER bedroom has an attractive living picture outside the window where plants and shrubs grow against a background of the cement blocks. On a wall of the adjoining bathroom, a large mirror reflects the "picture" and adds greatly to the spaciousness of the bedroom suite. Chests of drawers are merged into a large, two-piece unit of dark polished walnut. Walls, drapes, and spread are of a soft gray-green.

The boy's room, while serving its purpose now for a small youngster, is designed to grow as the boy grows. For example, against the far wall is a desk plus bookshelves, drawers, open shelves and storage cupboards. These are cleverly made so that they can be expanded or raised when more room for sitting or working is needed.

Every busy man who ever has work to do at home would be envious of the den. A large desk faces the door with a tall sturdy lamp nearby and occasional chairs are here and there. This might be called a trophy room in view of the fact that an array of such well-earned treasures are displayed to advantage in one corner.

Spoonsful of History

Silver souvenir spoons, once a collector fashion, have become important again in this Long Beach collection.

By Helen L. Gillum

INTRIGUING PEEKS into the American past are provided in a novel way by the decorative engravings on silver souvenir teaspoons. Each spoon, besides being an object of beauty, refers to and is commemorative of a great American person or event. Mrs. William A. Boughn, 207 E. 69th St., finds that collecting these old sterling silver pieces, classifying them and doing research on the bit of historical lore on each one is a fascinating pastime.

The souvenir spoon was introduced to America in 1890 by Daniel Low of Salem. He conceived the idea of preserving the traditions and legends of our country in this manner, with specially modeled handles and bowls on the spoons, to be inscribed, lettered and otherwise identified with certain places, persons and events. His first spoon, the Salem "Witch Spoon," carried out this theme with a witch on the handle recalling important, if not so pleasant days in the history of the old Massachusetts city.

THE FAD took hold quickly, and the sterling silver spoons were soon enjoying a great sale. They were produced in the thousands from Maine's only distaff lobsterman is Nancy Arey, beauty contest winner, who works nearly 100 lobster pots daily.

Lobstermen's Queen

By George Eres

EACH MORNING at the crack of dawn — come rain, shine, sleet or snow — pretty 21-year-old Nancy Arey is headed for the water's edge with more than 50 pounds of lobster bait.

Miss Arey, who lives in South Thomaston, Me., rows 100 yards to her open fishing boat, loads her bait, pulls-to start the outboard motor, goes out in open water, and works 50 lobster pots — all before 8 a.m.

Miss Arey's unusual occupation which so inspires the admiration of her friends, seems a perfectly logical choice to her.

Nancy was born on a farm in South Thomaston, a picturesque village on the shores of Penobscot Bay, about 180 miles north of Portland. Lobstering is a way of life in her home town. Everybody does it occasionally from Grandma to the youngest kids. Many farmers supplement their incomes with early morning and late evening lobstering. Professional lobstering is the community's leading occupation. Some fishermen work on the big commercial boats on a salary basis. Others go out alone in small outboard-powered boats of about 16 to 20 feet in length.

Nancy belongs to the latter group. She uses a 17-foot home-built "wherry," a double-ender. Her boat is powered by a 5 1/2-h.p. Johnson outboard.

NANCY KEEPS 100 lobster pots. These are traps made of "orange crate slats" about three feet long. Each trap has a net inside. The bait is put inside the trap and the lobster crawls in. Once in he can't get out.

It is traditional in Maine that each lobsterman builds his own traps, and frequently his own boat. Nancy is no exception. She has built all her own traps, and is currently building a boat.

Once at her fishing area, Nancy looks for the marker with her colors, red and white. Each fisherman has distinctive markers. She must then haul the trap up from the bottom and take the lobsters out — by hand. The sight of live lobsters is enough to make the average girl squeamish, but not Nancy, who has no qualms about putting her hand right into the trap.

NANCY WORKS 50 pots each morning from 5:30 to 8 a.m. She returns each afternoon about 5 p.m., to work the other 50. It's a tough job, but one she loves and it brings her an average of $20 a day.

No "Tugboat Annie" type, Nancy is pretty enough to have won two beauty contests in the past three years. She was Maine's Sea Food Festival Queen in 1959, and has appeared on two national television shows, "What's My Line" and "To Tell the Truth," where her delicate appearance combined with her unusual job completely stumped the panel.

She has the usual 21-year-old's interest in modern things, favors flaring skirts, and drives a foreign sports car. But she also has the frugality of her Scotch ancestry and Down East background. The sports car is her one frivolity — otherwise most of her earnings have gone into the purchase of a farm near her parents' place and she is now fixing up a 200-year-old house on the property.

Born With Their Motors Running

Principal Howell says that "these tests point up the capabilities as well as the interests of the pupils, thus affording them a purpose, sometimes a changing one, as time goes on."

If a parent has already decided his child's future, a conference may halt temporarily on a discordant note, for the most conscientious and loving parent is sometimes the most blind. He has worked so hard preparing a place for Johnny in his business that he was too tired to notice the meticulous results of the hours his son has spent in a neighbor's workshop.

Johnny, wanting his father's respect, has tried in his more serious moments to agree with his father's hopes. To this parent, Johnny's desire to be a carpenter may come as a real shock. Here rests the difficulty.

When a father has already mentally replaced his business sign with one which includes "and son," how does a teacher explain that the son has other ideas?

"What has to be done, that's what we do," said Edward West, Stanford Junior High counselor.

THESE TESTS results are of particular benefit to the 'late bloomers.' They are an interesting group, pleasant, casual, sometimes bashful, and quite often dreamers. If they know where they're going, they haven't bothered to tell anyone. That boy who wants so desperately to roam around the world—is he too busy daydreaming to realize that he may have the potential to become an engineer? His test results may show definite capabilities along this line.

A member of the Long Beach Unified School District Staff explains: "Late bloomers are sometimes the most successful people, Churchill for instance, or Jack London."

The proper use, through counseling and parental encouragement, of these survey reports, produced the first absolute evidence of their effectiveness last June, in the form of an increase of 73 per cent in scholarships presented to the Long Beach High School graduates, over that earned by the preceding year's class. Some of the immediate results have pleased many parents as well. One mother remarked "This year Donald even speaks to his teachers."

Now that a class has reached the senior high level, another look at the doings of the VSPs is interesting. By this time, most of them will have spent at least one period in summer school for that extra subject such as typing or journalism, in which they were interested. They probably have several extra high school credits on their record, and are wondering what they can find of added value during their senior year. A special reward is now theirs for the taking. They can, upon passing another series of tests, obtain up to ten units of college credit during their senior year in high school. What type of adults are these VSPs becoming? Dr. Patrick D. Rocchio, counselor at Long Beach City College, who has taught several groups of them in psychology courses, states: "They are superior in every way, well adjusted, respond well, and do well in examinations."

"Motivation can be inferred but not measured," Dr. Rocchio declares. It is this lack of a measure that raises the all important question—just how deep is your child's motivation? Now that he knows where his interests and talents lie, will he work hard to achieve his goal, or is work something he prefers to leave to the other person? How much encouragement and help will be need or be willing to accept from his parents? Only time and he will tell.

Fight Fatigue With Slant Board

WE SPEND our working hours standing or sitting upright and gravity is constantly pulling downward on our muscles, blood, organs and other parts of our bodies. That's why people's feet ache and become swollen, their back muscles tense up and they become tired and irritable.

"Get a slant board," doctors say, "and reverse this procedure." When you come home from work, lie on it for 15 minutes, with your feet elevated. This takes the strain off your muscles and your heart and gets things back into position where they belong. It's very relaxing and will do a lot for your body and spirits.

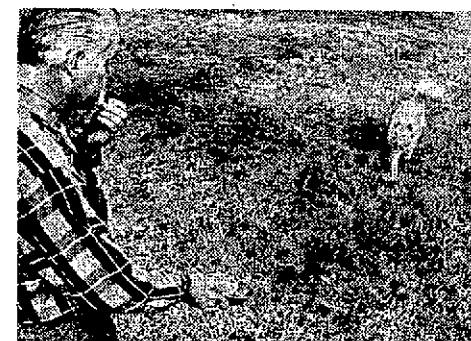

In addition to relaxing your body on the board, you will find it a wonderful way to exercise.

Anyone can make a slant board for only a few cents, using a full-size pattern.

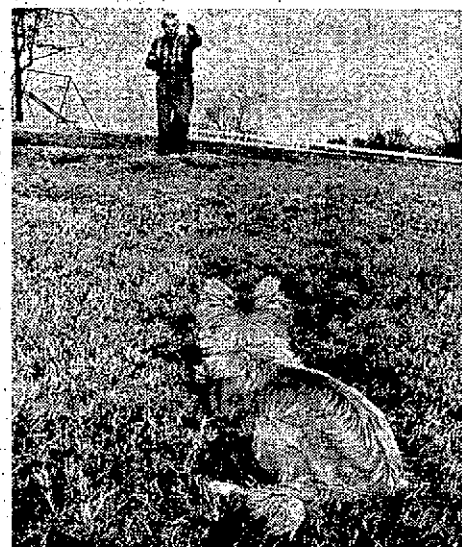

For slant board pattern No. 156 send 50 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys.

NBC-TV actress Maryellen Smith demonstrates slant board.

Hints on How to Train Your Dog

1. COMING WHEN CALLED. When you have the dog's attention, call "come boy" or "here." (Always use the same command.) As he starts to come, blow a whistle as a bridging signal to remind him of the reward. When he reaches you, offer him a small bowl of food and let him eat. As he learns, try calling him from greater distances, and away from distractions. (Left.)

3. LYING DOWN. Start with the dog in the sitting position. Grasp his front paws and gently pull his legs out in front of him. As he goes down, command "down." After he learns, you can make him lie down at a considerable distance from you. (Above.)

2. SITTING. To encourage your dog to sit naturally, walk slowly toward him, holding the reward bowl above his head. If he doesn't sit after a moment or two, push down gently but firmly on his hind quarters. As he bends his legs, say "sit." When his hind quarters touch the ground, sound the whistle (softly, so as not to startle him) and reward him. (Below.)

4. FETCHING. Attract the dog's interest with the object to be fetched. While he is watching, throw it a short distance and command him to "fetch." If he goes after it, get him to bring the object to you by calling him. If he doesn't understand, take him there and make him pick it up. Then return to your position and continue with command, whistle, and reward. (Right.)

FOOD

Cone-shaped salmon croquettes, coated with cornflake crumbs, are baked; served with tartar sauce, broccoli.

Nutritious Croquettes

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

SALMON croquettes, made with a cream sauce that provides extra protein, provide a nutritious main dish that serves well as Lenten fare.

Croquettes need not be fried, adding extra calories, but can be baked. In recipe below, croquettes are rolled in cornflake crumbs, giving them a crisp exterior while the inside stays soft and moist. To give them a lively taste, some lemon juice and a little Tabasco, are added to the salmon mixture.

Tartar sauce is the usual accompaniment for croquettes, and broccoli topped with butter sauce a good complement.

Drain liquid from salmon into measuring cup; add milk to make 1 cup liquid. Melt butter in saucepan; add onion and cook until tender, but not brown. Blend in flour, salt and Tabasco. Add milk mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Flake salmon and add to sauce with lemon juice. Stir in 1/2 cup corn flake crumbs. Refrigerate until chilled. Divide into 8 or 10 portions and shape into cones. Roll in remaining corn flake crumbs to coat well. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven (400°F.) 20 to 25 minutes until golden brown. Serve with Tabasco tartar sauce.

Salmon Croquettes

- 1 can (1 pound) salmon
- Milk
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 tblsp. minced onion
- 1/3 cup flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon tabasco
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup (approximately) packaged corn flake crumbs

Tartar Sauce

- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
  - 1 teaspoon vinegar
  - 1 cup mayonnaise
  - 1 tablespoon minced onion
  - 1 tblsp. chopped parsley
  - 1 tblsp. choppen green olive
  - 2 tblsp. chopped pickle
- Stir Tabasco and vinegar into mayonnaise. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Yield: About 1 1/2 cups.

IT'S NEW!

Two new Westinghouse portable electric greenhouses permit amateur gardeners to discount space, seasonal limits.

Portable Greenhouses

AMATEUR gardeners who are apartment dwellers or who live in cold climes may practice their hobby happily in spite of lack of space or seasons by means of portable electric greenhouses recently introduced by Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Designed to create proper growing conditions, as well as for use as a seed starter, the greenhouse is thermostatically controlled. It provides "ideal temperature and humidity for rapid germination of seeds, rooting of cuttings and healthy growth of flowers, herbs and plants."

The greenhouse will be available in two models. Both are rectangular, 15 inches wide and 18 inches long. Each consists of a styrofoam base, a 25-watt heater and thermostat, two polystyrene planter trays and a clear styrene lid.

The deluxe model, with an extra high lid, is suitable for growing many plants and flowers to maturity. It will be equipped with two packages of enriched growing medium. One is best suited for both seed starting and rooting of cuttings and the other is especially suitable for growing mature plants.

Antiques

1891 into the 1900s, but the old-time hobbyist probably got no more pleasure from the spoons than do today's collectors.

A typical example of a commemorative spoon is the Luther Burbank spoon. A bust of the great naturalist is at the top of the handle, and there are daisies twining down the stem. The bowl is an embossed picture of the home of Luther Burbank is Santa Rosa. This spoon has the "John Hood" hallmark.

Another spoon in Mrs. Broughn's collection is a "college" spoon from Harvard. It is washed entirely in gold, and bears the crest of the university in red, white and blue enamel. Beneath the crest is a graduate in cap and gown and the word "Harvard." It has the "Shepherd" mark.

SIGNIFICANT now of the new state, Hawaii, is a spoon with the word "Aloha" on it. The handle is in the shape of a leaf. The bowl is an 1883 coin bearing a bust of Kala-kaua I, King of Hawaii. The hallmark is "Shreve & Co." A full figure of a Civil War soldier in dress uniform makes the handle of another spoon. A scene of the Gettysburg battlefield is engraved in the bowl. It has the "Alvin" mark.

An unusual spoon is a zodiac spoon, (a spoon for infants born in August.

One spoon is an old-fashioned bathing beauty, with the bowl inscribed "Long Beach, Calif." in script. Similar spoons were made for souvenirs from various seashore cities. This one bears the "Watson" mark.

The popularity of these silver spoons began to wane about 1910. Most silversmiths discontinued their manufacture; in fact, many companies gave their molds for scrap during World War I. It seemed that a hobby had seen its best days — only to be revived in a new age, when the small bright objects have again become collectors' items.

Sound Studio

THE HEART of the system, as detailed by Wentworth D. Fling, Cinerama vice president for engineering, is the all-transistor power amplifier. The new amplifiers will deliver the same total audio power to the theater speakers (about 150 watts) as was previously realized from the vacuum tube amplifiers.

Cross-over networks to the loudspeakers have been eliminated; the high-and-low frequency speakers are driven by separate amplifiers and cross-over is done electronically in the amplifiers.

In 1952, Cinerama was the first to use magnetic sound in a theater.

What's Behind Hollywood Divorces?

again," says one disillusioned male star. "To my ex-wife, a good part meant more than family, children, home or me—and she would do anything to get it."

ACTRESSES OFTEN are unable to separate their work from reality.

One feminine star was divorced some years ago with the blackest of headlines. Publicity, carefully planted, had pictured her as the perfect wife and mother. The divorce was a shock everywhere but inside Hollywood. She had romances with practically every leading man she ever worked with.

"Her acting method was to throw herself so completely into a picture that she actually left her own personality and assumed the one in the script," recalls one male star.

"I felt that she was deeply in love with me when we made a picture together. When the picture was over, I couldn't even get her on the phone."

One actor was married to one of the great beauties of the screen.

"Everybody envied me because they only saw my wife after hours of make-up and preparation. True, she has great natural beauty and she's going to keep it.

"At night when she went to bed, she was so covered with creams that it's a wonder she didn't slide out. My next wife will not be so beautiful in public, perhaps, but she won't look like a zombie at the breakfast table either."

Those are some of the reasons, carefully documented, behind some Hollywood divorces. In each case, the charges in court read the same—mental cruelty.

Tribute in Stone

Society convinced Congress to take over financial responsibility. Construction of the shaft resumed under the direction of the United States Army Engineers in 1880. The engineers planned to reduce the Monument's height by 45 feet and replace its blunt cap with a point.

WORK ON the monument then progressed steadily, and a bit over four years later the great 3,300-pound capstone was lowered into position. A 100-ounce point of aluminum was placed on its peak. Aluminum was a comparatively rare metal in those days, and the tip was the largest piece cast up to that time. When it was displayed in New York, one man asked to be allowed to jump over it so he could say he had jumped over the top of the Washington Monument!

The monument was dedicated Feb. 21, 1885, and was opened to the public on Oct. 9, 1888. Jutting 555½ feet into the air, it was the highest structure ever erected up to that time.

Total cost of the Monument—foundations and shaft—amounted to $1,187,710.

To most of us, the monument represents Washington, both the man and the city, as no other monument could. And to the peoples of other free nations, the monument is an American national trademark, second in importance only to the Statue of Liberty.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Coming Downfall of Russia

COMMUNISM HAS divided the world into three major party spheres: the Soviet sphere which includes the USSR and East European satellites, a Chinese sphere and a North Africa sphere, warns David J. Dallin in "SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY AFTER STALIN" (Lippincott, $7.95).

Born in pre-Communist Russia, Dallin served as a Menshevik deputy, was arrested by the Bolsheviks in 1920, has lived in the United States for 20 years and has devoted his life to studying the Soviet system.

This book, his 10th on the subject, is for the hard-rock realist. He reminds his readers that last year Khrushchev said there could be no reunification of Germany if East German Communists would "lose all their gains." He reminds them that Khrushchev told French Socialist leaders that if Germany is rearmied, it will gaze westward for new territories "and this Germany will look for an alliance with us." He adds "By missiles and bombers rather than by ideas and ideals, Khrushchev attracted weak and small countries."

Concludes the author: "Empires of the magnitude of Stalin's Russia are passing phenomena in world history; they are bound to fall. The wars which have historically marked the road of their decay may take place or be avoided. It will depend on the wisdom and farsightedness of Moscow's leadership whether the transition to a peaceful era will be strewn with millions of corpses and smoldering ruins."

"THE MARCH OF THE MONTANA COLUMN" by Lt. James H. Bradley, edited by Edgar I. Stewart (University of Oklahoma Press, $4): From the hand of a young soldier-historian dead for more than 80 years comes this engrossing volume, covering events that preceded the Custer massacre. It first was published in a limited edition in 1896 and now becomes Vol. 32 in the American Exploration and Travel Series. Bradley served

Writers Guild

President Irving Stone will preside at the 25th mid-winter roundup of the California Writers Guild Feb. 25 in the parish house of Pasadena Presbyterian Church, 500 E. Colorado Blvd., Pasadena.

Speakers will be Dr. Harold M. Hyman, associate professor of history at UCLA, author of "To Try Men's Souls," and Dr. John W. Caughey, authority on California history, author of "Their Majesties, the Mob."

The roundup will be 4 to 10 p.m. Dinner will be at 6. Guests are welcome.

POLYNESIAN POGI

This is Pogi, a resident of the Polynesian island that is the subject of Donald Marshall's new book "Ra'Ivavac" (Doubleday, $4.95). This study of a culture that was overwhelmed by the Western world is illustrated with photographs and drawings. The author, an anthropologist, has made five expeditions to the South Seas.

with the Seventh Infantry and he details the march of the Montana Column to participate in the Sioux campaign. On June 26, 1876, the column camped on the present site of Crow Agency, Mont., and learned that George Armstrong Custer's Seventh Cavalry had been wiped out. As commander of scouts of the Montana Column, Bradley helped identify the dead. In his journal he maintained that although Custer lay naked, his body was not mutilated. "Of the 206 bodies on the field, there was little mutilation," Bradley insisted. "Many of the bodies were not even scalped." Bradley was killed the next year, in action against Chief Joseph of the Nez Percés at the Battle of the Big Hole. The jacket cover is a reproduction of W. R. Leigh's "Custer's Last Fight."

"THE MAN WITH THE MIRACULOUS HANDS" by Joseph Kessel (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, $3.95) reveals for the first time the amazing story of Felix Kersten, wartime doctor to Heinrich Himmler, Nazi head of the Gestapo and SS, and how he saved the lives of thousands of Jews.

Kersten, a doctor of manual therapy, studied with Finnish experts and a Tibetan lama to perfect his skill. He was the only one who could cure Himmler's stomach cramps.

Himmler's dependence upon Kersten was a pitiful thing, and he grew to regard Kersten as his only friend.

Kersten extracted what must be the highest price in medical history. He would stop Himmler's agony only if the Gestapo chief would free unfortunate ones destined for imprisonment, deportation, or death.

So great was his hold that he persuaded Himmler to meet with a representative of the International Jewish Organization and agree not to dynamite concentration camps.

When Kessel's "Les Mains du Miracle" appeared in France last summer, it became a best seller. It was translated by Helen Weaver and Leo Raditsma, with a foreword by H. R. Trevor-Roper of Oxford.

ERNEST K. GANN

Some might say that "FATE IS THE HUNTER" by Ernest K. Gann (Simon and Schuster, $6) is an aviation story. Some might say it is an adventure tale. It is both—and more—for it is a stark slice of life. And it points out that man is not the master of his destiny; fate can take a hand anywhere, anytime.

Tragedies and escapes in this book take place in the air, or just before a takeoff, or just after a landing. Gann, who flew missions for the Air Transport Command during World War II, explains: "I saw better pilots than I could ever hope to be, destroyed; and utter fools retire without a blemish on their bodies or their records."

His book is dedicated to 397 flying comrades "with wings . . . forever folded."

"Fate" is the first work of nonfiction by the author of "The High and the Mighty" and "Soldier of Fortune." It is the Book-of-the-Month selection for February.

"ALEXANDRIA: A History and a Guide," by E. M. Forster (Doubleday Anchor Books, 95 cents): Forster, of "Passage to India" fame, in World War I wrote a combined guide and history of Alexandria, which ran a couple of editions. Now it's updated, printed in the United States for the first time, supplemented by diagrams and maps. Alexander the Great founded the ancient city at the mouth of the Nile, but he never saw an Alexandrian wall rise. It's the city of the Ptolemies, of Cleopatra and Hypatia, of the prophet Mohammed, and Forster brilliantly chronicles its rise and fall.

"THE MISFITS" by Arthur Miller (Viking, $3.95): This is the book from which Clark Gable's last picture was made, in which he starred with Marilyn Monroe. Characters are Roslyn, in Reno for a divorce; Isabelle, who knows about divorces and men; Guido, mechanic who falls for Roslyn; Gay, who moves in fast on the new divorcee, and Perce, who rides bucking horses and bulls at rodeos. All are misfits, unable to get along with other people, but out West they hope to resolve their problems. Roslyn accepts Perce's unconventional hospitality but she is appalled at his brute performances at rodeos. The climax comes when the men round up wild mustangs—"misfit horses"—for the slaughter house.

GOING PLACES —

—with the Sloanes

FORTUNES have been made in strange ways, but it is probably safe to say that only one ever was founded on the boysenberry. And there wasn't even any such thing when Walter Knott brought his family down from the wilds of Pomona 40 years ago to start a berry farm and roadside stand at Buena Park.

There was, however, a man named Rudolph Boysen, park superintendent of nearby Anaheim, who had grown some nameless berries. Knott transplanted them to his farm.

TODAY HE and his family own a sprawling forest grove of shops, restaurants, amusement park and relics of the old west that takes 1,500 employees to run. Though berries and berry products are little more than a sideline today, it is still known only as Knott's Berry Farm.

A slim, erect and white-maned 70 today, Walter Knott no longer grows his own berries, though he still gives his occupation as "farmer." What he does grow is money from the 4,000,000 visitors a year who come to buy jams and jellies, eat chicken and steak and explore the realistic replica of a frontier mining town Knott has put together over the past 20 years.

AS RAWLY authentic as a stream of tobacco juice, Ghost Town was devised not only to make money but to establish a heartfelt tribute to the pioneer forebears Walter Knott deeply reveres. The 150 acres of the farm are covered today with transplanted old buildings and installations from all over the country.

Everything that comprises this outdoor museum reflects Walter Knott's pride in his pioneer background and awe of the rugged crucible of history in which the west was forged.

Visitors, he's happy to know, agree it's the berries.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Charm of Australia Calls Tourists

AUSTRALIA, almost at the other end of the world, seemed a remote dream to travelers 10 years ago. Today, with the advent of luxurious cruise ships and jet transports, it has become a reality for thousands of travelers.

A great many of them are planning the trip this year.

And no wonder. Australia, the world's smallest continent and largest island, no longer is a country of sheep ranches, kangaroos, the koala bear and platypus. This does not mean that these are no longer there, but that Australia—at last recognizing its vast potential industrially and tourist-wise—is in the throes of a gigantic boom.

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

There's Sydney, the seaport capital, which is comparable to Los Angeles in size. Sky-scraper hotels are rising to accommodate the huge influx of visitors, augmenting comfortable hostels already available in the great port city.

(The entire face of the great country is changing. For instance, a giant hydro-electric project—the Snowy Mountain scheme—is turning 2,000 square miles of desert into desirable, livable land with an open sea. Some of the new settlers are the million emigrants who have gone "down under" in the last decade.)

Sydney and Melbourne, an hour's plane flight south of Sydney, have just about everything to entertain their visitors. In the capital's famed Taronga Park Zoo are some prize specimens—the platypus, koala and kangaroo, already mentioned. In its Hyde Park are the soapbox orators, just like Long Beach's "spit and argue" club.

Thirty-three beaches may be counted within a half-hour drive of Sydney. There are bagpipe bands, surf carnivals, three tracks for horse-racing, famous museums.

An aboriginal hunting ground a little more than 100 years ago, Melbourne is, today, a city of wealth, the country's banking and cultural hub. Those who have been there say a big, flossy street called St. Kilda Road reminds them of the Champs Elysees in Paris, and the winding River Yarra of the River Seine.

Three hours north of Sydney by air is Queensland's "Gold Coast," 20 miles of sun-surf playground. Still farther north begins the Great Barrier Reef, more than 1,000 miles of reef fencing in 80,000 square miles of pine-topped mountains, coral cays, tropical seas and lagoons.

These, of course, are only a few of the novelties Australia has to show her visitors.

Food? The specialties are, indeed, different—like steak served with eggs on top; kangaroo tail soup; mammoth, mouth-watering oysters, paw-paws, mangos, custard apples; Barramundi. And delicious wines, direct from the island's growing wine industry.

Shopping? Woolens, linens, china, jewelry and leather goods are favorites for many. Typical among souvenirs are boomerangs, and toy koalas and kangaroos.

And when it comes to shopping, tourists get a real break. Sales taxes which ranged up to 25 per cent have been eliminated for visitors who accept delivery aboard ship. International airports in Australia do not as yet provide facilities for purchases after a passenger has cleared customs outbound. This new ruling, put into effect in December, 1960, directly benefits Matson and P&O-Orient passengers.

LONDON, gateway to all Europe, will be only 11 hours from the Long Beach-Los Angeles area when British Overseas Airways Corp. inaugurates its direct 707 jet service from International Airport on March 2. BOAC's 129-passenger, 580 mph. jets will take off from here at 10 p.m. (local) time Thursdays and Saturdays and arrive at London Airport at 5 p.m. next day (British local time, which is 9 a.m. by California timepieces).

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

Don't forget the World Flower and Garden Show, Feb. 24-March 5, at Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles. This will be a paradise of spring blooms.

Add flowers: Temple City holds a unique parade at 10 a.m. Feb. 25 in connection with its annual Camellia Show—unique because it will be made up of camellia-decorated floats built and propelled by children. Anaheim's Camellia Show will be held from 2 to 10 p.m. Feb. 25 and 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Feb. 26 under auspices of the American Camellia Society in Disneyland Hotel.

Orient Gets Play

Travelers' interest in the Far East has led to a boom in the Orient's tourist industry, including streamlined transportation, luxury hotels and excellent international restaurants.

A private tour, limited to 20 persons, is now being formed by Eunice Loseff, aiming at spending the summer in Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, Singapore, and the Philippines. Miss Loseff, Los Angeles teacher of world history, has a special interest in the Orient, having lived and traveled there for four years.

A return trip stop will be made in Hawaii for those who wish a visit to the islands. Further information may be obtained from Miss Loseff by telephoning evenings to HA 5-1733, or from Belflower Travel Service, sponsor of the trip, at TO 6-9785.

to registered and grade horses. In order to be eligible in the registered group, horse owners must possess registry papers on horses. As in a dog show, it is fair to emphasize the horse's best points and to minimize any faults. Physical condition, grooming, posing, and showmanship all help to put the horse in the ribbons. When a horse is held still with head raised, front feet slightly forward, and hindlegs a trifle back but still in line, this stretching or camping, as the pose is called, really gives the horse a proud appearance.

There may also be a class for physical condition, grooming, and the like, but usually these factors are combined in the conformation ring.

The saddle class or equitation class may be divided into beginners and advanced classes. In these the rider has to master a few or a number of things, such as walking his horse, trotting slowly, then fast or extended trotting, cantering, backing, turning, reversing. Skills such as the correct lead when cantering in a circle, posting on a correct diagonal, changing diagonals, riding the figure eight, riding bareback, racing, jumping, or even quite tricky feats may be required.

Usually there is a Western class as well as an English class.

ANOTHER TYPE of horse show is the gymkhanas. Here beauty doesn't count. The purpose is to entertain participants and onlookers while the rider and horse cooperate in such events as team relay races, potato races, break-the-balloon, and musical chairs. In musical chairs, feed sacks substitute for chairs. Players ride until the music stops, then try to get their horses to put a hoof on a sack. After each round of music, a sack is removed and a horse eliminated. When only two riders are left, they either try for the remaining sack, or they dismount, have someone hold their horses, and race on foot to a given finish line.

A horse show is part of the Date Festival this week through Feb. 26 at Indio.

Mural, Minox and Joe E. Marx: Tiny camera held by Marx took photos for the 15-foot mural shown in background.

By the Shutterbug

PHOTO enthusiast Joe J. Marx of Loveland, Ohio, is a tiny-camera fan who does small things in a great big way.

He proved this recently by making probably the largest mural ever taken by the smallest camera. The result is on public view in the Cincinnati Public Library: a 15-foot panorama of the city's skyline photographed with a sub-miniature camera. The original scene was shot on four negatives each of which measured less than half an inch.

For two years in a row, Marx took first prizes in the national Minox photo contests. The third time, in 1960, PAZO lets you be active in comfort.

Research finds new fast way to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of seven modern medications in one complete formula: The Pazo Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. The Pazo Formula is the only leading formula with these seven active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new, superior combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pile sufferers.

CLINICALLY TESTED BY DOCTORS. The Pazo Formula actually proves to do more than just shrink hemorrhoids. It also relieves pain and itching promptly, fights infection, promotes healing, and lubricates membranes.

they asked him to be a judge in the contest.

"I HAD OFTEN studied a 40-foot daguerrotype mural on permanent display in the library," Marx says. "It was a view of Cincinnati's waterfront taken from the Kentucky side in 1848, enlarged from eight daguerrotypes, each 4x5 inches.

"What tremendous changes have taken place since then," I thought. 'The city... cameras.' Why not use the smallest, most modern camera to take the same picture? What a challenge!"

With this goal in mind, Marx went back to the library to look up some photo books. Until now he had specialized in closeups and human interest pictures and he realized a little research was in order. He found some helpful information in the Focal Encyclopedia, a British publication, which has been put out in a new desk edition distributed in this country by Macmillan Co., New York.

HE LEARNED that to make a good panorama, a tripod must be used, something he had never used before with a Minox. In addition, it would require a carpenter's spirit level to make sure that the film plane remained absolutely vertical in each of the separate exposures. Without it, the Ohio River might run up hill at the extreme edges of the picture.

Marx made the enlargements for the mural in his own bathroom—darkroom, printing 30x36 inch panels with a slight overlap at each edge. Not having big enough trays, he worked on a waxed masonite board set in the bathtub. He sloshed on the developer with a big sponge and controlled the rate of processing with a garden hose. He sponged on the hypo, too, and hosed the prints for washing.

In mounting, the shorelines of each panel had to meet and the light and dark tones had to match. The final assembly was on a 15-foot masonite board.

Public recognition of his feat, Marx believes, is a tribute to what can be done with a sub-miniature camera.

"BUT THIS WAS a special project off its usual beat," he says. "I think it shows up best in everyday-picture-taking. An ultra miniature camera is portable, concealable and available.

"Obviously you can't get pictures if you don't have a camera at hand when you run across something unexpectedly. And many another good picture has been lost because the camera, if it is on hand, is too obvious.

"Look at me now. Would you know that I'm carrying three Minox cameras and a flash unit under my jacket? One is loaded with a fast film, one with slow film and one with color. I'm prepared for anything and my pictures won't look posed because they aren't posed.

"For a final bit of advice to other camera fans, I'd say this: Shoot more close-ups. Select one important person, thing or detail and concentrate on it. Make it an exercise for one whole roll of film... nothing but close-ups. See if you don't like the results."

Green Thumbers Are 'Naturals'

By Joe Littlefield

SOME GARDENERS work hard trying to grow flowers but with poor results, while others seemingly grow them effortlessly. The main secret with these green-thumb gardeners is that they do what comes naturally to help the plants along. They water plants when needed, feed them to encourage best growth, pinch them back to bush them if need be, support those that need tying up, and keep the bugs from eating or damaging all their plants by spraying with an effective garden spray.

Pruning is a necessary but often misunderstood garden factor.

Prune back fuchsias if they're in a frost protected area, otherwise wait until frost spells are over. You've pruned the fuchsia properly if it looks like a skeleton. The secondary branch stubs should have only two or three buds.

These plants, too, should be given a cleanup with oil emulsion spray after the soil has been thoroughly saturated. This is the only time you dare use a strong spray on fuchsias.

AS LONG AS we're discussing pruning, let's remember evergreen shrubs that bloom for a period of time but once a year, should be pruned at the time you cut the flowers, or just about the time they've finished blooming.

When you cut flowers or prune, cut back to where you think it helps to shape the bush, but be sure to cut either just above a leaf, a leafless bud, or above a side branch. Presio—you've properly pruned the plant!

By Dorothy Jonson

As the winter season comes to a close and you can begin to look for a little warmer weather, don't fail to apply your borer solution to the soil around trees, wherever they were affected by borers last season. This is your last chance to kill borers in all cycles while they hibernate in the soil around the base of the trees. As soon as the warm weather comes, any overlap borers that have survived treatment you may have already given, will begin to ascend the galleries of the trees, eating their way as they go.

I always recommend that a treatment with a dichlorethyl ether emulsion be given at the beginning of the dormant season and at the close. After that, any effort you make to control borers will have to be in the nature of spot treatments, not as satisfactory, of course, because they kill only one borer underneath the bark; whereas, your treatment in the soil will kill numbers of them.

Calendulas are easy to grow. The blossoms are excellent for cut flowers, and also as color touch in planters.

The best time to prune hibiscus is about mid-March.

DECIDUOUS shrubs are pruned when in bloom as flowers are cut, or just about the time they've finished blooming. Cuts half inch or larger should be sealed with pruning compound, better yet with pruning paint bomb.

Spraying or dusting plants as soon as you notice first few aphids or other pests, eliminates countless hordes from developing later.

There's a Tree for Every Need

By Bob Gilmore

IN THE SHADE of the old apple tree might sound very interesting for next summer but, unfortunately, it won't prove very practical in most parts of Southern California. More desirable shade trees for this area are such interesting subjects as elms, sycamores, olives, acacias and pepper trees.

The evergreen elm thrives to perfection under Southern California growing conditions. Its only bad feature is its botanical name, Ulmus perrifolia sempervirens. Because this elm is comparatively small, it fits well on all average-sized lots. At maturity it will attain a height of from 35 to 37 feet. The tree is well rounded, the foliage very attractive.

Although known as an evergreen this tree is apt to lose some of its foliage during the cooler months. The branches have a rather pendulous appearance, often extending almost to the ground. Because of its wide-spreading shape the evergreen elm will provide lots of shade.

THE CHINESE ELM, Ulmus pumila, is another interesting member of the same family. However, it possesses a deciduous habit of growth, that is, during winter the foliage drops off. Yet few trees have the vigor of the Chinese elm. It is one of the most rapid growing trees for this area.

This specimen is extremely hardy, tolerating heat, cold, floods and drought with equal success. But it must not be planted on a pint-sized area. At maturity the Chinese elm will probably go to 50 feet. Once established it may be forgotten as far as care is concerned; it seems to get along on neglect.

Olive trees succeed in diverse growing areas throughout California. Commercial groves dot the hillsides and valleys all the way from Sacramento to San Diego. As an ornamental the olive has several splendid attributes.

It is not too large for most homesites, growing usually to around 25 feet. The foliage is quite distinctive, being a delicate shade of grey-green. The fruits are purple and quite well as a summer shade tree. It reacts favorably to heavy pruning and thus may be shaped as you desire. It is a very fast grower.

THE WHITE BIRCH, a most attractive subject for lawn areas, is best planted in threes. Set the trees in a triangle. As the trees develop the bark turns white. Landscape architects often place this tree near pools or bodies of water where pleasing reflections are cast. This is often known as the European white birch. Botanically it is Betula alba.

The California sycamore is another splendid shade tree for this area. It may grow to 100 feet at maturity. The plant is deciduous and during the dormant state the mottled bark and white markings are quite distinctive. The European sycamore also performs

AVOCADOS SERVE a dual purpose in that they provide both fruits and shade. In Southern California, avocados thrive practically everywhere but in the desert and high mountains. Nurserymen claim that if several varieties are planted you can have fruit throughout the year.

When watering the trees, make sure they are soaked. Light sprinkling will ruin the trees. In hot regions, protect young trees the first year from sunburn. Other interesting possibilities for shade are: pepper tree, acacia floribunda, camphor tree, pittosporum undulatum and eucalyptus ficifolia.

Follow the Rules for Lilies

Mid-century hybrid lily, Valencia, is a beautiful example of ancient flower.

By Walter Finch

THERE WAS a time, several centuries ago, when lilies were valued mainly because their bulbs were considered a valuable source for food. Today, of course, they are one of the most spectacular of all garden subjects. One or two plants will high light your garden in a way not possible with the general run of ornamentals.

The lily has enjoyed a long and interesting history. There are definite records that lilies were known almost 40 centuries ago. The ancient Greeks praised the lily both as a flower and for its medicinal value. Throughout the ages the lily, more than any other plant, has figured largely in painting, sculpture and other forms of art.

Lilies are not difficult to grow if certain basic rules are followed. One of the most important musts is excellent drainage. While the plants are known as heavy drinkers they can not tolerate having wet feet.

SOILS OF MEDIUM texture will prove satisfactory. A sandy loam enriched with plenty of humus is excellent. A well prepared and deep planting area is recommended. The roots often attain a length of from two to three feet, a factor that provides a clue to the proper environment. Shallow soils can not support healthy root growth and this will lead to improper development above the ground. Hardpans lying close to the surface should be broken up and replaced, if necessary, with new topsoil.

Be very careful about using manure, either fresh or decomposed. Peat will take its place and minimize the possibility of burning. In addition, it is felt that manures often lead to the development of basal rot. Lily experts disagree on whether an acid or alkaline soil is best. But this seems to be due, in some part, to the fact that certain varieties have an acid preference, others do not.

FEEDING LILY plants is not much different from other subjects. A well balanced food will be found productive. It is interesting to note, however, that during the early stages nitrogen and phosphorous seem most important; later on the plant apparently requires less of this kind of food but more of potash. At any rate make certain that all three are applied during the season. A deficiency will dwarf the plant, cause the leaves to drop and discolor the flowers.

Be careful about cutting the blooms. The maturing of the bulb for next season depends on the green leaves and stems. If these members are removed with the flowers then the bulbs will not mature properly. The bulbs may then require a full year to recover. If possible, when cutting the flowers, leave about from 12 to 18 inches of stem.

New rose for new president: Mindy Naud, 5, gives President John F. Kennedy a Duet rose in bare-root form, hoping that he will plant it in the White House gardens in the spring. Duet is salmon-pink and a 1961 All-America Rose Selection.

GREEN THUMBS or "ALL THUMBS"

This Northrup King team produces a thick, green lawn for everyone!

SEED IT—FEED IT! Those are the four words that will produce a beautiful lawn for you, whether you're a seasoned gardener or a brand new homeowner.

Seed it with Golf Brand! It's a mixture of fine perennial grasses specially blended for your locality. Whatever the growing conditions you have, regardless of the sun and shade, heat and moisture in your area, Golf Brand gives you plenty of the exact kind of grasses that will grow best for you.

Some grasses thrive in sunny locations, others under shade trees, on slopes or level areas; there are types that like high mowing or close mowing, dry climates or relatively high humidity. Golf Brand gives you quantities of different grasses that like different conditions. And it contains Park

Kentucky Bluegrass, fastest-sprouting of all bluegrasses. Golf Brand takes the guess work out of which grasses you should plant for a deep-rooted lawn that grows more beautiful year after year.

Feed it with NK Lawnfood! Just like all growing things, your grass needs plenty of nourishment to be healthy and good-looking. To maintain that rich, green color without the work and bother of frequent fertilizing, spread NK Lawnfood. Fast-acting chemical nitrogen in Lawnfood goes right to work "greening up" your lawn practically overnight. Then the slower-releasing organic nitrogen feeds the turf a lasting diet that means steady season-long growth and root development. Just one application of Lawnfood gives your lawn all the nutrients it needs for months of thriving health.

THE LAWNSCAPER SAYS
"Get my free booklet Your Lawn—48 pages of answers to lawn problems from planting to pest control. Look for it at your Northrup King lawn-care display."

Perennials Prove Popular

If you would give perennials a really good start in life, plant them now and let them winter over in beds where they are to grow. Come spring, they will be well established and ready to push out with a vigor that outstrips any of their kind not planted until after the rains.

The perennial most attractive to gardeners is Delphinium. Seedlings set out this fall will produce two crops of bloom next year on spikes that seem ever to be growing taller and more profuse with color.

Primrose seedlings planted now will develop into those little clumps of color that highlight border plantings and edgings. The Primrose has grown more bountiful with the passings years.

To a man who has tried only the common parkway strain, the modern hybrid Gazanias come as a pleasant surprise. Mounding clumps to one foot high and big showy flowers of orange to red are the reward of gardeners who grow them.

petunias and fuchsias. The latter enjoy a cold shower every week or so. This treatment washes off the dust and raises the humidity.

Be sure to plant one or more of the All America Rose Selections. These are the top roses in America. They represent the best that American hybridizers have been able to create.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Peat has the capacity for retaining tremendous quantities of moisture. A mulch of this material tends to keep the surface cool, retards evaporation and protects the roots on hot and windy days.

For pot plants along coastal areas the following will succeed: geraniums, marguerites,

WILLBANKS Sells Carpet For Less

Here are just a few of the reasons why you save!

1. When you can buy 1000 to 5000 yards of a certain fabric or carpeting you can drive a hard bargain with a mill. We save from 10% to 50% on these huge mill purchases.
2. We have only one location — a low overhead factory-warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill.
3. We do our own selling with no commissions to anyone.
4. No mood music, display windows, or other cost-raising features.
5. We put the glamour and the extras on YOUR floors and windows, not our own!
6. GULISTAN • ALEXANDER SMITH • MAGEE • MOHAWK are just a few of the fine mills we represent. WE SELL FINE QUALITY FOR LESS MONEY.

Eleanor Custis was married on Washington's birthday, 1799. She became the mother of five.

George Washington Custis became a playwright. His daughter married Robert E. Lee.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The father of our country was a doting parent

EDITOR'S NOTE: For this intimate glimpse of George Washington PARADE is indebted to the papers of Mildred Lee, daughter of Civil War Gen. Robert E. Lee and a great-great-granddaughter of Martha Washington. Mildred preserved original manuscripts and mementos of the Washingtons, which were lent to PARADE by the Middleton Gallery, Charleston, S.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

HISTORY IS FULL of facts about George Washington as father of our country, but little has been written about the sort of father he was to his own family. To mark Washington's Birthday this week, PARADE has dug out the revealing, intimate story of the great man's family life.

The austere squire of Mount Vernon ran his vast estate with stop-watch precision. Punctuality was to his meticulous mind the essence of courtesy and efficiency. To the men around him at the birth of this republic, he showed the stern face of a disciplinarian.

Yet beneath his grave mien and unrelenting discipline, which he applied to himself as strictly as to others, was the warm heart of a father.

George Washington became a father by adopting the grandchildren of his wife, Martha, who was a widow when they married. They were the children of her son John Custis, who contracted camp fever during the siege of Yorktown and died at 28 while victory was being celebrated. (John had been raised as a stepson by Washington.)

No matter how heavily the burdens of the new nation pressed upon his shoulders, Washington always found time for young George Washington Custis and his sister Eleanor Custis, whom he affectionately called Nelly. Often Washington would find himself in trouble with Martha over what she considered his indulgence of the children.

Martha was a proper, pious matron, a conservative lady of her times. But her granddaughter was a high-born hoyden, a rollicking beauty, with the lightest of steps and the most sparkling of spirits. Her irrepressible gaiety, contagious laughter and endless pranks so won Washington's heart that almost every letter he wrote to Martha ended: "Give my love to Nelly."

Martha was determined that Nelly should become a lady. This meant she should sew a fine seam to qualify for the sewing circle and develop skill at music to entertain gentlemen and impress a suitable husband.

Nelly had different ideas. She preferred riding half-broken colts to practicing at the harpsichord. She frequently disappeared in the middle of her five-hour music lesson to come back flushed, excited and tongue-in-cheek repentant. Martha would scold, and Nelly would fly to the General to whisper her secrets and plead for help in getting out of her latest scrape.

EVEN AS A CHILD, Nelly knew how to twist him around her finger. With the complete assurance of one who was both lovely and loved, she was never in awe of the august Washington. To her, the man who carved a nation out of ideals and raw materials was her father, prepared to go to battle for her.

George Washington Custis was a gentle youngster with ringlets, the hair style for well-bred little boys. Washington loved him dearly, and Lafayette recalling a visit to Mount Vernon remembered him as "a very little gentleman with a feather in his hat, holding fast to one finger of the good General's remarkable hand."

Upon the occasion of Nelly's first big ball in Georgetown, George Washington—like every father before and after him—suddenly realized that his little rascal of a girl had grown up. He sat down and wrote her a letter, addressed mischievously but movingly to "Eleanor Parke Custis, spinster."

IN IT HE SET OUT ADVICE that reflects both the concern of a devoted father and the thoroughness of the man. The letter reads: "Having caught your hare, how shall you serve him?" (This refers to a celebrated recipe, a joke between the two, which begins, "First catch your hare.")

"When the fire is beginning to kindle," Washington continues, "and your heart is growing warm, propound these questions to it: Who is this invader? Have I a competent knowledge of him? Is he a man of good character—a man of sense. For, be it assured, a sensible woman can never be happy with a fool."

"What has been his walk in life? Is he a gambler, a spendthrift, a drunkard? Is his fortune sufficient to maintain me in the manner I am accustomed to live?"

George Washington need not have worried about his darling Nelly. After a proper time of dining, dancing and courting in the great colonial households, she married Lawrence Lewis, childhood friend and Washington's favorite nephew.

The squire of Mount Vernon, founding father of our country and foster father of Nelly Custis, must have beamed as he gave the bride away. ■

Passing a police patrol car is good form if the patrol car is moving below speed limit.

DO YOU DO THE RIGHT THING?

by ED FALES

- 1 Should you ever pass a patrol car?
- 2 How many stops must you make at a stop sign?
- 3 Can you make a turn against a red light?
- 4 Do police "tolerate" slight speed violations?
- 5 Is it ever safe to pass on the right?
- 6 What's the point of no return in passing?
- 7 What do you do when a slow driver waves you on?
- 8 Should you stop or barge through a "quick-change" traffic light?
- 9 Is the speed limit ever too fast?
- 10 What's the safe way to sleep in your car?

DOVER, DEL.

WHAT DRIVER hasn't wondered, when a traffic light suddenly pops up yellow, whether he should zip through or squeal to a stop? Who hasn't fidgeted, in a 50-mph. zone, behind a police patrol traveling precisely 48 mph?

As most drivers know, there's a whole array of such situations. They crop up with embarrassing frequency, and yet there seems to be no rulebook to guide you. Each time, you wonder anew, "What's the right—and safe—thing to do?"

To find out, PARADE came here to consult the Delaware state police, who last year won top world honors for traffic "know-how" from the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Here's the word from these skilled patrols on 10 situations that are familiar "road puzzlers":

1. Should you ever pass a patrol car? Suppose you're on a busy road. Speed limit: 50. Suddenly, there's a patrol right in front of you. He's doing 48!

What should you do now? Slow down and trail behind him? This gives you a sneaky sort of feeling. Or should you boldly go ahead and pass?

Police say: If he's going 45, pass. If he's going 48-50, don't.

Why? "When conditions are good," says Delaware's Col. John P. Ferguson, "we all go five miles below the limit so people will pass. But when you see us right on the limit we have some special reason for knowing extra caution is needed. Maybe we've had a rash of accidents. Maybe rush-hour traffic is about to begin—or there's a ball game two miles ahead. This is our way of warning the driver."

2. How many stops must you make at a stop sign? You're second in line. You've already stopped once behind the car ahead, and you've had a clear view of the road you're entering.

Does the law insist that you stop again when you reach the sign?

Police say: Not necessarily—provided you cause no danger. The law in most states says you must stop once, does not say exactly where. If you've already made one good safe stop, and are seen to be cautious, police will usually approve of your coming out without a second stop.

But don't try to apply this if your car is third or fourth in line. Cars farther back are presumed to be in danger if they try to "follow the leader" past a stop sign—because they can't see or be seen by cross traffic.

May you "follow the leader" here?

Police say: Only if you are on, or past, the crosswalk. If not, you must wait.

But suppose you are half way through a legal turn and get blocked by traffic, or suppose you have to stop on the crosswalk?

Police say: If there's danger, don't try to push on through. Stop right where you are, embarrassing though it may be.

4. Do police "tolerate" slight speed violations? The sign says 60 mph. on a fine, empty turnpike. But you see some cars doing 65 and 70. And you've heard rumors that police grant "speed tolerance" to careful drivers. Is this true? May you go 65 or 66?

Police say: In many areas, 65 perhaps—but not 66.

Why? Because 66 seems to be the speed on today's turnpikes at which most patrols judge that real danger begins.

However police say you should never count on "tolerance." While most patrols today won't stop you from going three to five miles over the posted limit (when it's obviously safe) you are nevertheless dealing with the judgment of individual officers. Some allow no tolerance at all.

And never look for tolerance 1) in built-up areas, 2) on school bus roads at school time or 3) when your good sense tells you it isn't safe.

5. Is it ever safe to pass on the right? A slow driver blocks the road. You sound your horn again and again, yet he won't pull over. Can you then pass him on the right?

Police say: Not on most city streets. Never on a narrow two-lane road, since you'd have to pass on the shoulder, one of the most dangerous things a driver can do.

But most states do now permit right-side passing "with caution" on four- and six-lane expressways.

6. What's the point of no return in passing? Just as you're overtaking a car in a legal passing zone, you come to a no-passing line or sign. You're already out in the left lane. Must you go back—which can be dangerous—or may you complete the pass?

Police say: The law in most states says: "Go back." You've been trapped by one of those nasty little road hazards that engineers are trying to solve. To go back safely, apply brakes firmly before you begin to turn (to avoid a skid), let the other car pull ahead, then ease into line—making sure no car has come up close behind you.

Some states are doing something about such hazards. Michigan and one or two others now have warning signs 300 yards before a passing zone ends.

7. What do you do when a slow driver waves you on? You're traveling 50 in a 55-mph. zone. You're blocked by a truck going uphill at 30. There's a no-passing line. Suddenly the driver waves you to "come on and pass." Should you?

Police say: The truck driver's courteous signal gives you no authority—and if you scare somebody off the road you're to blame. (Other experts say: don't pass a big truck going 30 or more. Such a pass can take a loaded car a full quarter-minute or more.)

Suppose you're behind a farm tractor creeping at only 10 or 15 mph. and you can see clear road ahead?

No officer will tell you to cross the white line. But all good officers know that the law does not cover every situation explicitly. In this, as in many situations, the tests applied are: 1) did you endanger (or scare) anyone, or 2) were you acting safely?

8. Should you stop or barge through a "quick-change" traffic light? You're doing 53 in a 55-mph. zone. A light ahead turns yellow. You have only a few seconds to act. Many drivers face a moment of panic.

Should you 1) kick the gas pedal and race through, or 2) kick the brakes hard, and perhaps slide to a stop?

Police say: There's a simple trick few drivers seem to know that eliminates all panic. "The trick," says Delaware's Capt. Leo E. Daney, "is to lighten your foot on the gas just a trifle when you approach any crossing anywhere."

This doesn't slow you down. But it takes all the extra trouble making "thrust" out of your engine.

"It's only this extra 'thrust,'" says Daney, "that makes it hard for you and your brakes to control the car smoothly—and creates panic."

By lightening pressure on the gas: 1) you get your foot ready for a faster shift to the brakes, and 2) psychologically you're ready for a calm decision.

9. Is the speed limit ever too fast? You're traveling 60 on a rainy road and the rain is getting heavier. Just then you see a reassuring sign: "Speed limit: 60."

Do you have the right to continue at 60?

Police say: No. Slow down immediately.

Why? "When weather gets bad," says Trooper Walt Saxton, "the 'safe-for-conditions' rule (which many drivers never heard of) takes over. Even 40 mph. may be legally too fast."

This is the rule, too, in fog, snow or ice. On icy U.S. 13 (limit: 55) recently a man was arrested for speeding at 20 mph. Going "too fast for conditions," he'd slid into a tree.

10. What's the safe way to sleep in your car? You're on a night trip. Suddenly you're sleepy.

Are there right—and wrong—ways to stop and rest up for the remainder of your trip?

Police say: Yes. Never stop on the shoulder.

Why? To guard yourself against 1) robbery, and 2) other sleepy drivers! Reason: they may see your car, think it's on the road and try to follow it. This has happened—with tragic results.

A better idea: find a turnout and get at least 10 feet from the road. Leave your ignition key in the "accessory" position, then start your left turn blinker.

Can you get police protection while sleeping?

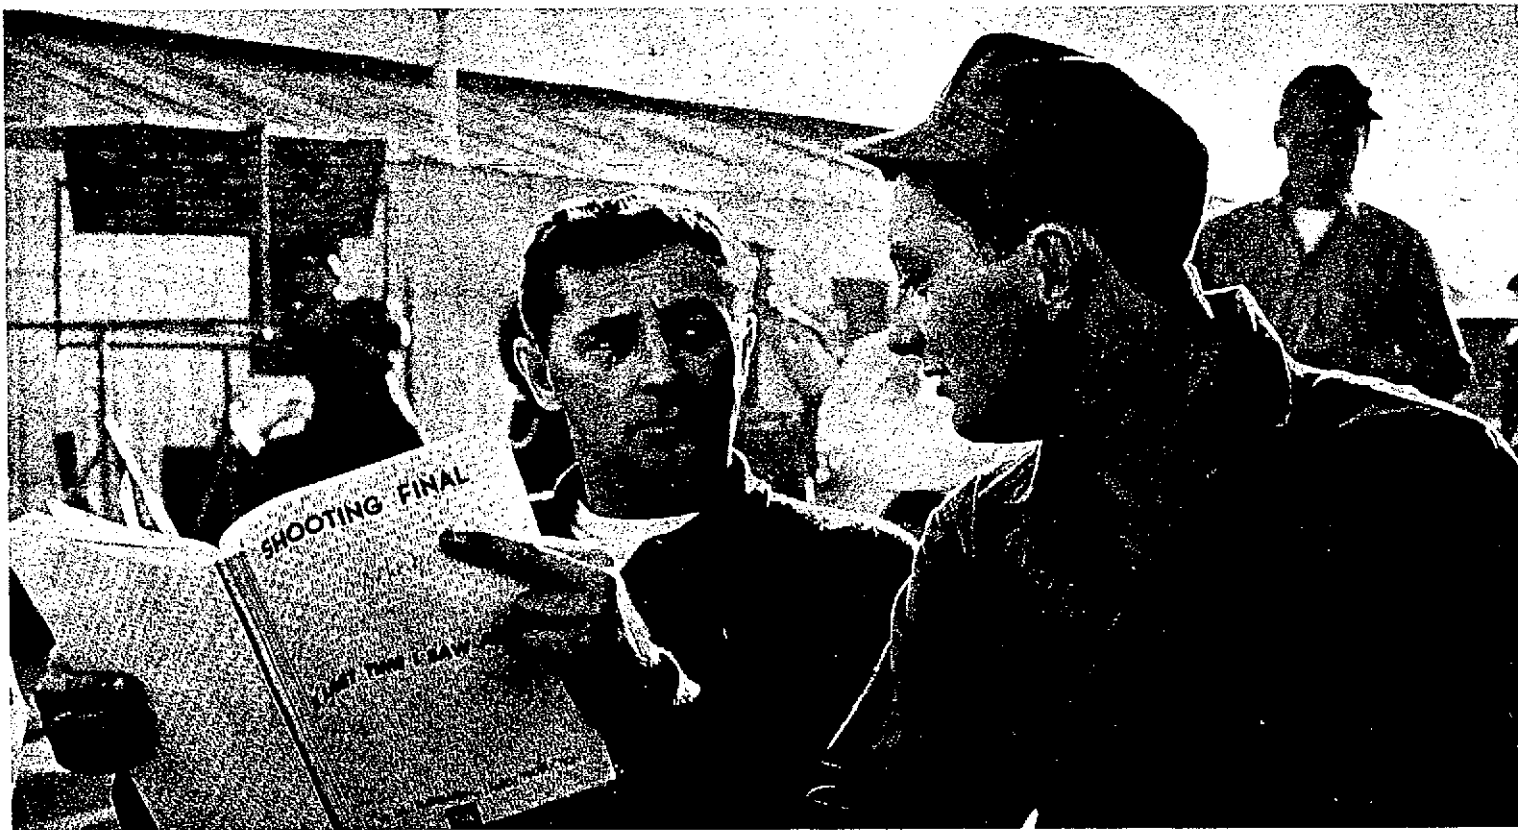

"You certainly can," says Col. Ferguson. "Quite a few drivers now come to stations and ask to park. Police anywhere will be glad to find a safe spot for you, show you the best way to position your car and let you sleep in it. They'll keep an eye on it until you're rested and ready to go on—safely."

Remember this next time you have to sleep on the road—especially if there are women and children in your car!

Mitchum and son, Jim, 19, rehearse lines for latest film, The Last Time I Saw Archie.

ROBERT MITCHUM

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

ONE OF THE BEST family motion pictures produced last year, a film devoid of sex, shock and sadism, is The Sundowners.

Beautifully photographed in Australia, the movie tells the warm, friendly story of a moody sheep drover and the efforts of his wife to settle him down. It was directed by Fred Zinnemann, one of Hollywood's top directors, and stars Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum.

The film will probably be nominated for an Academy Award. In all likelihood so will Fred Zinnemann and Deborah Kerr.

Bob Mitchum, it's safe to say, will be ignored. For in Hollywood, "Mitch" is regarded as a movie star not an actor. He's looked upon as "a name" who has a certain following at the box office but not as a genuine acting talent in the tradition of Spencer Tracy, Charles Laughton, Humphrey Bogart or even Montgomery Clift and Marlon Brando.

He is regarded by producers as "a sort of male Jane Russell," but only because so many Hollywood producers and studio executives are ignorant.

The truth about Mitchum, and it's equally true of many tall, virile, robust players, is that he's embarrassed to be a motion-picture star.

It just doesn't seem masculine or skillful enough.

And yet after 17 years during which he's worked in 99 motion pictures, Robert Mitchum has developed into a fine, sensitive, versatile actor so highly in demand by knowledgeable producers and directors that he turns down from 50 to 100 scripts a year.

For example, John Huston, who directed Clark Gable and Marilyn Monroe in The Misfits, wanted Mitchum for the picture. He had previously directed Mitch on the island of Tobago in Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison, had described him to me as "a rarity among actors, hard-working, non-complaining, amazingly perceptive, one of the most shockingly underrated stars in the business."

A Stand-in for Stunt-men

Mitchum declined The Misfits not because, as one wag suggested, he had previously worked with and waited for Marilyn Monroe (in River of No Return), but because: 1) "I was sure the script I read wouldn't play, and I was right. It had to be rewritten by Huston and Arthur Miller, and 2) I was afraid Huston would kill me. This guy demands more of his actors than any other director I ever worked with. When I was making Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison, I thought to myself, 'This guy is gonna get you yet.' I took an awful lot of punishment in that picture, getting bashed against the rocks, trudging through quicksand. I was lucky to come out of it alive. A few people may think I'm a big, brave, stalwart hero. Fact is I'm just as chicken as the next guy."

That is not the fact. Mitchum has more courage, guts, stamina and physical strength than any other movie star I know. Stunt-men and stand-ins have refused to act in dangerous bits he has pulled off.

Mitchum is without affectation or temperament. He never acts up. He never surrounds himself with stooges or "clans." He is never late on a set. He always knows his lines.

When The Sundowners was previewed in Hollywood and he was congratulated on his performance, Mitch said quickly, "All I did was feed Deborah Kerr some lines. She took it from there. She's really the one who can act."

But listen to Deborah: "Bob Mitchum," she says, "is one of the finest, most perceptive, most talented, most considerate actors I've ever worked with. If any producer wants me for a picture, all he has to say is, 'Bob Mitchum is in it.'"

I've talked to dozens of people who've worked with "old Bob," and what appeals to them most is his combination of masculinity and tenderness.

Laura Nightingale, a wardrobe girl, says, "I remember a scene Deborah Kerr was playing with Bob. In rehearsal she gestured toward her feet. Bob didn't say a word. He seemed to know instinctively that her feet hurt from the sharp rocks she had to stand on."

"He just knelt down, unlaced her white sneakers, removed them and massaged her feet. It was lovely and compassionate the way he did it. No show, no affectation, just all feeling. Then he put her sneakers back on and said kind of brusquely the way he does to hide his tenderness, 'Gotta keep you alive for the next scene.' Then he walked away. Deborah was so touched she cried."

Says Mitch: 'I'm the poor jerk carrying a lunch pail to his job'

Basil Fenton-Smith, a sound engineer, told me how Mitchum fools most men. "You expect him," he explained, "to be a wild, careless man-of-steel, adventurous and flip. But in truth he has a heart as tender as a woman's ought to be and frequently isn't."

"I remember on one film we did in the West Indies, a native boy was hurt by a falling coconut, and one of our special effects men fainted on the set. Both were taken to the hospital. Bob was the only member of the cast thoughtful enough to visit them."

What makes Mitchum so completely likeable is his genuine interest in the welfare of other people.

"I'm an actor," he says, "only because I don't know any other job at which I can make so much dough. Let's face it, being a movie star doesn't call for skill."

"One of the greatest actors who ever lived was Rin Tin Tin, and he was a dog."

"I'm ashamed of being an actor because people accord you the respect and fame and attention you don't merit. The other month I was on a plane flying back to Maryland where I've got my home, raise horses and keep away from the crowds. And some guy sits down next to me. He's an executive with some steel company. And he says, 'My wife and I were discussing you only the other night.' 'Well, sir,' I said. 'All I can tell you is that my wife and I sure weren't discussing you, and you're a bigger man than I am.'"

A Lunch Pail Job

"Then I get letters from all sorts of people. Recently a lady who teaches blind children wrote me. Blind children attend movies, you know, and this teacher wrote, 'My pupils believe that when you say something on the screen, whatever it is, it must be true. Your voice has the ring of honesty and sincerity in it.'"

"Stuff like that," Mitchum continues, "bothers the hell out of me. It's embarrassing, because I'm only a survivor of the Stone Age of American middle class culture. I'm no hero or paragon."

"You know what people see in me? You know my public image? I'm the poor jerk carrying a lunch pail to his job. The public looks at me and says, 'If that guy can make it, so can I.'"

"I became an actor because I needed a job. Nothing in me cried out for artistic expression. Now I've got my own production company. I own what's left of my soul. I work all the time, because I've got a wife and three kids to support and obligations to meet and taxes to pay. But I'm not much of an actor."

"The reason I'm in demand is that I work fast and cheap. I don't waste the producer's money. I'm too middle class for that. I've got all the middle class virtues. That's why I snicker when people call me a rebel. I'm no rebel. So I once went to jail for 50 days on a marijuana rap. Ever since I've been so damn middle class it hurts. Also lucky. Just look at my record, son. Look at the racing form and study my past performances, and you've got to come to the conclusion that I'm the luckiest sonofagun ever born."

The record shows that Robert Mitchum was born in Bridgeport, Conn., on August 6, 1917. His father died when Bob was 18 months old, leaving a pregnant wife no money but three children.

As a youngster Bob was shunted back and forth between various members of the family in Connecticut and South Carolina. When Bob's sister was 6 years old she went into vaudeville. Mitch's grandmother who had a farm in Delaware looked after Bob while his mother went touring with his sister. Later the whole family settled in Delaware.

When Mitchum was 16 he fell in love with a 14-year-old girl, Dorothy Spence, who attended the Caesar Rodney High School. Later when the Mitchum family moved to Hollywood, Bob hitchhiked back to Delaware at least once a year to see his girlfriend.

"We were married," Dorothy recalls, "on March 16, 1940, in Dover at a parsonage. We borrowed money to take the Greyhound to California. The fellow who loaned us the bus fare was Carrol Righter, the astrologer. Bob had done some promotional work for him previously."

Mitchum in Hollywood tried to make a living as a radio writer but did so poorly that he and his wife moved in with his family.

"Ten of us," she says, "lived in a two-room house with my in-laws until our first son Jimmy was born. Then Bob went to work at Lockheed. He also did some Little Theatre work. He would report at Lockheed at midnight and work all through the early morning. He was a shaper operator, feeding metal into machines. He hated the job, couldn't sleep, couldn't eat."

"Finally he became quite ill and grew totally blind. The doctor told him it was nervous blindness and that he'd have to give up his job."

According to Mitchum, it was his mother and an agent, Paul Wilkins, who suggested that he become a movie actor.

Hollywood Success

He applied to Bill Boyd, who was starring in the Hopalong Cassidy series. Boyd asked him if he could ride a horse. Bob swore he could, although he'd only ridden a few old plough horses on the farm back in Delaware. On his first film-horse he was thrown three times before he could "stick." He stayed on for seven more Hopalong films, mostly as a "heavy." Then he switched from westerns to war films. He did so well in Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo that he was signed to a term contract in 1944.

Other than for eight months as Private Mitchum in World War II, Mitchum has been working in films ever since.

Six-feet, one-inch tall, with light brown hair, hazel eyes and a 190-pound body that's getting a little fat around the middle, Mitch is miraculously free of the pretensions Hollywood fame develops in stars.

He treats his wife and three children, Jim, 19; Chris, 17, and Petrine, his 8-year-old daughter, with a seemingly surface or casual affection. But according to Jim, a neophyte actor, "That's because Dad's not basically a demonstrative man. What emotion he can show, he saves for the screen. But what love he feels, he saves for us."

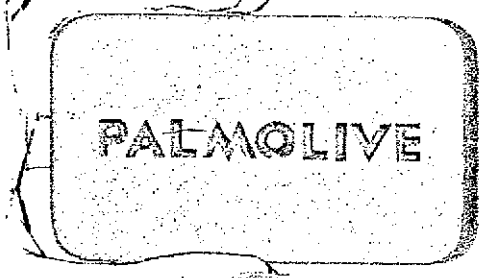

"I only hope I can be half the actor and half the man he is. Not because he's my father, but you can ask anyone and they'll tell you the truth. Bob Mitchum is one helluva nice guy."

HAVE YOU TRIED the new frozen patty shells? Made of the finest puff pastry, frozen into flat disks, they rise to lofty heights in the oven and flake at the touch of a fork. Magic! For a Lenten luncheon, as high-style as a catered affair, we filled these fragile shells with a luscious creamed mixture of tuna, mushrooms and hard-cooked eggs. As an accompaniment we added frozen Italian green beans, also quite new, in a flavorful pimiento dressing. Start with hot tomato juice and cheese-stuffed celery cut into bite-sized pieces. For dessert: strawberry sundaes.

Tuna, Eggs and Mushrooms in Patty Shells

- |  |                                     |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 6 packaged frozen patty shells                 | 2 cups milk                         |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine, divided | 1 cup light cream                   |
| 6 tablespoons flour                            | 1 pound fresh mushrooms             |
| 1 teaspoon paprika                             | $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dry sherry        |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt                    | $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon rosemary     |
| $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon pepper                  | 2 cans (7 oz. each) solid pack tuna |
|  | 6 eggs, hard-cooked and halved      |

Bake patty shells as directed on package. Melt  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter; blend in flour, paprika, salt and pepper. Combine milk and cream; add all at once; cook and stir over medium heat until smooth and thickened; cover; cook over low heat 10 minutes. Meanwhile sauté mushroom crowns in remaining butter until golden brown and tender; drain on absorbent paper; add to sauce with remaining ingredients. Heat to serving temperature; serve in patty shells. Makes six servings.

Green Beans Pimiento

- |  |                           |
|--|---------------------------|
| 1 tablespoon instant minced onion      | 1 cup water               |
| 3 to 4 tablespoons butter or margarine | Salt and pepper to taste  |
| 1 can (4 oz.) pimientos, drained       | 1 tablespoon cornstarch   |
| 1 tablespoon vinegar                   | 4 cups cooked green beans |

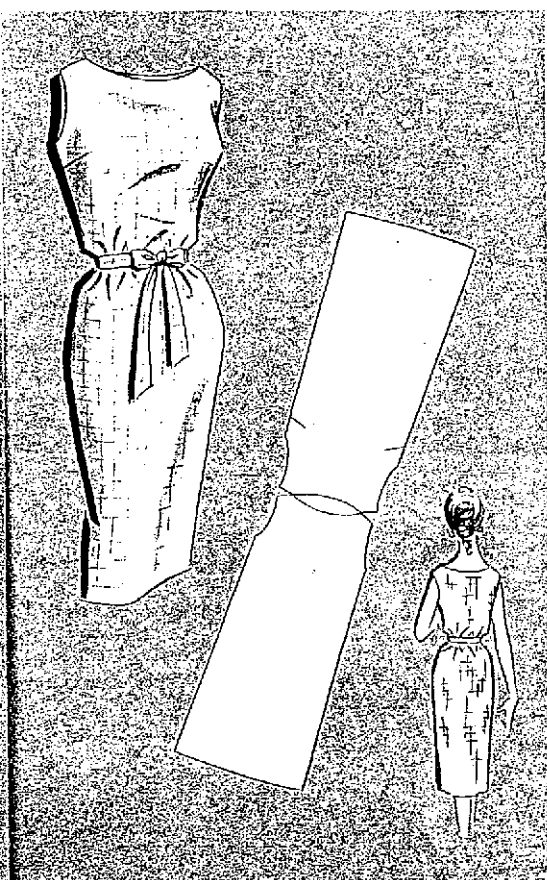

Cook onion in butter about 5 minutes (do not brown). Chop pimientos; stir in with vinegar and water; season to taste. Dissolve cornstarch in a little cold water; stir into hot sauce; cook, stirring, until thickened. Add beans; heat through. Makes six servings.

Cheese slicer: Serving cheese becomes easier with this new solid teakwood slicer (above). You can regulate the cutting arm to obtain any desired thickness of slice. And the teak, which resists water, allows scrubbing after each use. $6. Gift House, Dept. PP, 15 Beekman Ave., Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Tote step: Here's convenience for many fix-up jobs around the house—an aluminum tool carrier (above) that also turns any standard ladder into a safety ladder with a comfortable, broad step that helps reduce fatigue as well as danger of falls. It weighs two pounds, measures 12 3/4" x 6" and attaches to a ladder instantly without tools. $7.95. Lafayette, Dept. PP, Box 997, Dos Palos, Calif.

Steam bath: Now steam vapor baths become practical at home with this new cabinet (right). The baths are said to be relaxing and refreshing. The fiberglass cabinet passes through doorways only 26" wide. It plugs into any household outlet, requires no plumbing, has a steam generator that heats quickly and is thermostatically controlled. For details: Battle Creek Equipment Co., Dept. PP, Battle Creek, Mich.

Chrome protector: Spray a new clear coating on your car chrome and it guards against pitting and rusting caused by salt in the air or on the streets. In tests, a single application has lasted as long as a year without peeling, cracking or clouding. The coating also is useful for boat hardware, aluminum furniture, other metals such as copper and brass. A 16-oz. aerosol can: $1.59. Sears, Roebuck, Dept. PP, 925 S. Homian Ave., Chicago 7, Ill.

Spot kit: No bigger than a pack of matches, a new kit can be carried in purse or pocket—ready for use anywhere to instantly remove accidental spots from clothes. It consists of a small cloth towel saturated with cleaning concentrate and sealed in foil. It eradicates grease and other spots, even lipstick, without leaving rings, dries quickly. Eight for $1. White Frost Chemicals, Dept. PP, Greenwich, Conn.

Home fairway: Here's news for golfers (right)—a nylon carpet that comes complete with putting green, sand traps, roughs and water hazards. You can use it in den, office or living room for putting practice or to play a four-hole parlor game with friends. And when it's not in use for golf, it makes an attractive, informal area rug. It measures 6' x 9', comes in both rectangular and oval shapes. For details, write: Carter Brothers Carpet Mills, Dept. PP, Chattanooga 5, Tenn.

Who Speaks The Truth About The Pope?

Shall we take the word of 20th-century critics who scoff at the Holy Father and deny that he is the Vicar of Christ?

Or shall we believe the New Testament and the clear testimony of scholars dating back to the first century of Christendom?

Catholics believe that the primacy of Peter is clearly established in the words of Jesus: "...thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church...and I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven." It is a fact of history...also confirmed by the Bible...that the other Apostles accepted Peter as their head.

Some who reject this view say Peter was not the first Bishop of Rome, which is historically an office held only by the Pope. Others assert Peter was never in Rome. Yet Eusebius, faithful chronicler of many of the events of the second century, wrote: "Peter the Apostle, the first Pontiff of the Christians, when he had first founded the church at Antioch, proceeds to Rome, where, preaching the Gospel, he continues 25 years as Bishop of that city." Peter himself established his presence in Rome in his very first epistle, which closed with the greeting: "The Church which is in Babylon (Rome) salutes you."

Those who would deny the apostolic origin of the Catholic Church, and the succession of the Popes, can find no support for their view in the writings of the early-century Christians. In contrast, St. Irenaeus, Bishop of Lyons, who died in the year 202, wrote: "We must obey those in the Church who have true succession from the Apostles, for with their episcopal succession, they have received the gift of certainty in the truth according to God's will." Third-century scholars Tertullian and St. Cyprian were equally firm in calling upon Christians to "hear the Church."

The Church, according to the New Testament, was to be a visible thing—an organized society. This is evidenced by Peter's instructions to the Christian presbyters of Asia Minor to "...tend the flock of God which is among you" (1 Peter, 5:1, 2); and St. Paul's address to the presbyters of Ephesus: "Take heed to yourselves and to the whole flock in which the Holy Spirit has placed you as bishops..."

If you would like to know the truth about the Popes from Peter to John XXIII...how the Papacy has survived through nearly 2,000 years against powerful enemies who sought to destroy it...why an overwhelming majority of Christians throughout the world regard the Holy Father as the duly appointed Vicar of Christ on earth—write today for our pamphlet: "A Short Story of the Popes." It will be sent free of cost—in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. PR-11.

THE PHOTOS on these pages show what happens when a real poodle meets a stuffed toy poodle—a friendship flames and dies. The real poodle's name is Ge-dunk, and he's owned by photographer Robert Smith. When Smith purchased the toy poodle (he calls it Fi-Fi) and brought it home, he feared that Ge-dunk might be jealous. Instead the opposite occurred: Ge-dunk was fascinated by Fi-Fi, sniffing at her in a curious but friendly fashion (left), even trying to play with her (right). The stuffed Fi-Fi, of course, was unresponsive. Finally a tired and disillusioned Ge-dunk went off by himself, but with a look on his face that seemed to say: "But if it isn't a poodle, then what is it?" ■

CORN-CRISPED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
Dip in 1/2 cup Pet Evaporated Milk (thin milk just won't do)

Roll in mixture of:
1 cup Kellogg's Corn Flake Crumbs
1 tsp. Accent
1 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper

Place chicken, skin side up, in shallow baking pan lined with Heavy-Duty Reynolds Wrap. Do not crowd. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) about one hour, or until tender. If less crisp crust is desired, lay a piece of Reynolds Wrap over chicken. No need to turn pieces during baking. Serves 4 or 5

SCHOOL

by ED KIESTER

"I WON'T GO TO SCHOOL! I won't! I won't!"
Sound familiar? Most children, at some time in their lives, rebel against going to school. When they do, most parents try to ride out the storm. If this doesn't work, they may resort to the woodshed or its equivalent. One way or the other, the child is back in class in a hurry. In a day or two, the squall is forgotten.

But for some super-sensitive children—three out of 100—nothing seems to work. Kicking and screaming with terror, such a child may remain out of school for days, weeks, months or even years. Spanking seems to do no good whatever. Coddling the child only reinforces his resistance.

He is the victim of a pathetic emotional problem—one that seems to be increasing. Psychologists call it school phobia.

School phobia means, literally, a dread of school, although the real roots of the problem lie at home. Now the target of widespread psychological research, the disturbance still is little known and little understood by parents and educators. Many teachers have seen its symptoms, yet have never recognized it as an emotional disorder.

Most victims are 8 to 10, though school phobia may also flare up in older children. Those whose outbreaks come early are lucky: their cases often can be straightened out in a few weeks or months. Cases in older children generally are far more difficult.

When overlooked or neglected, school phobia can be one of childhood's most disabling disturbances. Its effects can be far-reaching. "The child who is afraid of dogs, horses or streetcars can still lead a fairly normal life," says Dr. Stuart M. Finch, who has been investigating school phobia at the University of Michigan Children's Psychiatric Service. "But the child who is afraid of school cannot. The longer he is out, the more difficult it is for him to re-establish himself."

Back to the Classroom

"School phobia feeds upon itself," says Dr. Samuel Waldfogel, a staff psychologist at the Judge Baker Guidance Center, Boston. "Each day, cut off from his normal associations, the child's life becomes more artificial, more unhealthy."

Thus therapists strive always for a quick return to school. While it won't always solve the underlying problem, it will halt dangerous deterioration. In one recent case, a New England boy returned to school after being out six years. Already he is showing improvement. But a girl, 14, after four years of treatment, is only now willing to visit the school after class hours.

Who gets school phobia? Surprisingly, its victims are usually bright, well-behaved and proficient in class. But they are likely to be timid and to miss school frequently for vague reasons. Each day they resist going to school a little more. Finally, after a weekend or holiday, they dig in and refuse to go at all.

Some actually become ill, and others develop unrealistic fears: "I'm afraid of the dogs on the way," "I might be kidnapped," "My teacher is mean." When his mother applies pressure, the child goes into a wild panic. He may throw a tantrum, scream, wail, faint or vomit.

"His terror is acute, real, and it baffles his mother," Dr. Waldfogel says. "She threatens, bribes, wheedles, reasons, pleads. She points out that his fears are unrealistic—the dog is a friendly St. Bernard, the teacher is really quite pleasant. She may arrange for a different teacher or a different school. The phobia goes with him."

Yet because of their dramatic nature, such symptoms often are quickly recognized, treated and—nine out of 10 times—checked. School phobia in an older child is more stubborn. It builds gradually, lying just below the surface. The change from elementary to junior high school may trigger it. So may a death or illness in the family.

Is School Phobia Normal?

Often victims understand their problem, but are powerless to solve it. Extensive psychotherapy may be necessary. "At older ages the outlook is anything but bright," says Dr. Leon Eisenberg of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. Of one group of victims over 11 given long-term therapy at Johns Hopkins, fewer than half returned to school.

Many normal children show symptoms like those of school phobia at times. Your own child may have fears, complain of "mean" teachers or vague illnesses. With normal children, however, these come and go quickly. With school phobia victims they persist for months or years.

The school phobia victim also differs from the hooky-player. Unlike Tom Sawyer, who skipped school to swim or fish, the phobic child heads straight home.

What causes school phobia? Most psychologists agree that the child is not really afraid of school. His real fear is of separation—of leaving home and mother. And often mother innocently encourages him.

One teacher, for instance, had worked hard to prepare a school phobia victim for an all-day field trip. At first his mother agreed. Then she insisted he come home for lunch, and awakened all his old fears.

The typical school phobia mother is nervous, anxious and overprotective. She frets about her child's health, keeps him home at every sniffle and tries to shield him from reality. Unsure of herself, she zigzags between strictness and leniency: she may spank her child and then beg his pardon.

Some take a perverse pride in their child's

PHOBIA

How to handle school phobia: firm mother accompanies child to school.

School phobia's danger signals

Experts say that school phobia often can be spotted long before it actually "breaks out." Here's what parents and teachers should look for:

PARENTS

- 1 A growing and persistent reluctance to attend school marked by arguments and excuses.
- 2 Inability to eat breakfast or nausea following breakfast.
- 3 Vague "pains" and "illnesses" that disappear at mid-morning, don't appear on weekends or holidays.
- 4 Unreasonable fears about school, such as "Maybe the school will burn down" or "The teacher won't let me go to the bathroom."
- 5 Dwelling on minor school incidents, such as punishment or scolding of another child.
- 6 A history of nightmares and night terrors and a fear of being left alone by the parents.

TEACHERS

- 1 Sporadic absences for vague reasons.
- 2 Frequent crying, easily set off.
- 3 Unreasonable fears.
- 4 Timidity, shyness and withdrawal from others.
- 5 Evidence that the child is overprotected.

clinging. "It proves to the mothers that they are indispensable," says Dr. John Coolidge, chief psychiatrist at the Boston center. Parents may even induce a child to cling. One couple never took an evening out until their child was 18 months old. Finally, at the urging of the pediatrician, they hired a baby-sitter, went as far as the corner drugstore, agonized a while—and came home. The child grew up babyish.

Fathers often are cut from the same cloth as mothers. Uncertain and overprotective, they dodge discipline and the fatherly role. One researcher says a phobic household is "like having two mothers."

Because mother and father roles everywhere are blurred, some researchers consider school phobia a disease of modern society. Certainly it is increasing. When a team from Judge Baker investigated school phobia in the Newton, Mass., schools, officials there predicted three to five cases a year. The number was more than three times that many.

Only a few schools, psychologists agree, handle school phobia cases properly. Knowing little of the disorder and feeling somewhat to blame, they waver between punishment and sympathy. Some permit the child to study at home for years instead of insisting on a goal of returning to class. Although many cases can be quickly set right by a trained guidance counselor, few schools are equipped to furnish one.

What Parents Must Do

What can be done about school phobia? First, parents and schools must be more aware of it. Dr. Coolidge says parents and teachers frequently are astonished to learn that the child has an emotional problem. "Until then, their attitude has been, 'Oh, that's just Johnny. He's always been that way,'" says Dr. Coolidge.

Yet school phobia flashes obvious danger signals to both parent and teacher (see box, above). When such signals are spotted, a parent should:

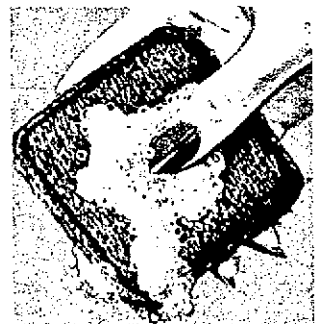

- Consult the school for help in treatment.
- Stand firm in insisting that the child attend school every day, even if part-time.
- Remove benefits of staying home, such as all-day TV.
- Encourage stronger friendships.
- Try to show the unrealistic basis of the child's fears.
- Accompany him to school and stay with him temporarily, if necessary.

A teacher or principal should: Call the situation to the parents' attention. Give the child more care, even mother him. See that he keeps up with work, even if he cannot attend regularly. Encourage others to befriend him, and guard him from bullies and teases.

Most important: don't treat him as a truant, and don't punish him.

In cases where the student is on the brink, such treatment can keep him in class, Dr. Waldfogel says. Even if he has already missed school, firmness mixed with sympathy may coax him back. Parents and therapists should set a firm date for his return and stick to it. In Newton, well over half the victims returned to class after 10 or fewer informal visits to an "emergency clinic" set up within the schools.

More important than stopgap treatment, however, is prevention—and this is strictly up to parents. "To prevent school phobia," Dr. Waldfogel says, "a parent, particularly a mother, must realize something about herself. Part of parenthood is preparing a child to leave home. That parent is best whose main objective is to help his child to grow up and to achieve independence."

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by ELAINE STRITCH

EDITOR'S NOTE: Elaine Stritch, star of TV's My Sister Eileen, is one of the most versatile female performers in show business. Born in Detroit, Elaine came to New York for drama lessons, worked in summer stock for experience, then launched her Broadway career in the musical revue Angel in the Wings. After many

TV spots, she did straight dramatic work with The Theatre Guild, won a New York Critics' Award for her 1954 performance in Bus Stop. In My Sister Eileen she plays Ruth, the older sister whose dual job is to protect Eileen from men while securing one for herself. Here are some of Elaine's favorite jokes:

HAVE YOU HEARD about the domineering wife who confiscated her husband's salary? Each Friday, she would take his paycheck, cash it, then let him have $6.

One evening the milquetoastish little husband came home with sensational news. He had bought a lottery ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes, and he had just won $160,000.

"That's marvelous," the wife conceded, "just marvelous, Henry. Only where'd you get the money for the ticket?"

BEHIND EVERY successful man you find a proud wife and an amazed mother-in-law.

THE JUDGE was talking to the defendant. "You admit burglary," he said, "but the district attorney charges you with breaking into the dress shop three times and only stealing once."

"Well, your honor," the thief explained. "It was like this. I broke in once and stole a dress. But my wife made me go back twice and exchange it."

LITTLE DANNY was crying when his father came home from work.

"What's the matter?" Daddy asked. "Mommy ran over my new bike," Danny bawled. "She ran over it when she backed the car out of the garage."

Daddy shook his head. "How many times," he asked, "have I told you not to leave your bike on the front porch?"

A DRUNK WANDERED into a telephone booth, dropped a dime into the slot.

"Number, please," said the operator. "Whattya mean Number, p-please?" the drunk repeated. "You got my dime. Now gimme my chocolate bar."

A WILDCATTER from Houston, Tex., struck it rich, brought in a great new oil-field. A gruff fellow, he was taken in hand by his wife, who had always wanted to become a member of high society.

She attempted to re-make her uncouth husband. She bought him new clothes, improved his grammar, took him to art galleries, but somehow she could never get him to reduce his rowdiness.

Eventually the couple went to Florida, then moved on to Puerto Rico, then checked in at a very swank club in Nassau.

The first day on the beach in the Bahamas, the wife heard someone cry out, "Help! Help! I'm drowning. Help!"

She raced down to the water's edge. And sure enough it was her husband shouting.

"Please, George," she called to him, "not so loud."

ANOTHER TEXAS joke about another fresh-made millionaire. This big Texan walked into an auto show room, said to the salesman, "I want 10 Rolls-Royces in 10 different colors. Here's my card. When you get the autos ship 'em down to me in Fort Worth. Just send the bill."

The salesman, an Englishman, was shocked. "But, sir," he began. "This is... I must say, this is incredible."

"Okay," the Texan said. "If that's the way it is, I'll pay cash."

Now you can buy your Spencer or your Spirella

refreshes your taste
—"air-softens" every puff

• menthol fresh

• rich tobacco taste

• modern filter, too

Take a puff... it's Springtime! Gentle and soft as a springtime breeze off distant hills is the smoke of a Salem cigarette. Invisible porous openings in its High Porosity paper breathe in fresh air... yes, "air-soften" every puff, to make Salem the most refreshing cigarette of all. With all this, you get Salem's superb tobaccos, too, for fine, rich taste. Smoke refreshed... smoke Salem!

WHY DO YOU CALL IT MY BIRTHDAY SUIT?

BECAUSE YOU WERE BORN

I HAD IT EVER SINCE I WAS LITTLE, HUH?

THAT'S RIGHT.

I GUESS THAT'S WHY IT'S STARTIN' TO GET A LITTLE TIGHT AROUND
MY STUMMICK!

YOU LIKE
FRANKIE, DON'T YA?

OF COURSE.
HAND ME

DOES

OF COURSE.
TURN LOOSE OF THE WASHRAG!

YOU'RE BREAKIN'
MY FOOT!

I AM NOT!

DOES MR.
AND MRS.
WILSON
FRANKIE.

I'M SURE THEY DO. EVERYONE LIKES FRANKIE.

WHY DO

'CAUSE
FRANKIE
HE ONLY TAKES A BATH
WEEK!

YOU TOLD ME IF I DIDN'T TAKE A BATH EVERY
WOULDN'T LIKE ME.

EVERYBODY LIKES
FRANKIE! YOU SAID SO!

WHY CAN'T I TAKE JUST ONE BATH A WEEK?
AN' IF I START GETTIN' LONESOME, I CAN TAKE MORE BATHS.

SIDES, I DON'T WANT TOO MANY FRIENDS!

DO YOU SUPPOSE
FRANKIE REALLY ONLY TAKES ONE BATH A WEEK?

I DOUBT IT, BUT YOU KNOW
HOW KIDS LIKE TO BRAG!

“DECEIVE THE DECEIVERS; THEY ARE MOSTLY AN UNRIGHTEOUS SORT!” -OVID-“WHO DOES NOT KNOW HOW TO DISSIMULATE DOES NOT KNOW HOW TO LIVE.” -PALINGENIUS-

THEY'VE LEFT FOR THAT LITTLE AIRFIELD, BUT YOU HEARD THEM! JOHNNY'LL BE DEAD AND DUMPED OUT BEFORE THEY'RE HALFWAY THERE!

WITH OUR MOST VITAL DEFENSE SECRETS, THEY MUST BE STOPPED! HERE! HELP ME DIG OUT OF HERE!

IN THE POTATO CELLAR, LISTENING POST...

IT WAS BAD YOU MADE OUR LEADERS LOOK FOOLISH! IT IS THEIR ORDERS! I AM TRULY SORRY, JOHNNY!

OH, YOU SENTIMENTAL RUSSIANS! IT'S YOUR JOB! SO GOOD-BY, CHICK...

OH, NO! I KNOW YOUR TRICKS! I MUST NOT LET YOU GET WITHIN ARM'S REACH!

HA-HA-HA! IN THAT CASE, CHICK, OLD COMRADE...

NYET!

I AM FORCED TO USE SOMETHING THAT WILL REACH A LITTLE FARTHER!

HEAVENS, PANKY! SEE? THROUGH THE BUSHES! IT IS NOT OUR COMRADES THAT STILL STAND!

QUICK! WE MUST GET TO THE PLANE! THE COMMUNIST WORLD VICTORY IS IN THESE CASES! DRIVE, HANKY! DRIVE!

TEN MINUTES LATER!

WELL, HANKY AND PANKY SHOULD BE NEARLY TO THE AIRFIELD BY NOW! BETTER TAKE THE SHORT CUT BACK TO THE HOMESTEAD!

WELL, WELL, BOYS! FIGURED YOU'D BE GETTING RESTLESS! BUT YOU DIDN'T HAVE TO DIG OUT!

JOHNNY! YOU'RE ALIVE!

QUICK! WE'VE GOT TO STOP THEM!

HM-M! CHICK AND HIS PAL AREN'T GOING! AS FOR OUR TWO TRAITORS? AH-H! THERE THEY GO NOW, SEE? WAY UP THERE!

BUT THEY'LL MEET THAT TRAWLER! COULD EVEN TAKE A SUB! GOT TO GET TO A PHONE!

NO! HERE! THIS IS THE STUFF THEY THINK THEY'RE CARRYING! MICROFILM OF MAPS AND OUR MOST VITAL PLANS AND SECRET TREATIES, TROOP DISPOSALS... ALL HERE!

B-B-BUT WHAT ARE THEY TAKING TO RUSSIA?

MICROFILMS! LOOK THE SAME, BUT OF DULL OLD POLITICAL SPEECHES, ARTICLES ON BEE CULTURE, ETC., AND FOR DRAWINGS, FILMS OF OLD COMIC STRIPS, MOSTLY!

GREAT SCOTT! WHEN THEY SHOW THAT STUFF TO THE KREMLIN BOYS!

YES! BARRELS OF LAUGHS, EH, BOYS? SHORT ONES! DOUBT IF THE WORLD WILL HEAR MUCH ABOUT THOSE TWO DEFECTORS! HM-M! I MUST CALL MARLENE!

I SAID EIGHT TO FIVE ON JOHNNY! PAY ME!

THAT BET I'M HAPPY TO PAY!

MANY PREDATORS ROAM THE SOUTHWESTERN PLAINS OF AFRICA WHERE THE OSTRICH MAKES ITS HOME...

AND THE PROBLEM OF SUCCESSFULLY HATCHING OUT A CLUTCH OF EGGS IS NO EASY TASK

BUT COOPERATION BETWEEN MR. AND MRS. OSTRICH HAS MADE THE PERPETUATION OF THEIR KIND POSSIBLE

SINCE LEAVING THE PRECIOUS EGGS, UNGUARDING IS INVITING DISASTER, THE PAIR TAKES TURNS BROODING

WHILE OLD DAD OSTRICH IN HIS BLACK SUIT APPEARS AS A LARGE UNINTERESTING MOUND OR TERMITE HILL TO NIGHT PROWLERS

THE ADULT MALE OSTRICH REACHES A HEIGHT OF EIGHT FEET AND MAY WEIGH 300 POUNDS

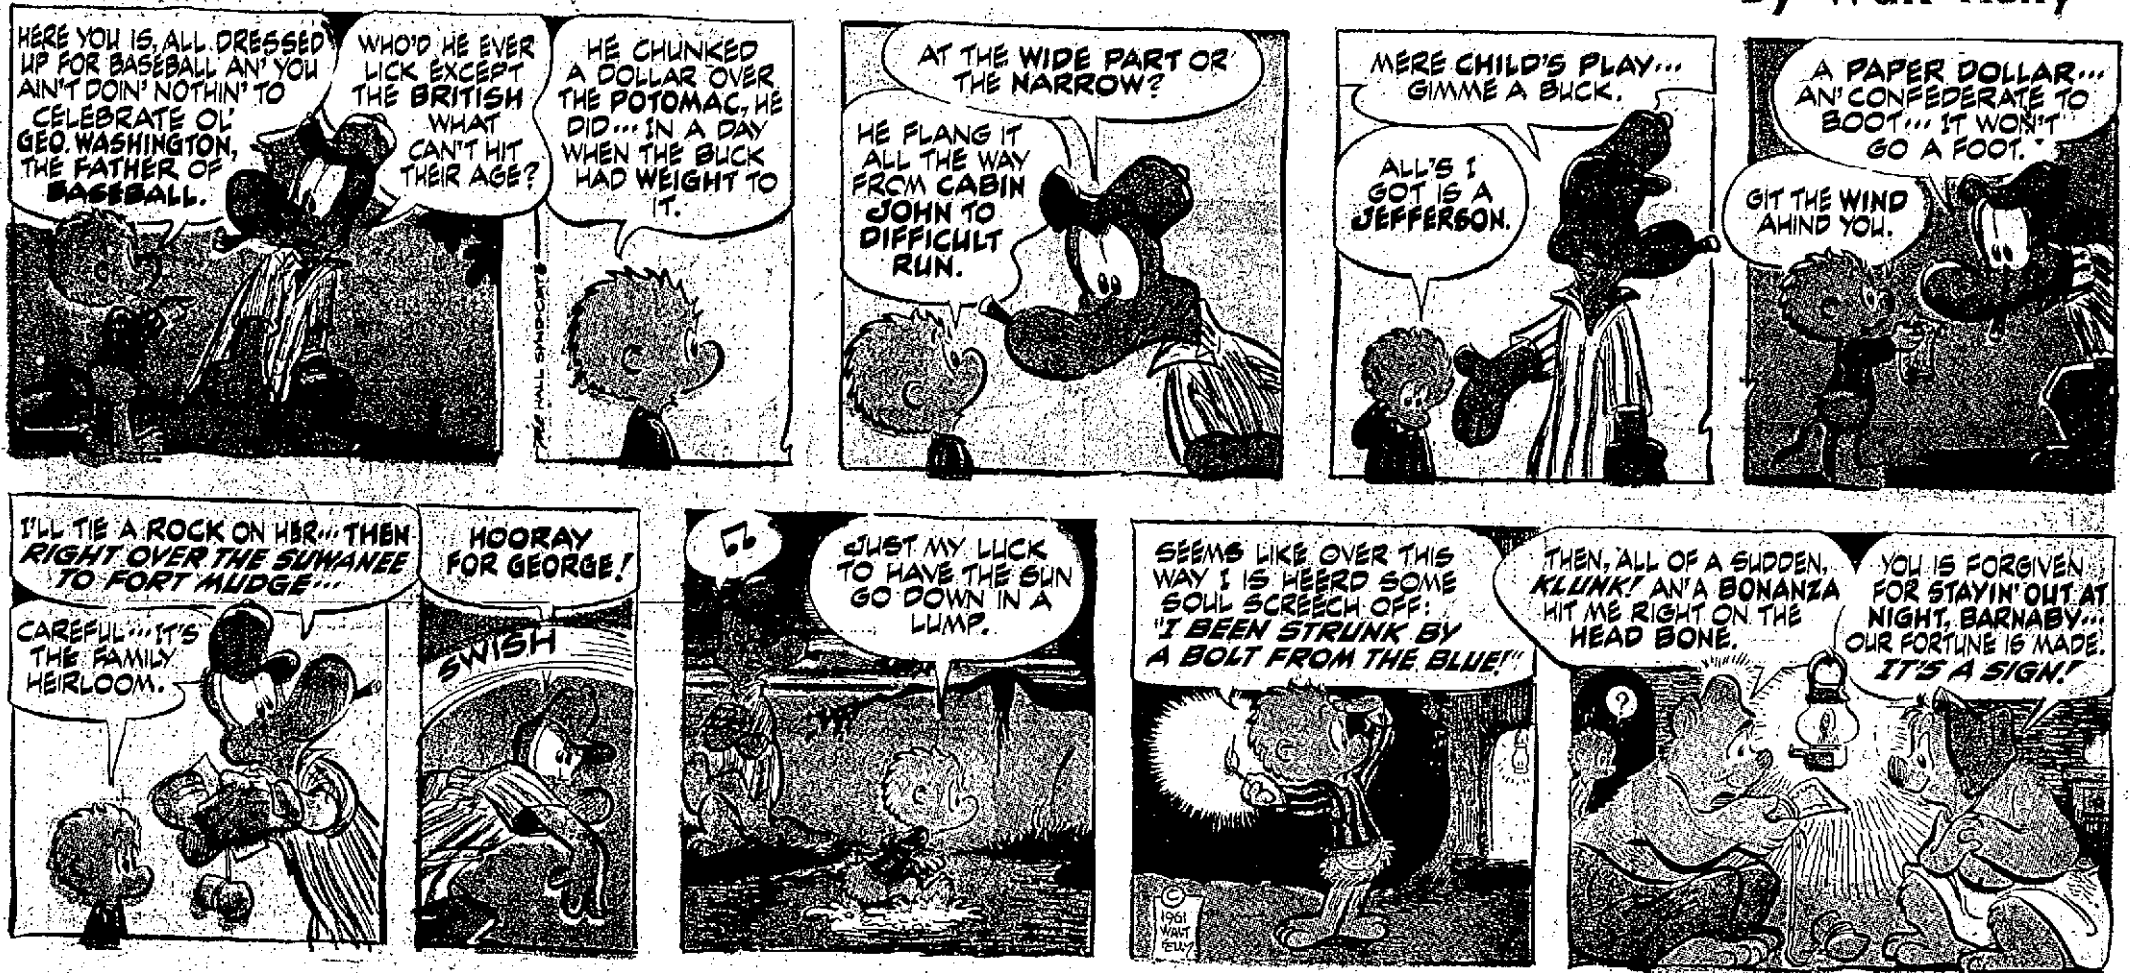

FOR MUTUAL PROTECTION, OSTRICHES ARE OFTEN FOUND IN COMPANY WITH ZEBRAS, GNUS AND ANTELOPES
